Late Seth Jamnabhai Bhagubhai

Late Seth Jamnabhai Bhagubhai.

Born on Poṣa sud 2 nd of Vikrama Saṃvat 1915, Śeth Jamnābhāi was educated at a Vernacular School at Ahmedabad. After leaving the school he studied at home.

Both the parents of Śeth Jamnābhāi—his father Śeth Bhagubhāi Premchand, and his mother Śethāni Pradhānabāi—were highly religious; and it was through their imbibing him from his very infancy, with the Teachings of the Tīrthaṅkaras that he formed the habit of daily-worshipping with due ceremony the images of the Jineśvaras early in the morning, of performing at least one Sāmāyika daily, of observing fasting and vows of penance on auspicious days of the Tīrthaṅkaras, and a strong desire of alleviating the miseries of human beings and of lower animals, and of doing many benevolent works.

Like his elder brother Late Śeth Mansukhbhāi Bhagubhāi, he was very fond of horses and elegant carriages. His horses were strong and attractive. They had moderate work and highly nourishing diet. Śeth Jamnābhāi was very careful that his horses were well taken care of, and he would often like to supervise their feeding. Śeth Jamnābhāi was fond of horse-riding and self-driving. He very often used to drive a pair of beautiful horses in his open wagonette carriage. He was a very careful fast-driver. He had separate pairs of horses for different hours of the day. A pair of horses once used, will not be used again for the day. In the latter part of his life, he had left off self-driving.

Gujarat Spinning and Weaving Co. Ltd. popularly known as Juni (old) mill, was the first cotton mill started by Late Śeth Mansukhbhāi. When the Gujarat Ginning and Manufacturing Mill Ltd, popularly known as Navi (New) mill was built and when it commenced working four years later, the management of the old mill was entrusted into the hands of Śeth Jamnābhāi. The cotton-goods prepared by the mill found market in various parts of India and Africa, and the mill very soon became well-known. Śeth Jamnābhāi used to attend it daily in the morning and in the afternoon. Śeth Jamnābhāi had a very competent hard-working Manager, Mr. Shivābhāi Harilāl Satyavādi who worked under him for more than thirty years. Śeth Jamnābhāi's mill was considered as a very lucky mill and it was unusually free from serious fires and grave accidents. Later on, Śeth Jamnābhāi had Purshottam Spinning and Manufacturing Mill added to his share. After the death of Śeth Mansukhbhāi, the management of Motilāl Hirābhāi Mills popularly known as Teliā Mill was entrusted into the hands of Śeth Jamnābhāi.

It generally happens that with the acquisition of wealth, and expansion of an affluent and ever-increasing prosperous condition, desires for the enjoyment of sensual pleasures and the formation of vicious habits become prominent, and ideas about leading a virtuous life for the betterment of one's condition during the next life and for the attainment of Mokṣa Mārḡa,—the Path of Final Emancipation—become far and far remote. But it was quite different with Śeth Jamnābhāi.

Born and carefully bred up in a rich family with highly religious proclivities, Śeth Jamnābhāi was very polite, God-fearing and benevolent. Anger or any other pernicious passion was never seen on his innocent face. Śeth Jamnābhāi used to perform Pratikramaṇa ceremony daily. He used to observe a vow either of Navakaraṣi (taking of food and drink materials at least 48 minutes after sun-rise) or Pauriṣi (taking of such articles at least 3 hours after sun-rise). He would always take his food and drink, after worshipping the images of Jineśvaras. Although he may be very busy in other matters, he would never dispose off his daily Pūjā hastily. He would always do it patiently and with a perfect equanimity of mind.

He would never entrust the work of bathing the images and making them dry with clean cloths to the Pujāri, but he would do every thing himself.

It was his daily habit to have Snātra Pūjā in the temple. During the Snātra Pūjā, one rupee was daily placed under the image of the Tirthaṅkara and a quarter rupee under the Siddha-cakra. After the ceremony was over, the amount was daily put into the Bhandāra in the temple. At the time of phala-pūjā, two cocoanuts and excellent sweetmeats were daily placed on two svastikas of rice-grains. During the last forty years, all the articles of food prepared in his kitchen were placed before the image of the Tirthaṅkara. The dish of food sufficient for two or three persons was then daily given away to the gardener.

Whenever Śeth Jambabhāi was not able to do Pratikramana or Samāyika even on account of illness, he would daily have one rupee put into the temple-bhandāra. The income of his family-temple amounting to seven or eight hundred rupees, was sent every year for the maintenance of the temple at Haripura.

Śeth Jambabhāi used to observe four separate fasts during the Paryuṣana Holidays. Besides these, he used to observe a fast on Jñāna Pancami, Mauna Ekādaśi, Kārtika sud 15, Caitra sud 15 and on Āśāda sud 15. He did not take food after sun-set. He was using boiled water for drinking. He had stopped taking green vegetables and fruits on twelve days during the month, and he did not take even plantains or mangoes on those days.

Śeth Jambabhāi had a large garden to his bungalow in which rose-flower plants and other plants yielding flowers suitable for worship in Jaina temples, were grown in abundance. These flowers were daily sent to several temples in the city and to the temples at Kalol and Bhoyani. Out of 2000 flowers which was the usual daily out-put, 600 flowers were sent through his māli (gardener) for the temple at Kalol and for Bhoyani-400 for his own temple, and the remaining 1000 flowers were distributed to various temples in the city. In case of greater or lesser out-put of flowers, the number of flowers sent to each temple will be correspondingly increased or decreased.

Śeth Jamnābhāi had 35 servants in his bangalo who can do any piece of service at the slightest hint, but when one daily sees Śeth Jamnābhāi getting down, from his Brougham, Carriage yoked to white horses, either at Śeth Hathising Kesarising's Bāharni Wadi outside Delhi Gate or at the temple of Mahāvīra Swāmi Bhagavān on Richey Road (which it was his daily habit of visiting), himself carrying a number of flowers in a clean cloth for the worship of Jineśvara Bhagavān in those temples, one cannot withhold the impression that he was the true devotee of Jineśvara Bhagavāns.

Śeth Jamnābhāi was very fond of hearing various Pūjās composed by different Ācāryas of former times. He was a member of Śeth Joitārām's Toli—an assembly formed by Sheth Joitārāmabbhāi—a highly religious man,—with the object of teaching others the recitation of the various Pūjās composed by different Ācāryas, with the accompaniment of cymbals and other musical instruments. The members used to go voluntarily in a body, to different parts of the city wherever they were requested to go, for Pūjā. Being a member of the said Toli—Śeth Jamnābhāi knew the correct tunes of various Pūjās and he would very often recite them quite correctly with the accompaniment of musical instruments. Even during the latter portion of his life, Śeth Jamnābhāi will not miss an opportunity of going to these Pūjās, however busy he may be in other matters.

Śeth Jamnābhāi was rendering much service to Sādhus and Sādhvis by supplying them medical aid and the materials useful in their illness. Every year, Śeth Jamnābhāi was giving clothes, utensils, and other materials worth about three to five thousand rupees to all the Sādhūs and Sādhvis in the town.

Śeth Jamnābhāi entertained very high respect for his ancestral Guru, Pannyās Dayāvimalaji and his disciples, Pannyās Saubhāgyavimalaji and Muni Mahārāja Muktiavimalaji. During their illnesses, Śeth Jamnābhāi had obtained excellent medical help and spent hundreds of rupees on each occasion. Even after their deaths, he spent thousands of rupees in Pūjas and Mahotsavas.

Śeth Jamnābhāi, spent thousands of rupees in having Sacred works written and in having them printed.

During his leisure hours, Śeth Jamnābhāi used to read stavanas (eulogical compositions of the virtues of Tīrthaṅkaras), dharma-kathā (religious stories), and biographies of religious persons or have them read out.

Śeth Jamnābhāi would very often give financial help privately to people who were in affluent condition before, and who had been reduced to penury. In the same way, he would help distressed, miserable, and needy persons. He would always look to the requests of deserving persons with extreme kindness and would invariably respect them.

One of the noblest traits of Śeth Jamnābhāi's character was that he did not like to displease anybody. Any one coming to him for help was sure to get it. He would not disappoint any one. His house was not a place of disappointment. It was an abode of hope, consolation and mercy. In case of co-religionists, the help will come so secretly that none else but his confidential man will know it.

During the latter part of his life, Śeth Jamnābhāi was not able to attend on the occasion of marriage or dinner-parties of his friends and acquaintances owing to old age, but he did not fail to attend their funeral or such-like functions. Processions and religious ceremonies in connection with jala yātrā, Śānti-Snātra, kalyāṇakas (auspicious days of Tīrthaṅkaras) will be invariably attended by him, even with some personal inconvenience.

It generally happens that during Divālī Holidays, people like to come home and enjoy the happiness of worldly pleasures along with their family-members. The fact is, the Divālī day is the Nirvāṇa-day of Tīrthaṅkara Bhagavān Mahāvīra Swāmī, and the day of Kevala Jñāna of Gaṇadhara Mahārāja Gautama Swāmī; and as such instead of wasting time, money, and energy, in so-called worldly pleasures, in sinful talks, and in wicked actions, persons desirous of the happiness of Final Emancipation, should always pass such auspicious days, in meditations for the Elevation of Soul. During the last thirty-five years of his life, Śeth Jamnābhāi used to pass the Divālī-day, in Pūjā of Jīneśvaras, Pratīkramana and meditation at any one of the sacred places. In this way, Śeth Jamnābhāi visited Bhadrēśvara, Kulapākajī, Bhāṇḍaka, Gīrnāra, Tāraṅgajī, Ābuji, Kumbhārijī Samet Śikhara, Phalodhi, Rāṇakapur, Kesarijī, Idar, Jaghadia, Serisā, Pānsara, Bhoyani, Saṅkheśvarajī, Mātār, and many other places of worship. Śeth Jamnābhāi used to go on pilgrimage to Shatrūnjaya Hill near Pālitānā almost every year. Whenever he went on pilgrimage, he used to invite his friends, relatives and acquaintances to accompany him. There Śeth Jamnābhāi always inquired into the financial condition of the various Institutions, and he would invariably help them handsomely.

Ever since the Bhoyanī Tīrtha of Tīrthaṅkara Mallināth Bhagavān came into existence in Vikrama Samvat 1938, a Navakārasi (a dinner to all Jains) is given every year by Śeth Jamnābhāi on Mahā Sud 10—the day of the installation of the pratimā of the Jīneśvara Bhagavān in the temple. The management of the Bhoyani and Saṅkheśvara Kārahānā (religious firm) is in the hands of Śeth Jamnābhāi.

Before the establishment of Bhoyanī Tīrtha, Mātār near Kaira, was considered as a very prominent place of pilgrimage to Sācā Deva (True God) in Gujarāt. Śeth Jamnābhāi spent a very large amount of money in repairing a portion of the temple.

There was no Jaina temple at Kalol. At the request of the Jaina Saṅgha, a beautiful temple was built by Śeth Jamnābhāi. The Temple, its surrounding buildings, and pratiṣṭhā (installation of a Tīrthaṅkara's image in the temple) cost him one to two lacs of rupees. The pratiṣṭhā of the temple was done by Śasana Samrāt Ācārya Mahārāja Vijaya Nemisūrisvaraji. The entire gentry of Ahmedabād including Sir Chinubhāi Mādhavlāl Baronet, was present on the occasion.

Śeth Jamnābhāi had a spacious Dharmaśāla built at Kumhhāriyāji. He also donated a substantial sum for the repair of temples in Mārwar.

Two years previous to his death, Śeth Jamnābhāi had a large Dharmaśālā built in his wandā known as Śeth Bhagubhai's Wandā with a small temple. Brass utensils and bedding are kept for the use of pilgrims. Śasana Samrāt Ācārya Mahārāja Vijaya Nemisūrisvaraji did the pratiṣṭhā of the temple.

For the last thirty-eight years, Śeth Jamnābhāi has been maintaining a charitable dispensary known as Śeth Jamnābhāi Homoeopathic Dispensary, with a daily average of 900 to 800 patients, at 700 to 800. an annual cost of Rs- 7000 to 8000.

While providing facilities for alleviating the sufferings of human beings, Śeth Jamnābhāi did not forget to alleviate the miseries of dumb creatures—lower animals—cows, buffaloes, bulls, sheep, goats, and other animals. He built resting-houses for them at Rānchardā, spent thousands of rupees for their fodder, and helped the local Khodā-Dhora Pānjrapole (Resting-house for cattle and maimed animals) several times with thousands of rupees.

During the famine of Vikram Samvat 1956, Śeth Jamnābhāi's charities were very liberal. Besides, he had a cattle-camp near Kānkaria Tank, outside Jamalpur Gate, with an accomodation for 10000 animals. Thousands of animals were saved from the jaws of death by his timely help. Whenever there was scarcity of fodder, Śeth Jamnābhāi used to help the Pānjrā Pole.

There was a sinful blemish on Ahmedabad. Ever since the building of the temple of Bhadra Kālī Devi, near Bhadra Gate, in Ahmedabad, a goat was sacrificed before the Devī on Durgāṣṭami day every year. Some persons thought of preventing the hīmsā (killing of the animal). A few of them volunteered to save the life of the animal. They remained quite near the place where the goat was to be killed. As soon as the time for the slaughter of the animal arrived, one of them—a very active and desparate man—sprang out of the crowd and ran away with the goat from amidst a crowd of four to five thousand Brāhmaṇas and non-Brāhmaṇas. None had the courage to follow him. Great disturbance arose, and the peace of the town was at stake. The Pūjāri, then, approached the District Collector Mr. Hartshorne. At the Collector's suggestion Śeth Jamnābhāi Bhagubhāi, Śeth Mangaldās Girdhardās, and Śeth Sārābhāi Dāhyābhāi, were called to his bungalow. An agreement was made in the presence of the Collector, and it was settled to stop the killing of any animal in the temple, and a sum of ten thousand rupees was deposited on the name of the Pūjāri, out of the interest of which sum, an excellent Pūjā with abundant materials was to be made for the Devī and a dinner-party was to be given to Brāhmaṇas, on the Durgāṣṭami day, every year. Half the amount was given by Śeth Jamnābhāi and the remaining half by Śeth Mangaldās. Both the welknown Śethias were thus chiefly instrumental in putting a stop for ever, to the killing of an innocent animal every year which was in existence for more than five hundred years.

During the last two years of his life, Śeth Jamnābhāi had a slight increase of blood-pressure. But on account of regular habits and careful dieting, there was no serious illness.

During the last twenty-five years of his life, Śeth Jamnābhāi used to go, every year, to Dumas (8 miles from Surat) and pass the three months of summer there. He would return to Ahmedabad when the rainy season had set in.

In the summer of Vikrama Samvat 1981, Śeth Jamnābhāi as usual, was living at Dumas. On Jaṣṭa Vad 14 he had Pūjā of Antarāya Karma by Pandit Śrīmān Vira Vijayaji Mahārāj in the beautiful Jaina temple at Dumas, in the afternoon, with the accompaniment of songsters and musical instruments from Sūrat. He himself was in the temple for two hours reciting several Pūjās. The next day i. e. Vad 15 he ordered out excellent fruits, flowers, sweet-meats etc, from Sūrat for a Pūjā on a grand scale on Aśāda Sud 1 (it being the first day of the month), and had requested a number of persons from Surat to be present at the Pūjā on that day.

In the afternoon, His Highness the Mahārāj Sāheb of Dhrāngadbrā, who was leaving Dumas and going away to Dhrāngadhrā, gave him a visit at his (Śeth's) bungalow. Śeth Jamnābhāi himself treated him hospitably with tea, sweet-meats, pān-supāri, garlands etc. and walking as far as the foot-steps of the verandah under the portico of which his motor-car was waiting, he wished him a happy journey.

His family-physician Dr. Trikamabhāi was always with him during the season. In the evening Śeth Jamnābhāi did not like to go out for a walk, but he kept sitting in a comfortable arm-chair on the verandah, talking merrily with his family-members, who were always with him.

Feeling sleepy, at about ten o'clock, Śeth Sāheb went to bed in an adjoining hall. Other members of the family including Shethaji Mānek Ben, Babābhāi, Dr. Trikamabhāi, Vimalashā, Kikābhāi, Chimanlālbhāi etc, kept sitting on the verandah gossiping till late at night. At about one o'clock, all of them dispersed and went to their individual places for sleeping.

A few minutes later, Śeth Jamnābhāi who was always lying on sides, had a violent jerk in his body and he at once turned lying flat, with eyes wide awake. The attendant who was gently shampooing his body, fearing danger, at once called out Śethāpi sāheb from the adjoining room. She tried to talk with him but her efforts proved futile. She at once shouted out to Dr. Trikambhāi who had just gone to the upper floor. He hurriedly ran down-stairs and found that there was no pulsation in the radial artery and that his heart had stopped beating. He was dead.

The news of his death was telephoned from Sūrat. Many of his relatives, friends and acquaintances including Śeth Maṇecklālbhāi, Śeth Jivanlal Girdharlāl, Śeth Sārābbhai Hatthising, Marsden Brothers etc. came to Dumas by the morning train. Many of his friends and acquaintances came from Sūrat. About a thousand persons were present at his cremation which took place on an open ground near sea-face.

‘Man proposes and God disposes’ Who knows what will happen the next moment? Death is inevitable in this world. Persons who have done good benevolent actions during this life, have no fear from Death. Only the wicked have to fear it. One should, consequently follow the noble example of Śeth Jamnābhāi in doing benevolent deeds according to his means.

After the death of Śeth Jamnābhāi, his widow Śethani Manek Ben, took the entire management into her own hands and she managed all the affairs ably.

The management of the Bhojāpi and Sankheśvara Kārkhāna which was in the hands of Śeth Jamnābhāi is till now in her hands. The Institution has profited much by her sound advice.

Śeth Jamnābhāi was an active and very benevolent member of Ahmedabad Khodā Dhor Pānjrā Pole. After his death, although Śethāpi Manek Ben is not a member, she takes keen interest in the welfare of the Pānjrā Pole. Majority of the meetings of Pānjrā Pole committee are held at her bungalow and she helps the institution handsomely.

At the death-bed of Śeth Jamnābhāi, Shethāpi Mānek Ben declared to give one lac of rupees in charity after him. The amount was decided to be given away in six months' time. Applications from various religious institutions were invited. About 400 applications came in with various requests. The sum was found to be insufficient. She increased the amount by one lac and a half. Two lacs and fifty thousand rupees were thus distributed.

About two years after the death of Śeth Jamnābhāi, in accordance with his express desire, Shethāpi Mānek Ben celebrated an Udyāpāna Mahotsava on a grand scale, in her bungalow, in which in addition to the Udyāpāna Pandal there was an exact representation of Śatrunjaya Hill with the various Tunks. The pilgrimage to Śatrunjaya Hill had been temporarily closed by the Jaina Community. Thousands of persons used to come for Darśana every day and even after the temple was closed at 8-30 p. m. thousands of Jains and non-Jains were listening to melodious tunes of the Masak Band of Dhrāngadhrah State, till late at night. Religious ceremonies were performed by Śāsana Samrat Ācārya Mahārāja Vijaya Nemisūrisvaraji. The Upādhyāya Padvi and Ācārya Padvi of Ācārya Mahārāja Śrī Nandana Sūriji Mahārāja was done during the Mahotsava at an additional expenditure of twenty thousand rupees. A sum of fifty thousand rupees was donated to the Ahmedabad Khodā Dhor Pānjrā Pole.

The supervision of decorative work and of the construction of Śatrunjaya Hill to a scale, was placed in the able hands of Nagarsheth Kastoorbhāi Mañibhāi. The arrangement of electric lights and their management was entrusted to her clever and experienced engineer Mr. Burjorji. The Mahotsava seems to have cost her at least two lac and a half rupees. Although there have been numerous religious ceremonies and Mahotsavas in Ahmedabad in former years, a Mahotsava of such an elegance and grandeur has, not till now, been celebrated by anybody.

After a year and a half, (V. S. 1884) the reconstruction with excellent makrāna marble of a portion of the temple of " Sachā Deva " at Matar, which was going on for five years at an enormous expense, was now completed and ready for pratīṣṭha. The pratīṣṭha ceremony was performed by Śāsan Samrāt Ācārya Maharāj Vijaya Nemisūrisvaraji. The Mahotsava with the attendant dinner-parties, was enjoyed by thousands of devout persons of both the sexes from the neighbouring town and villages.

Shethāṇi Māṇek Ben is kind-hearted, philanthropic and wise. Walking on the foot-steps of Śeth Jambābhāi, she has done many charities. Her kitchen is very free. No one approaching her for help will ever return disappointedly.

It seems that the charities of Śeth Jambābhāi shine out brilliantly by the extensive and more liberal charities of Shethāṇi Māṇek Ben.

INTRODUCTION.

1. The Text and its Authorship.

This part of the work named “Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra” relates the biographical account of Vardhamāna Swami or Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra, the last (twenty-fourth) Tirthaṅkara of the present series of twenty-four Tirthaṅkaras of the Jaina.

The story runs from his coming into the state of foetus upto his renouncing the worldly life, and entering the ascetic life at the age of 30 years. This much material has been contained in the first hundred and twelve sūtras of the Kalpa Sūtra.

The Kalpa Sūtra has been held in high esteem by the Jainas for more than fifteen hundred years. Being read and preached every year during the Paryuṣaṇā holidays, it is some times called Paryuṣaṇā Sūtra. Since the text of the Kalpa Sūtra has been comprised into 1200 gāthās, the work is known as “Bārasā Sūtra” also.

The text of the Kalpa Sūtra has been divided into three parts. (1) Jinacaritra or Lives of Jinas, which is almost parallel to Lalita Vistara a similar work on the life of Gautama Buddha; (2) Sthavirāvali or List of Sthaviras which relates the account of a lineage of Sthaviras and (3) Sāmācārī or the Rules of Yatis, which constitutes the most essential part of the work, because it lays down various rules for the Jaina ascetics to practise during their ascetic life.

The authorship of the Kalpa Sūtra, in general, has been attributed to Śrīman Bhadrabāhu Swāmī, the last Śrutakevalī who could remember the twelve Aṅgas with their fourteen Pūrvas. But the entire Kalpa Sūtra does not seem to be the composition of Bhadrabāhu Swāmī.

Professor Weber has discussed this problem well in his treatise on the Sacred Books of the Jainas. He has tried to ascertain that the whole Kalpa Sūtra is incorporated as the Eighth Lecture in the Daśāśruta Skandha Sūtra of the fourth Cheda Sūtra.

According to him, Sāmācāri (Rules for Yatis) has been composed by Bhadrabāhu Swāmī, but the other two divisions viz. Jinacaritas and Sthavīrāvalī might have been added by Devarddhi Gaṇī later on. But we cannot agree with Prof. Weber in believing Devarddhi Gaṇī as the author of Jina Caritras. For if it were so, the tradition might not have left such an important fact unnoticed. This may not apply to the case of Sthavīrāvalī which consists of four or five distinct treatises, only put together and added by Devarddhi Gaṇī to the Lives of the Jinas.

It is an old custom with the Jainas to recite the hymns of Kalyāṇakas at the time of worshipping the images of the Tīrthaṅkaras. It is with these Kalyāṇakas that the lives of Jinas are chiefly concerned and it is none but this motive that induces an author to treat so largely of so barren a subject as has been done in the Kalpa Sūtra.²

2. Origin of the Sacred Works of the Jainas.

In spite of many points of resemblance between Jainism and Buddhism, both are independant religions. It is not correct to assert that Jainism is a subordinate form of Buddhism or that Jainas have branched off from Bauddhas.

2. cf. Sacred Books of the East Vol. XXII. Introduction pp. ii—iii.

Jainism has an origin independant from Buddhism and has a development peculiarly its own. Really speaking, both Jainism and Buddhism owe to the Brāhmanas especially their Saṃnyāsins the groundwork of their philosophy, ethics and cosmogomy.³

It is interesting to note here the comparison between the five Buddhist vows and those of the Jaina ascetics. The Buddhistic vows nearly agree with those of the Jaina ascetics.

In all, the Buddhists have Eight Precepts of which the first five are binding on every Buddhist, while the rest are only recommended to pious laymen.⁴—

- i One should not destroy life.
- ii One should not take that which is not given.
- iii One should not tell lies.
- iv One should not become a drinker of intoxicating drinks.
- v One should refrain from unlawful sexual intercourse—an ignoble thing.
- vi One should not eat unseasonable food at night.
- vii One should not wear garlands or use perfumes.
- viii One should sleep on a mat spread on the ground.

The vows (Mahāvratas) of Jaina ascetics are these:—

- i Not to destroy life (ahimsā)
- ii Not to tell lies (sūnrita)
- iii Not to take that which is not given (asteya)
- iv To abstain from sexual intercourse (brahmacarya)
- v To renounce all interest in worldly things, especially to call nothing one's own (a-parigraha).

The first five Precepts of both the sects resemble each other so strikingly that there is no wonder if one believes that one sect borrowed the principles from another. It is very hard, however, to ascertain as to which sect borrowed from which, and the question whether the Jains or the Bauddhas were the borrowers remains unsolved. But it can be shown easily that neither of them has, in this regard, any claim to originality but that both have only adopted the five vows of the Brāhmanic ascetic (Saṃnyāsin). The latter has to keep the following five vows⁵:—

3. cf. Sacred Books of the East Vol. XXII. Introduction.

4. cf. Rhys Davids, Buddhism p. 139.

- i Abstention from injuring living beings.
- ii Truthfulness.
- iii Abstention from appropriating the property of others.
- iv Continence.
- v Liberality.

Thus the first four great vows of the Saṃnyāsin agree fully well with those of the Jaina monk and are enumerated in the same manner. It is therefore probable that the Jains have borrowed their own vows from the Brāhmaṇas and not from the Buddhists, because the latter have changed the order of the vows, making truthfulness the third cardinal virtue instead of giving it the second place. Besides, it is highly improbable that they should have imitated the Buddhists, when they had in the Brāhmanic ascetics much older and more respected models.

It should be noted that the monastical order of the Jains and Buddhists though copied from the Brāhmaṇas was chiefly and originally intended for Kṣatriyas.

Buddha, as Prof. Oldenburg points out, speaks of his religion as that for the sake of which, sons of noble families leave the house and enter the state of houselessness⁶.

That the Jains also gave the Kṣatriyas the preference over the Brāhmaṇas is proved by the curious legend about the transfer of the foetus of Mahāvira from the womb of Brāhmaṇi Devānanda to that of Kṣatriyāṇi Triśalā, it being alleged that a Brāhmaṇi or another woman of low family was not worthy to give birth to a Tīrthaṅkara.⁷

Now we shall decide the age of the extant Jaina Literature. Since it was the tradition of the Jaina preachers to preach the principles of their religion orally and keep them in memory, we can easily deduce the theory that the Jaina Literature or at least some of its oldest works were composed many centuries before they were reduced to writing.

* The redaction of the Jaina Canon or the Siddhāntas, took place, according to the unanimous tradition, during the council of Vallabhi, under the presidency of Devarddhi Gaṇi. The date of this event 980 (or 993) A. V. corresponding to 454 (or 467) A. D.⁸ is incorporated in the Kalpa Sūtra.⁹

The tradition says that Devarddhi Gaṇi kṣamā-śramaṇa, perceiving the Siddhāntas in danger of becoming extinct, caused them to be written in books. Before that time, the teachers never used the books, but after that time, they did use books. To provide every teacher or at least every Upāśraya with copies of the Sacred Books, Devarddhi Gaṇi must have issued a large edition of the Siddhāntas.

The date of the origin of the extant Jaina Literature cannot be placed earlier than about 400 B. C. because the tradition of the Śvetāmbaras¹⁰ says that after the twelve years' famine, while Bhadrabāhu Śwāmī was the head of the Church, the Aṅgas were brought together by the Conference of Pāṭalīputra. Now, Bhadrabāhu's death is placed 170 A. V. by the Śvetambaras.¹¹ He lived, therefore, under Chandragupta Maurya, who is said to have ascended the throne 155. A. V.¹² This, therefore, shows that the date of the collection of the Jaina Canon falls somewhere about the end of the fourth or the beginning of the third century B. C.

7. This legend is rejected by the Digambaras, but the Śvetāmbaras staunchly uphold its truth. As it is found in the Ācārāṅga, the Kalpa Sūtra, and many other works, it cannot be doubted that it is very old.

According to the tradition of the Jainas, it is said that the religious principles of the Jainas came into existence right from the time of Rīṣabha-deva Śwāmī, the first Tīrthaṅkara of the present series. When the religion was exalted to a high rank during the time of several Tīrthaṅkaras, the tradition continues, the sacred works were composed, but during the intermediate period of disorder and anarchy these works disappeared, and again came into existence during the time of a new Tīrthaṅkara. Sacred works of all the Tīrthaṅkaras are almost the same as they preached the same principles, and the lives of all the Tīrthaṅkaras are almost similar in principal characteristics.

Like his predecessors, Śramaṇa Bhagavan Mahāvīra also had got his preachings composed in books. These preachings have been arranged by his Gaṇadharas in 12 Aṅgas.

Besides these Aṅgas, we are told by the Śvetāmbaras and Digambaras, there existed other and probably older works called Pūrvas, of which there were originally fourteen. The knowledge of these Pūrvas was gradually lost, till at last it became totally extinct.¹³ A detailed contents of twelve Aṅgas 11. According to the Digambaras, the death of Bhadrabāhu Swami occurred 162. A. V.

12. Prof. Max Muller assigns to Chandragupta the dates 315-291 B. C. According to Westergaard and Kern, the date of Chandragupta is 320 B. C.

13. The tradition of the Śvetambaras about the fourteen Pūrvas is this:—The fourteen Pūrvas had been incorporated and consequently of the Pūrvas has been given in the fourth in the twelfth Aṅga, the Dīṣṭivāda, which was lost before 1000 A. V.

It should be noted that although the Twelfth Aṅga is not available at present, some of its principles as gathered from other religious works, could be arranged as under:—

This Aṅga, named Dīṣṭivāda, is divided into 5 portions:—

- I Parīkrama divided into 7 sub-divisions laying down Sūtras of arithmetical complications and their keys.
- II Sūtra Containing 88 sūtras which explain the difference of real and false knowledge.
- III Anuyoga relates the stories of great personages of the religious history.
- IV Purvagata: This is the most important part of the Dīṣṭivāda. This portion contains the fourteen Pūrvas which were mentioned before. These Purvas are mentioned below:—

- i Uppāyapūvva
(Utpādapūrvva)
- ii Aggeanāthapūvva
(Agrāyanāyapūrvva)
- iii Vīriyappavāyapūvva

Āṅga, the Samavāyāṅga and in the Nandī Sūtra.¹⁴

We are told by the tradition that Ārya Jambū Swāmī was the last Kevalī. After him, the undermentioned six heads of the Church viz. Prabhava Swāmī, Śayyambhava Sūri, Yaśobhadra Sūri, Sambhūtivijaya Sūri, Bhadrabāhu Swāmī, and Sthūlabhadra, were Śruta-kevalīs. Out of these, Bhadrabāhu Swāmī was the last Paṭṭadhara (head of the church) who had all the twelve Āṅgas along with the 14 Pūrvas, with their meanings and explanations of intricate subjects in his memory. Ārya Sthūlabhadra had a thorough knowledge of the meanings and explanations of 10 Pūrvas and a knowledge of the text of the remaining 4 Pūrvas (11, 12, 13, 14.), but not their meanings and explanations. Besides, he was instructed not to impart the knowledge of the four Pūrvas (11, 12, 13, 14.) to any one. Thus, the knowledge of the Pūrvas decreased gradually. After him, there was a line of ten successors who had a thorough knowledge of 10 Pūrvas. They were known as Daśa Pūrvī as they had a knowledge of 10 Pūrvas. The last Daśa Pūrvī was Vajra Swāmī. After Vajra Swāmī, the knowledge of Pūrvas went on decreasing. The last, who had a knowledge of one Pūrva, was Devarddhi Gaṇi kṣamā śramaṇa. It was during his time, that the remaining Siddhāntas were committed to writing. Thus, the knowledge of all the Pūrvas become extinct. Ācārya Śrīmān Haribhadra Sūri, the author of 1444 works on different subjects, writes that he was able to compose his works on the authority of the passages of Pūrvas lying scattered in various works.

At present, the Sacred Works of the Śvetāmbaras are 45 in all. Some of them are written in prose and some in verse. These are 11 Aṅgas,¹⁵ 12 Upāṅgas, 10 Prakīrṇa or Miscellaneous works, 6 Cheda Sūtras, 2 Sūtras, and 4 Mūla Sūtras.

In addition to the above-named 45 Sacred Books, some people enumerate 20 more Prakīrṇas, 12 Niryuktis, and several more, arriving at a total of 84.

Again, there are various other works known as Nigamas, which supplement the information contained in the above-mentioned 84 Āgamas.

These Nigamas, being 36 in all, bring the total number to 120.

3 Bhadrabāhu Swāmī : his life and works.

Bhadrabāhu Swāmī was born at Pratiṣṭhāna-pura (Mahārāṣṭra-South India) in a Brāhmin family in 432 B. C. He had a brother named Varāha-mihira.

Being naturally inclined to acquire knowledge, he studied Vyākaraṇa, Tarkaśāstra, Nyāyaśāstra, Dharmaśāstra and Jyotiṣa-vidyā in a very short time. Being a favourite student of Ācārya Yaśobhadra Swāmī, his proficiency in all lores made him an object of jealousy for other students. His own brother Varāha-mihira had also accepted the Dīkṣā. When Bhadrabāhu Swāmī was awarded the position of Ācārya, his own brother Varāha-mihira envied him.

15. The twelfth Aṅga viz. Dīrghavāda is not available as a complete work at present.

At that time, Nanda was the King of Magadha. Varāha-mihira knew a little bit of Astrology. But by means of his cleverness, he acquired the position of the Royal Astrologer and started black-mailing Jaina Śramaṇas and particularly his brother Bhadrabāhu.

Once it so happened that the king of Magadha got a son in his old age. Varāha-mihira being the Royal Astrologer, prepared a horoscope of the newly-born prince, and showed therein the age of the child to be 100 years. On knowing this, the king's pleasure knew no bounds and all the people of Magadha came to congratulate the king with various presents.

This occasion gave chance to Varāha-mihira to satisfy his revengeful nature. He poisoned the ears of the king, saying that Bhadrabāhu had not yet come to congratulate the king at such an auspicious occasion. Bhadrabāhu received a message from the king, through his minister Śakaḍāla, asking for all explanation. Being a shrewd man, Bhadrabāhu Swāmī could at once grasp the scheme. He patiently sent a reply to the king as follows:—"Why should I come to you twice? The child shall die on the seventh day by means of cat's mouth and at that time I shall come to give consolations."

On hearing this, the king was highly enraged. He tried his utmost to turn Bhadrabāhu's words futile. He got all the cats driven away from the city, and guarded the child most vigilantly. Still, however, on the seventh day, when the child was being suckled by a wet-nurse who was sitting near a door, a wooden bar with the figure of a cat carved on its end fell from the door upon the child and the child died.

Bhadrabāhu Swāmī then went to the Royal Palace to pacify the agony of the king. He consoled the king with wise words and religious stories. After some time, the king said:—

“ According to your prophecy, the child died, but not by means of cat’s mouth.” The wooden bar (of the door) by which the child was killed, was then identified and it was found that there was a cat’s mouth carved on the end of the bar !

Another instance in which Varāha-mihira’s astrological prophecy turned out to be wrong, was this:—Varāha-mihira said:—“ On a certain day, a matsya (fish) weighing 52 palyas, will fall from the sky in the centre of a circle drawn in the presence of the king. Bhadrabāhu Swāmī said that the weight of the fish will be $51\frac{1}{2}$ palyas, as it would shrink during its fall, to the ground and not 52 palyas, and that it would fall near the circumference of the circle but not in its centre. The king with his state-officers, and a number of people of the town, attended the event. Bhadrabāhu Swāmī’s prophecy turned out to be correct.

Varāha-mihira being greatly enraged at his own lot tried to throw away all his books on Astrology into the sea, but Bhadrabāhu Swāmī prevented him from doing so. Still, however, Varāha-mihira entertained the same feeling of revenge towards his brother.

Another instance of Bhadrabāhu’s greatness is the prevention of cholera in the country. The epidemic was caused by the soul of Varāha-mihira who had become a vyantara during his next life, on account of his intense feelings of revenge towards his brother. This epidemic of cholera was prevented by Bhadrabāhu Swāmī by his composing a Prabhāvaka Stotra named Uvasaggahara Stotra (of 7 verses). Under the influence of this Stotra, Dharanendra himself had to come on this earth. Out of 7 verses of this Stotra, only 5 are available at present. The tradition says that Śrīman Bhadrabāhu Swāmī had purposely omitted the last two verses at the request of Dharanendra as people invoked and called him very frequently at every small occasion. The stotra consists of allegorical invocations of Tīrthaṅkara Bhagavān Pārśvanāth, Padmāvatī Devī, Dharanendra and their attendant Yakṣa.

Bhadrabāhu Swāmī had impressed Chandra Gupta Maurya also by his brilliant knowledge and unfailing prophecy. It is said that once King Chandra Gupta saw sixteen dreams in sleep. When Bhadrabāhu Swāmī explained the meaning of these dreams, Chandra Gupta was deeply impressed.¹⁶

When there was a twelve years' famine in the country, Bhadrabāhu Swāmī was practising penances in Nepāl. During the famine, many a monk fled away to the southern side. But they could not escape the clutches of famine even there. All of them lost memory and forgot whatever knowledge they had, due to excessive pangs of thirst and hunger.

A Conference was held at Pātaliputra to collect all the available Sūtras. Eleven Aṅgas of the Jaina Āgamas were thus collected. But the twelfth Aṅga viz. Driṣṭivāda was not recalled. The conference sent a deputation to Bhadrabāhu Swāmī inviting him to the Conference. Bhadrabāhu did not agree to go to Pātaliputra. At last it was decided to send Śramapa Sthūlabhadra and others to learn Driṣṭivāda. Bhadrabāhu Swāmī taught Sthūlabhadra 10 Pūrvas out of the 14 Pūrvas and text only of the last four Pūrvas. Sthūlabhadra being puffed up by the knowledge, assumed the form of a lion when his sisters came to pay their homages to him. When Bhadrabāhu Swāmī came to know of this event, he refused to teach him the meaning of the remaining 4 Pūrvas. At last he gave the original text of the last 4 Pūrvas to the conference with the condition that they might not be taught to anybody.

After the Nirvāṇa of Śramapa Bhagavān Mahāvira, the knowledge of Sacred Books was gradually being lost. Gautama Swāmī, Sudharman Swāmī and Jambū Swāmī were Kevalīs.¹⁷

16. Some people say that Chandra Gupta had renounced his throne on hearing the interpretations of dreams from Bhadrabāhu. But this assumption is not based on concrete facts. It is not, therefore, proper to assign much value to such beliefs.

17. A monk is said to be a Kevalī when he has attained Kevala Jñāna—Perfect Knowledge.

After them, Prabhava Swāmī, Śayyambhava Sūri, Yaśo-bhadra Sūri, Sambhūti Vijaya Sūri, Bhadrabāhu Swāmī, and Sthūlabhadra were Śruta Kevalis¹⁸ of Fourteen Pūrvas.
After them, there were ten Daśa Pūrvīs who had a knowledge of ten Pūrvas. After them, the knowledge of Pūrvas went on decreasing till the time of Devarddhi Gaṇi kṣamā śramaṇa who was the last Paṭṭadhara having a knowledge of one Pūrva. After him, the knowledge of Pūrvas became completely extinct.

Bhadrabāhu Swāmī had lived for 76 years. Out of the 76 years of his life, he led the life of a house-holder for 45 years, observed ordinary austerities for 17 years, and he passed the remaining 14 years of his life as a Śruta Kevali.¹⁹

He died in 356 B. C.

Bhadrabāhu Swāmī has contributed a number of religious works to the Jaina sect. He has composed Vyavahāra, Daśa-Śruta Skandha, and Brihat Kalpa Sūtras; and has written Niryuktis on them. He was a great writer of Niryuktis. He has composed Niryuktis on Āvaśyaka, Daśa-vaikālika, Uttarādhyayana, Ācarāṅga, Sūtra-kritāṅga, DaśaŚruta Skandha, Brihat Kalpa, Vyavahāra, Sūrya-prajñapti and on the Rīṣibhaṣita. He also composed Piṇḍa Niryukti, Ogha Niryukti and the Prabhāvaka Sūtra named Uvasaggahara Stotra.

That Bhadrabāhu Swāmī had written Vasudeva Cariyam and that the number of verses in the work was 1¼ lakh, is indicated by Devendra Sūri, the preceptor of the wellknown grammarian, Śrīmān Hemachandrācārya.²⁰

Bhadrabāhu Swāmī has also rendered an invaluable service to the Jainas by separating the Kalpa Sūtra from the ocean of Daśa Śruta Skandha and making it accessible to a layman.²¹

4. Summary of the Text.

As mentioned before, this portion of the Kalpa Sūtra relates the account of the early life of Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra, i. e. the life of Lord Mahāvīra right from the time of his taking the form of foetus upto the time of his renunciation of the world at the age of 30 years. Descending from the Prānat Kalpa (tenth heaven) Vardhamāna Kumāra took the form of a foetus in the womb of a Brāhmaṇi named Devanandā of Jālandhara gotra, wife of a Brāhmaṇa named Rīgabhadatta in Brahmanical section of Kuṇḍapura or Kuṇḍa grāma. It was the Avasarpiṇi age of ten wonders. That Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra took the form of a foetus in the womb of a Brāhmaṇi was also a wonder. It was through the influence of the Nica-gotra Karma of his third previous existence that Lord Mahāvīra had to assume the form of a foetus in the womb of a Brāhmaṇi. Although the incarnation of an Arhanta or a Cakravartin, or a Baladeva or of a Vāsudeva may happen in such low families as a strange event, their birth in such families never occurred in the past, does not occur during the present age, and will never occur in future.²² —Kalpa Sūtra.

It is the established custom of all past, present, and future Śakras, Lords of the gods, to cause the foetus of Arhanta Bhagavāns etc. to be removed from low families to high families. The Śakrendra, therefore, had transferred the foetus of Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra from the womb of Brāhmaṇi Devānandā to that of Kṣatriyāṇi Triśalā²³ of Vasiṣṭha gotra wife of Kṣatriya Siddhārtha of the Jñātri Race, through Hariṇaigameṣṭ—a general of the Divine Infantry—on the 13th day of the dark-fortnight of the month of Āśvina when the moon was in conjunction with the constellation Uttarāphalgunī.

Triśalā sees fourteen great dreams on that night in a state half-way between sleep and wakefulness. She sees (1) An elephant, (2) a bull, (3) a lion, (4) Śrī Devī, (5) a garland, (6) The Moon, (7) The Sun, (8) a banner, (9) a kalāṣa (festival jar), (10) a lotus-lake, (11) a sea, (12) a celestial chariot, (13) a heap of jewels, and (14) a smokeless flame in those fourteen great dreams.

Triśalā then awakens the king and narrates the whole account of dreams before him. Siddhārtha, being pleased on hearing the account, congratulates Triśalā.

Next morning, the king sends for the interpreters of dreams and asks them to explain the meaning of those fourteen great dreams. Reciting various verses of the Science of Dreams, the interpreters explain in details different characteristics of a good, as well as, a bad dream. After explaining in details the consequences of each of those fourteen dreams individually, the interpreters mention the aggregate fruit of all the dreams taken together that the prince who was in the womb—would certainly occupy the top—most portion of all the regions of Loka.

23. It is significant to note the adjectives kṣatriyāṇi and kṣatriya here. The adjectives indicate that King Siddhārtha and kṣatriyāṇi Triśalā did not belong to the high rank of an Emperor and an Empress respectively, but Siddhārtha was a chief of a tribe of kṣatriyas residing in Kuṇḍa-grāma which was only a grāma or suburb of the city of Vaiśālī.

With the benevolent idea of not afflicting the mother by his movements in the womb, Vardhamāna Kumāra remained immovable in the womb. His mother was deeply pained when she felt no movements of her foetus. She began to cry and lament, and at last Bhagavān had to move a little to soothe his mother. Influenced by his parents' affection towards himself Vardhamāna Kumāra while remaining in the womb, took the following vow:—"Indeed, it is not desirable for me to be a mendicant and take dīkṣā, leaving my house so long as my mother and father are alive."

Trīśālā took utmost care in nourishing her foetus. She did so by the moderate use of food and drink materials, clothes, perfumed articles and garlands of flowers such as suited the different seasons of the year.

Then, in due course of time, on the thirteenth day of the bright half of Caitra, after the completion of 9 months and 7½ days, when the moon was in conjunction with the Constellation Uttarāphālgunī Trīśālā devī gave birth to Vardhamāna Kumāra.

During that night, the sky was crowded with numerous gods and goddesses coming to the earth with their retinue and vimānas to pay their obessance to the Lord. At the time of the birth of Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra, the celestial duṇḍubhi was sounded and the earth and heavens began to heave with joy.

The birth ceremonies of Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra were performed by numerous goddesses accompanied by large retinues coming from various directions. Some prepared a lying-in chamber for the Arhanta and his mother and performed all the ciremomes attendant on birth and some poured a shower of perfumed water, flowers etc; some stood in front with mirrors, fans, lanterns etc. and all of them offered their blessings, saying "Parvatāyurbhava" (May you be as long-lived as a mountain)."

Then came gods headed by Śakrendra. Śakrendra himself assuming five forms, took Vardhamāna Kumāra to the Paṇḍuka Vana (forest) on the summit of Mount Sumeru, and all the Indras and gods performed the Abhiṣeka or Ablution-ceremony by means of 1008 pitchers of eight kinds each, of gold, silver and such other precious metals, filled with the milk-like water of the Milky Ocean, with divine flowers, perfumes etc. Having finished the ceremony, Śakra himself adored Vardhamāna Kumāra with 800 pure compositions.

King Siddhārtha also celebrated the birth-festival of his son on a grand scale. The whole town was decorated with flags, banners, festoons, festal-jars, flowers, garlands, and perfumed substances etc. He released all his prisoners, made the whole town free from toll-tax, custom-duty etc, and gave away enormous wealth and gifts to the poor and needy persons.

On the third day, they showed the child Moon and Sun. On the sixth day, they kept awake during the night for religious meditation, and on the twelfth day, the king gave a dinner-party to his relatives, kinsmen, family-members, agnates cognates and domestics together with Jñāta kṣatriyas.

Since there was an enormous increase in the wealth and glory of Siddhārtha, from the time of his taking the form of a foetus, they gave him the name "Vardhamāna."

Śramaṇa Bhagavāna Mahāvīra belonged to the Kāśyapa gotra and he had three names:—viz (1) Vardhamāna (given by his parents), (2) Śramaṇa (on account of his natural capacity to undergo severe austerities), and (3) Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra (given by gods on account of patient endurance of calamities, observance of vows, self-restraint, and excellent valour).

Vardhamāna Kumāra grew up like the blossom of a Kalpa-vriksha. At the age of 8 years, Vardhamāna Kumāra once went out of the town to play. Śakrendra, while sitting in his assembly-hall, extolled the valour of Vardhamāna Kumāra. In order to defy the words of Śakrendra, an impudent god came to the tree under which Vardhamāna Kumāra was playing with his associates, with the object of terrifying him. Firstly, he assumed the form of a huge venomous snake entwining himself round the trunk of the tree. All the other boys ran away from fear. But Vardhamāna Kumāra held him by his left hand and threw him far off like a withered piece of cloth.

The god, then, assumed the form of a boy of an equal age, and began to play with them. The god purposely lost the game. According to the turn of the game, Vardhamāna Kumāra had to sit on the back of the god who had assumed the form of a boy. As soon as Vardhamāna Kumāra sat on his back, the god, in order to terrify him, assumed the hideous form of a demon and began to grow taller and taller. Vardhamāna Kumāra hit him strongly with his powerful fist and subdued him. The name Mahavīra was thus made significant by Vardhamāna Kumāra even in his childhood.

After a short period of time, it was decided to put Vardhamāna Kumāra to a writing-school. The occasion was celebrated with perfect grandeur and delight. But Śakrendra was astonished at the idea of putting a Jineśvara, the Omniscient Lord to a writing-school. He came to the house of the teacher where Vardhamāna Kumāra was waiting, and assuming the form of a Brāhmaṇa put before Vardhamāna Kumāra the various doubts remaining in the mind of the teacher. Vardhamāna Kumāra readily solved those doubts and composed Jainendra Vyākaraṇa. People were greatly surprised at the skill of a child like Vardhamāna.

In due course of time, Vardhamāna Kumāra attained youth. His mother decided for his marriage, and in spite of his own reluctance, Vardhamāna Kumāra consented to his mother's proposal for his marriage, entirely with the object of satisfying her wishes. The marriage was settled with Yaśodā, the daughter of Samarāvira, a well-renowned king. The marriage-ceremony was arranged with great pomp and delight on the part of both the parties.

At the age of 28 years, Vardhamāna Swāmī lost his parents. Next day, when all the family members were deeply engrossed in sorrow, Vardhamāna Swāmī consoled them with wise words.

After the death of his parents, Vardhamāna Swāmī was repeatedly entreated to accept the throne, but being naturally inclined towards austerities, he did not accept it and his brother Nandivardhana was installed as a ruler.

Vardhamāna Swāmī, then, called together all his family-members, and asked them to allow him to renounce the world. But the people, being deeply attached to him, did not allow him to leave them when they had only recently undergone the agony of his parent's death. At last, they agreed to allow him to renounce the world and leave the house, after two years.

After the lapse of one year, i. e. one year previous to his Dīkṣā, Vardhamāna Swāmī commenced Vārṣika Mahālāna (giving of gifts for one year) and continued to give it for one year. The gifts given by him during one year amounted to 388 crore and 80 million gold coins.

At the end of the promised two years, when Vardhamāna Swāmī left the world and entered ascetic life, all the Indras and numerous gods came to him to pay their homages and extolled him with praises of his virtuous qualities and shoutings of victory.

Author's Views.

The learned professor in the foregoing para 2 of the Introduction to my work "Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira Vol II Part I" under the heading "Origin of the Sacred Works of the Jainas" expresses his opinion that "Really speaking, both Jainism and Buddhism owe to the Brāhmanas especially their Saṃnyāsins, the ground-work of their philosophy, ethics, and cosmogony." But it can be shown easily that neither of them has in this regard any claim to originality, but that both have only adopted the five vows of the Brāhmanic ascetic (Saṃnyāsin)."² The author regrets to have to record his dissent from the professor's opinion.

In contrast with this, Major General J. G. R. Furlong in his "Short Studies in Science of Comparative Religions"--1897 says:--The selection of these Short Studies has enabled us to virtually embrace and epitomise all the faiths and religious ideas of the world, as well as, to lay bare the deep-seated top-root from which they sprang viz the crude Yatism, Jatism or ascetism of thoughtful Jatis of the Jains, who, in man's earliest ages, have on all lands separated themselves from the world and dwelt upon pious motives in lonely forests and mountain caves.....Oksiana, Kaspia, cities of Balk and Samarkand were early centres of the faith--Jainism thus appears as the earliest faith of India.³

Another proof of the statement that Jainism is not an offshoot of Brāhmanism is afforded by the under-mentioned quotation :—

Late Prof. Hermann Jacobi in a Lecture delivered at Framji Cowasji Institute, Bombay, on 13th. April 1914 during his visit to India in 1914 clearly stated that:—

“ I have been asked by my many friends whether I thought Jainism an offshoot of Brahmanism, for it was believed that I had given expression to that opinion in the Introduction to my translation of Jaina Sūtras in the Sacred Books of the East.

“ Now, I have never been of opinion that Jainism is derived from Brāhmanism. I believe that Jainism is, in the main, an independent religious system.⁴”

He gives various sound reasons in support of his opinion.

Along with this, may be read the views and reasons stated by His Holiness Āchārya Mahārāja Śrīman Vijayanand Sūri alias Ātmārāmaji Mahārāja in his valuable work Tatva Nirṇaya Prāsād published in 1902 A. D. at pp. 503 to 534.⁵

Subsequent researches have rightly induced Western and Eastern scholars to the opinion expressed in the Foreword to my work, “Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira Vol. I Part I Page. 26⁶”

“ Jainism is not an offshoot either of Buddhism or of the ancient Hinduism but it is more ancient than Buddhism and the ancient Hinduism, and there are numerous passages in the sacred works of the Hindus to prove the antiquity of the Jain Religion. Even from the most standard⁷ and authentic works of the Hindus, the Jain Religion is acknowledged to date at least from the time of Tirthaṅkara Bhagavān Sri Rṣabha-deva Swāmi.

According to Bhāgavat Pūrāṇa, "the origin of Jainism is attributed to Sri Rṣabha-deva Swāmi who flourished during the latter part of present Avasarpinī age."

"Still older is the reference to Jaina Tirthaṅkaras in the Vedic Śrutis (Tatva Nirṇaya Prāsāda 1902.)

"This clearly shows that so early as 5000 B. C. which is generally considered the most probable date, the Tirthaṅkaras of the Jains were worshipped in India. This ought to convince any one that Jainism dates from very remote antiquity and that it has prevailed in India very long before Gautam Buddha began to preach his doctrines."

The author has thought it proper to add this dissenting note simply with the idea of helping the reader to avoid misunderstanding that may be created in his mind on reading the Introduction and enable him to come to the right conclusion.

Conclusions.

1. Jainism is not an off-shoot of Buddhism.
2. Jainism is not an off-shoot of Brāhmanism (Hinduism).
3. Jainism is a perfectly independent religious system.
4. Jainism is more ancient than Buddhism. Buddhism was started during the life-time of S'ramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira--the last-(twenty-fourth) Tirthankara of the Jains.
5. Jainism is more ancient than Brāhmanism.
6. Jaina philosophy is superior to any other system of philosophy.
7. The Syād-vāda doctrine of the Jains is the most comprehensive and definite method of arriving at decisive conclusions.

Mahāvira, having descended, on the sixth night of the fourth month of and eighth fortnight of summer, i-e on the sixth day of the bright half of the month of Aṣāḍha, from the most excellent विमान Vimana, celestial chariot, the all-victorious and eminently beautiful पुष्पोत्तरविमान Puspottara Vimana

(which is like a white lotus among other vimāns) without an interval, on the termination, of his allotted period of twenty sāgaropams of residence there, of his divine body and of his existence as a god (among gods), here, into this Bhārata-varṣa in Jambūdvīpa, into the southern half of Bhārata varṣa, when, of the present Avasarpinī era, the (first) Suṣama-suṣama age (of four kodā-kodī sāgaropams), the (second) Suṣama age (of three kodā-kodī sāgaropams), the (third) Suṣama-duḥṣama age (of two kodā-kodī sāgaropams) and a greater portion of the (fourth) Duḥṣama-suṣama age (of one kodā-kodī sāgaropama less forty-two thousand years) had elapsed, and only seventy-five years and eight months and a half of the fourth age were remaining,—after twenty-one Tīrthamkaras of इक्ष्वाकु Iksvaku race and काश्यपगोत्र Kasyapa gotra and two Tīrthamkaras of हरिवंश Harivamsa and गौतमगोत्र Gautama gotra, on the whole twenty-three Tīrthamkaras (of the present series) had preceded —Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira, the last Tīrthamkara of the present series—whose advent had been fore-told by previous Tīrthamkaras—took the form of a foetus in the womb of Brāhmaṇī Devānandā of Jālandhara gotra, the wife of Brāhmaṇa Rīṣabha-datta of Kodāla gotra, in the brāhmaṇical part of the town of Kuṇḍagrāma, during the middle of the night, when the moon was in conjunction with the constellation Uttarāphālgunī—the constellation whose next is Hasta—after leaving off divine food, divine existence, and divine body. 2

3 Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra possessed (at the time of conception) three kinds of Knowledge, (viz 1 मतिज्ञान Mati jñāna, Sensual knowledge 2 श्रुतज्ञान Śruta jñāna and 3 अवधिज्ञान Aradhi jñāna Visual Knowledge). He knew that he would descend; he did not know (at that moment) that he was descending (because of the infinitesimally small period of time taken during the descent); and that he knew that he had descended.

During the night, in which Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra took the form of a foetus in the womb of Brāhmaṇi Devānandā of Jālandhara gotra, Brāhmaṇi Devānandā was on her couch, in a condition between sleeping and waking-taking fits of sleep-and having seen the following noble, prosperous, happy, fortunate, auspicious and beautiful fourteen great dreams, she woke up. 3

To wit:—1 An elephant. 2 A bull. 3 A lion. 4 The anointing of Śrī Devi (goddess of wealth) 5 A garland 6 The Moon 7 The Sun 8 A banner 9 A Kalaśa (a festal jar fig ) 10 A lotus-lake 11 A sea 12 A celestial chariot 13 A head of jewels and 14 A smokeless flame.

5 Then, Brāhmaṇi Devānandā, having seen these, such, noble etc fourteen great dreams, woke up; she, astonished contented, rejoicing in her mind, with her mind full of affection, exceedingly cheerful at heart, with her heart widening under the influence of great delight, and with the hair of her body bristling with joy in their pores like the flowers of Kadamba कदम्ब (Adinā Cordifolia) sprinkled with showers of rain, firmly fixed the dreams in her mind. Having fixed the dreams, she rose from her couch. Having risen, neither hasty nor unsteady, nor unbewildered, without delay, and with a gait resembling that of a राजहंस Rāja-hansa (royal swan) she went (to the place) where Brāhmaṇa Rīṣabha-datta was. Having gone there, she gave Brāhmaṇa Rīṣabha-datta greetings of victory and triumph—(victory is acquired in one's own country and triumph in foreign lands). Having greeted him, she sat down comfortably in a splendid chair; becoming free from exertion and well-composed, and joining the palms of her both hands so as to bring the ten nails together, and turning them round the head, she raised the folded hands to her forehead (as a reverential salutation) and spoke thus:—

6. Certainly, indeed, O beloved of the gods! just now when I was in my bed, in a condition between sleeping and waking-taking fits of sleep, I woke up having seen the following such noble etc beautiful fourteen great dreams. Name'y—An elephant etc.....till a smokeless flame.

7. What, O beloved of the gods ! as I positively believe, portended by these noble etc fourteen great dreams ? Then, Brāhmaṇa Rīṣabha-datta, having heard and having perceived this matter from Brāhmaṇi Devānandā, he, astonished, contented etc, with a heart widening etc, with the hair of his body bristling with joy in their pores like the flowers of Kadamba (Adina Cordifolia) sprinkled with showers of rain, fixed the dreams in his mind. Having fixed them, he studied their meaning thoroughly. Having studied their meaning, he grasped the (exact) meaning of those dreams by means of his natural clever intelligence. Having grasped their (exact) meaning, he spoke to Brāhmaṇi Devnandā thus —

8. You have, O beloved of the gods! seen noble dreams.
O beloved of the gods! You have seen prosperous, happy, fortunate, auspicious, beautiful dreams which will bring health, contentment, long life, prosperity and blessing! That is to say, O beloved of the gods! we shall acquire wealth, O beloved of the gods! we shall have objects of enjoyment, O beloved of the gods! we shall have a son, O beloved of gods! we shall have happiness. Really indeed, O beloved of the gods! after the lapse of nine complete months and seven and a half days, you will give birth to a lovely, delightful, handsome boy, whose hands and feet are soft, whose body contains complete well-developed five organs of sense, with lucky marks and signs of excellent quality—a boy on whose body, all the limbs are well-formed and of full volume, measure, and length—a boy with a pleasant appearance like that of the moon.

A Tirthamkara, as well as a Cakravartin, has one thousand and eight auspicious marks and signs on his body; a Baladeva, as well as a Vāsudeva, has one hundred and eight auspicious marks and signs on his body; and other fortunate persons have thirty-two such marks and signs on their bodies.

They are:—

छत्रं तामरसं धनूं रथवरो दम्भोलि कूर्मा इकुशाः । वापी स्वस्तिक तोरणानि च सरः पञ्चाननः पादपः ।
 चक्रं शङ्ख गजौ समुद्र कलशौ प्रासाद मत्स्या यवा ।
 यूप स्तूप कमण्डलू न्यवनिभृत् सच्चामरो दर्पणः ॥ १ ॥
 उक्षा पताका कमलाभिषेकः सुदाम केकी घनपुण्यभाजाम् ॥

Chatram tamarasam dhanū rathāvaro dambholi kūrma' ũkuśāḥ, Vāpi svastika toraṇāni ca saras pañcānanas pādapaḥ,
 Cakram śaṅkha gajau samudra kalasau prāsāda matsyā yavā,
 Yūpa stūpa kaṁṇḍalū nyavanibhrit saccāmaro darpaṇaḥ.
 Ukṣā patākā kamalābhiṣekaḥ sudāma keki ghanapunyaabhājam.

1 Very fortunate persons have the following thirty-two lucky marks and signs on their bodies. viz 1. A canopy 2. A red lotus 3. A bow 4. An excellent chariot 5. A thunder-bolt 6. A tortoise 7. A goad for elephants 8. वापी Vāpi, a well with paved stairs 9. स्वस्तिक Svastika an auspicious mark—a cross with ends bent round 卐 10. तोरण Torana—an auspicious flower-bunting placed on portal arch 11. A lake 12. A lion 13. A tree 14. A Cakra—a discus 15. A concha 16. A pair of elephants 17. An ocean 18. A pair of Kalaśa, vestal jars 19. A palace 20. Fishes 21. यवाः Yavāḥ, markings resembling Barley-corns 22. A sacrificial pillar 23 A raised dome-shaped monument 24 A Kaṁṇḍalū, a wooden or metallic water-pot used by ascetics 25 A mountain 26 A yak-tail chowrie 27 A mirror 28 A bull 29 A flag 30 The anointment with lotus 31 A beautiful garland and 32 A pea-cock.

Another method of describing the thirty-two marks and signs on the body, is the following:—

इह भवति सप्तरक्तः षडुन्नतः पञ्चसूक्ष्म-दीर्घश्च ।

त्रिविपुललघुगम्भीरो द्वात्रिंशलक्षणः स पुमान् ॥ १ ॥

1 Iha bhavati saptaraktaḥ ṣadunnataḥ pañca sūkṣma-dīrghasca;
Trivipulalaghugambhiro dvātriśallakṣaṇaḥ sa pumān. 1.

1. The man whose undernamed seven, viz-nails, soles of feet, palms of hands, tongue, lips, palate, and corners of eyes are red; whose six, viz arm-pit, heart-region, neck, nose, nails, and face with forehead are elevated; whose five, viz-teeth, skin, hair, joints of fingers and nails are slender; whose five, viz-eyes, heart, nose, chin, and upper extremities are long; whose three, viz-forehead, chest, and face are capacious; whose three, viz-neck, legs, and the male generative organ are short; and the three, viz-valour, voice, and navel are deep.

The man possessing the above-named thirty-two qualities is (considered as) a man with the thirty-two marks and signs of a fortunate man.

मुखमर्धं शरीरस्य, सर्वं वा मुखमुच्यते ।

यथा नेत्रे तथा शीलं, यथा नासा तथाऽऽर्जवम् ।

1. The face is half the portion of the body, or, it may be said to be the entire part of it; the nose is better than the face; and the eyes are better than the nose.

2. As are the eyes so is the morality; as is the nose so is the honesty; as is the beauty so is the prosperity, and as is the morality, so are the virtues.

4 Saddharmaḥ subhago nīruk susvapnaḥ sunayaḥ kaviḥ;

6. A man having deceit, avarice, insatiate hunger, idleness and gormandising tendencies, establishes his coming from the class of a lower animal.

७ सरागः स्वजनद्वेषी दुर्भाषो मूर्खसंगकृत् ।

7 Sarāgaḥ svajanadveṣi durbhāṣho mūrkhasangakrit;
Śāsti svasya gatāyātām naro narakavartmani. 7

7. A man who is passionate, who envies his relatives, who uses filthy language, and who associates himself with foolish persons—(that man) indicates his departure to hellish regions (in his next life) and his coming from it also.

८ आवर्तो दक्षिणे भागे दक्षिणः शुभकृन्नृणाम् ।

8 Avarto dakṣiṇe bhāge dakṣiṇaḥ śubhakrin nrinām;
Vāmo vāme'tinindyaḥ syāddiganyatve tu madhyamaḥ 8.

९ अरेखं बहुरेखं वा येषाम् पाणितलं नृणाम् ।

ते स्युरलपायुषो निःस्वा, दुःखिता नाऽत्र संशयः ॥ ९ ॥

9 Arekhaṁ bahurekhaṁ vā yeṣāṁ pāṇi-talaṁ nrinām;
Te syuralpayuṣo niḥsvā duḥkhitā nā'tra saṁśayaḥ. 9.

9 Those persons, whose palms of hands contain no lines or many lines, are short-lived, poor, and unhappy. There is no doubt in this.

Persons whose palms of hands are red, are wealthy; with green palms of hands, a man is a drunkard; with yellow palms, he is full of lust; and with black palms of hands, the man is a pauper. It is better to have the hands of a male, hard; that hardness should not be the consequence of hard labour, but it must be natural. It is better to have the hands of a female soft.

While looking out for signs and lines in hands, in the case of a male, it should be the right hand that should be investigated, while it should be the left hand in the case of a female.

He whose palms of hands are elevated is charitably-disposed; whose palms are superficial is a pauper, and he whose palms of hands are round and deep like a bowl is a wealthy man. The fingers of the hand should be thin and straight.

१० अनामिकाऽन्त्यरेखायाः कनिष्ठा स्याद् यदाऽधिका ।

धनवृद्धिस्तदा पुंसां, मातृपक्षो बहुस्तथा ॥ १० ॥

10 Anāmikā antyarekhāyāḥ kaniṣṭhā syād yadā adhika;
Dhanavriḍḍhistadā pumsām mātṛipakṣo bahustatha.

10 A man whose little finger is longer than the last-joint of the ring-finger, has increase in wealth and the number of relatives on the maternal side is great.

११ मणिबन्धात् पितुर्लेखा करमाद्विभवाऽऽयुषोः ।

लेखे द्वे यान्ति तिस्रोऽपि तर्जन्यंगुष्ठकान्तरम् ॥ ११ ॥

१२ येषां रेखा इमास्तिष्ठः सम्पूर्णा दोषवर्जिताः ।

तेषां गोत्रधनाऽऽयुषि सम्पूर्णान्यन्यथा न तु ॥ १२ ॥

11 Maṇibandhāt piturlekhā karabhādvibhavā'yuṣoḥ;
Lekhe dve yānti tisro'pi tarjanyaṅguṣṭhakāntaram.

12 Yeṣāṃ rekhā imāstisraḥ sampūrṇā doṣa-varjitāḥ;

Teṣāṃ gotra-dhanā'yūṅṣisampurnānyanyathā na tu 12

11 The paternal line—the line of Gotra—starts from the wrist-joint; the line of prosperity and the line of life, both of them, start from the outer portion of the palm between the wrist joint and the little finger. These three lines proceed towards the portion of the hand between the thumb and the index finger. 11

12 If these three lines are perfect and without defects, they indicate perfection in regard to gotra, wealth and age-limit; otherwise not.

१३ उल्लङ्घ्यन्ते च यावत्योऽङ्गुल्यो जीवितरेखया ।

पञ्चविंशत्यो ज्ञेया स्तावत्यः शरदां बुधैः ॥ १३ ॥

13 Ullanghyante ya yāvatyo aṅgulyo jivita rekhayā;

Pancaviṣatayo jneyā stāvatyaḥ śaradāṃ budhaiḥ 13

13 The wise should know the time-limit of age of a person (in this world) by each period of twenty-five years, for every finger the line of life goes by (the fingers) 13

That is to say, if the line of life goes beyond only the little finger, it indicates an existence of life only for twenty-five years; if it goes beyond the little finger and reaches as far as the ring finger, it indicates an existence of life for fifty years; if the line of life transgresses, the little, the ring, and the middle finger, it indicates an age-limit of seventy-five years, and beyond that time-limit, if the line of life goes further.

If the off-shoots from the line of life point towards the wrist-joint it indicates prosperity; and if they point towards the fingers it indicates adversity.

If the ऊर्ध्वरेखा Urdhva-rekhā—the upward line starting from the wrist-joint goes towards the thumb, it indicates, happiness increase in wealth and acquisition of countries. If the upward line goes towards the index finger, the person will either be a king or his equal. If the upward line goes towards the middle finger, it means that the man will either become a religious preceptor or a commander of armies. If the upward line goes towards the ring finger, it indicates that the man will be a wealthy traveller. If the upward line points towards the little finger, it indicates that the man will be a favourite of the public,

Between the thumb and the gotra line, there is the line for brothers and sisters; between the line of life and the wrist joint, is the line of progeny; and between the line of life and the little finger, is the line of wives.

१४ यवैरंगुष्ठमध्यस्थैर्विद्या-त्याति-विभूतयः ।

14 Yavairāṅguṣṭhamadhyasthai r-vidyā-khyāti-vibhūtayah;

Śukla pakṣe tathā janma dakṣiṇāṅguṣṭhai shea taiḥ 14.

14 The presence of the sign of a barley grain in the middle of the thumb, indicates knowledge, fame, and prosperity. If the sign of a barley grain is in the middle of the right thumb, it indicate birth during the bright-half of the month.

१५ न स्त्री त्यजति रक्ताक्षं, नाऽर्थः कनकपिङ्गलम् ।

दीर्घबाहुं न चैश्वर्यं न मांसोपचितं सुखम् ॥ १५ ॥

15 Na stri tyajati raktākṣam nā'arthah kanaka piṅgalam;

Dirgha bāhuṁ na chaisvayam na mānsopachitam sukham

15 A woman does not leave the red-eyed; wealth does not leave the man whose eyes are yellow like gold; prosperity does not leave one whose upper extremities are long; and happiness does not leave the man who is fleshy.

१६ चक्षुःस्नेहेन सौभाग्यं, दन्तस्नेहेन भोजनम् ।
वपुःस्नेहेन सौख्यं स्यात्, पादस्नेहेन वाहनम् ॥ १६ ॥

16 Cakṣuḥ snehena saubhāgyam, dantasnehena bhojanam;
Vapuḥsnehena saukhyam syāt, pādasnehena vāhanam 16

16 Greasiness of eyes indicates good luck; greasiness of teeth indicates the acquisition of good food; greasiness of the body will bring happiness; and the greasiness of feet is indicative of acquisition of conveyances.

१७ उरोविशालो धनधान्यभोगी, शिरोविशालो नृपपुङ्गवश्च ।

11 Then, Brāhmaṇi Devānandā, having heard this meaning (of dreams) from Brāhmaṇi Rīṣabhadatta and having fixed it in her mind, she became satisfied, contented etc her heart full of joy; and having folded the palms of her two hands in a way to bring the ten nails of her hands together and turning them round three times and having placed the folded hands in front of her forehead, she addressed Brāhmaṇa Rīṣabha-datta thus:—

12 It is so. O beloved of the gods! It is really so, O beloved of the gods! It is as it stands, O beloved of the gods! It is undoubtedly so, O beloved of the gods! It is so desired by me, O beloved of the gods! It is accepted by me, O beloved of the gods! It is desired and accepted by me, O beloved of the gods! It is as true as you say. So saying, she fully accepted the dreams; and having fully accepted them, she remained with Brāhmaṇa Rīṣabha-datta, enjoying the precious human worldly pleasures.

curs! who puts on garments as clean as the sky without dust, who has put on garlands and crown in their proper places, whose two cheeks are stroked by charming, embellished swinging ear-pendants of fine gold, the most prosperous, the most brilliant, the most powerful, the most renowned, the most glorious, the most happy, with a shining body, with a garland of many colours, reaching right to his feet, who was in Saudharma Kalpa, in the celestial car Saudharma Avatamsaka in the audience hall Sudharman, in the lion-seated throne Śakra; he who exercises and maintains supreme rule, guidance, leadership, supreme authority and general commandership over (1) thirty-two hundred thousand celestial abodes, over (2) eighty-four thousand सामानिक Sāmānika gods, (gods with a rank similar to that of himself) over (3) thirty-three त्रय-त्रिंशः Trāyatrimśāh, protecting gods (held in high esteem by the Indra) (4) the four guardians of the world, (5) the eight chief queens with their retinue, over (6) three assemblies, (7) seven armies, (8) seven commanders of armies, over (9) eighty-four thousand guardian-gods in each of the four directions, and over (10) numerous other Vaimānika gods and goddesses, residing in Saudharma Kalpa. The Indra was enjoying the enjoyable divine pleasures, amid the great singing sound of dancing, songs, musical performances, music of stringed instruments (Viṇā), rhythmical clapping of hands, the Turya, the great drum and the clear sound of the beating of the kettle-drum.

Here, the Śakra has been described as शतकृतु Śatakṛitu, the observer of the fifth religious vow of a Śrāvaka, a hundred times, during his previous life as कार्तिक सेठ Kārtika Śeṭh. The soul of Kārtika Śeṭh, was born as Saudharmendra during his next life, on account of his practising such religious observances. The account of Kārtika Śeṭh runs as follows:—

THE STORY OF KĀRTIKA ŚETH.

At पृथिवीभूषण नगर Prithivibhūṣaṇa Nagara, a town named Prithivibhūṣaṇa, there was a king named प्रजापाल Prajāpāla.

There lived, in that town, a very wealthy pious Śrāvaka named कर्तिक सेठ Kārtika Śeth who was a great favourite of the king. He observed the fifth religious vow of a Śrāvaka, one hundred times, and was hence known as शतकृतु Śatakritu.

One day, a wandering ascetic of the Gairika sect, named गैरिक Gairika, who had observed fasting for one month, came to the town and all the people of the town, except Kārtika Śeth became his devotees. Gairika having come to know it, was greatly enraged with Kārtika Śeth.

One day, the king invited Gairika for dinner at his palace. Gairika said "I will come to your palace for dinner, if Kārtika Śeth serves me food." The king agreed to the proposal and calling Kārtika Śeth to his presence, said "You entertain Gairika with food at my palace." Kārtika Śeth said "O sovereign! under your Majesty's command, I will entertain him". When Kārtika Śeth was serving food to Gairika who was taking his meals in the palace, Gairika impudently began to practise jokes with Kārtika Śeth, by passing his fore-finger across his own nose, implying how Kārtika Śeth had been humbled down.

Kārtika Śeth thought "If I had previously taken दीक्षा Dikṣā, Initiation into an order of Monks, I would not have been obliged to undergo such humility. With this idea prevailing in his mind, Kārtika Śeth received दीक्षा Dikṣā from Bhagavān Śrī Muni Suvrata Swāmi, along with one thousand and eight merchants' sons. In due course of time, he studied the twelve Aṅgas. Having very carefully observed his duties as an ascetic for twelve years, the soul of Kārtika Śeth was born during his next life as Saudharmendra, as a result of his practising severe austerities during his ascetic-life, and Gairika was born as elephant ऐरावत Airāvaṇa, the Indra's special vehicle.

The elephant knowing that the soul of Kārtika Śeth was born as Saudharmendra, tried to run away. The Indra holding him tightly, mounted him, sitting on his head. The elephant, with an intention of terrifying the Indra, assumed two forms, and the Indra assumed two. The elephant then assumed four forms and the Indra did the same. The Indra, thereupon, knowing the real nature of affairs, thru Avadhi Jnāna, threatened the elephant. The elephant then assumed his natural form.

The Indra, with such a retinue, was enjoying the pleasures of celestial happiness amid the sound of music of continuous dramatic performances, lute, clapping of hands and other stringed instruments, and amid the solemn beating of the drum which produces deep sound like that of roaring of clouds, and the attractive sound of the kettle-drum. 13

15. The Saudharmendra, then, remains, seeing often, the whole of Jambu dvīpa through the medium of his extensive Avadhi Jñāna. There he sees Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra taking birth as a foetus in the womb of Devānandā brāhmaṇi of Jālandhara gotra, wife of Rīṣabhadatta brāhmaṇa of Kodāla gotra, in Brahmaṇa Kundagrāma nagara in the southern half of Bharata Kṣetra of Jambu dvīpa; and having seen him, the Indra-pleased, satisfied, delighted, full of joy, full of great joy, full of affection, with a heart expanded with joy, with the hair of his body erect and bristling with joy like the fragrant flowers of Kadamba tree sprinkled by showers of rain, with his face and eyes blooming like an excellent expanded lotus flower, with his bracelets, armlets, diadem and ear-pendants shaking with bewilderment caused by extreme delight on seeing the Bhagavān, with his breast appearing beautiful with neck-laces, with a very long pearl neck-lace swinging to and fro— rises up abruptly, eagerly and swiftly from the lion-seated throne. Having risen up, he gets down from the foot-stool and having got down, he removes from his feet, two pādukās पादुका foot-wear studded with Vaidurya Ratna, best Rīṣṭa Ratna and Anjana Ratna by clever artisans, and beset with glittering Candra Kānta and other gems and Karketana and other precious stones; having removed them, egaśāḍiam uttarāsaṅgam karei एगसाडिअं उत्तरासंगं करेइ । puts on his upper garment (a scarf about nine feet long and about three feet wide, encircling the upper portion of his body in such a way, that the centre of the cloth remains in the right axilla and the two ends touch the upper portion of the left shoulder in the form of a loose tie and hanging in front and behind); having done it, the Saudharmendra, with his two hands folded to form a cavity and kept in front of his forehead, goes seven or eight steps towards the Tirthamkara, and having gone there, keeps the left knee high and the right knee on the ground, and applies his head three times to the ground; and having done so, bends his body forward a little, and having bent his body, raises his arms which were arrested by bracelets and armlets; and having raised them, the Saudharmendra, with his two hands folded to form an añjali (a cavity) bringing his ten nails together, moving the añjali around his head, and keeping it in front of his forehead, spoke thus:—

(1) Namutthu nam Arihantānam नमुत्थु णं अरिहंताणं Obeisance to the Arihants (who have destroyed enemies in the form of evil karmas.) (2) Bhagavantānam भगवन्ताणं, To him who possesses the twelve attributes indicated by the twelve out of the fourteen meanings of the word Bhaga भग. They are 1 Sūrya सूर्य The sun 2 Jñāna ज्ञान Knowledge 3 Māhātmya माहात्म्य Greatness 4 Yaśa यश The quality of pacifying the animosities of creatures having natural antipathy towards each other 5 Vairāgya वैराग्य Indifference to worldly objects 6 Mukti मुक्ति Liberation 7 Rūpa रूप Beauty 8 Virya वीर्य Strength 9 Prayatna प्रयत्न Effort (in practising austerities) 10 Icchā इच्छा The desire (for salvation of the living beings of the universe) 11 Laxmi लक्ष्मी Wealth 12 Dharma धर्म Duty 13 Aśvarya ऐश्वर्य Prosperity and 14 Yoni योनि Female organ of generation. So far as Bhagavān is concerned, out of these fourteen meanings, the first viz Sūrya and the last viz Yoni are to be excluded. The remaining twelve meanings are therefore:—Jñānavān ज्ञानवान् Possessing Knowledge 2 Māhātmyavān माहात्म्यवान् Possessing greatness 3 Yaśasyin यशस्वीन् Possessing the faculty of pacifying the animosities of living beings who have natural antipathy towards each other, as for instance, a peacock having a natural antipathy towards a serpent, a dog towards a cat, a cat towards a mouse etc 4 Vairāgyavān वैराग्यवान् Possessing indifference towards worldly pleasures. 5 Muktiavān मुक्तिवान् Possessing Liberation. 6 Rūpavān रूपवान् Possessing handsome form 7 Viryavān वीर्यवान् Possessing unlimited strength 8 Pra-

(3) Aigarāṇam आङ्गराणं, The originator of the Dharma, with regard to his individual Tirtha; (4) Tittha-yarāṇam तिथ्यराणं The founder of the Tirtha or Sangha i-e an institution consisting of four elements viz Sādhus साधु Sādhvi साध्वी Nuns, Śrāvaka श्रावक Lay-men-jains and Śrāvikas श्राविका Lay-women-jains or the instututer of the first Gaṇadhara गणधर the leader of the order of monks; (5) Sayam sambuddhāṇam सयसेबुद्धाणं, One who has developed Knowledge without instruction of any one else. has thirty-four supernatural powers. (11) Loganāhāṇaṃ लोग-नाहणं To him who is the lord of righteous people, because he is the medium of the acquisition of Right Knowledge etc by others and because he protects them; (12) Loga hiyāṇaṃ लोगहियाणं To him who does good to all animals because he is the propagator of the principle of Mercy towards all animals; (13) Loga paivāṇaṃ लोगपईवाणं To him who is like a lamp to the people, because he is able to destroy the darkness of Mithyātva; (14) Loga pajjoagarāṇaṃ लोगपज्जोअगराणं To him who is the illuminator of all substances in the universe (like the sun); (15) Abhaya dayāṇaṃ अभयदयाणं To him who is the bestower of Abhaya अभय Freedom from the seven kinds of fear. The seven kinds of fear are:—1 Ihaloka bhaya इहलोकभय Fear from a human being or a beast to a human being 2 Paraloka bhaya परलोकभय Fear from a god or a demigod. 3 Adāna bhaya आदानभय Fear of wealth and property to be stolen away by robbers. 4 Akasmād bhaya अकस्माद्भय Fear caused by an occurrence without any visible external cause. 5 Maraṇa bhaya मरणभय Fear of death. 6 Ajivikā bhaya आजीविकाभय Fear about the means of one's maintenance and 7 Apayaśa bhaya अपयशभय Fear of disrace. Arihanta Bhagavān is the bestower of Abhaya because he is able to remove these seven kinds of fear. (16) Chakkhu dayāṇaṃ चक्षुदयाणं To him who gives an insight into the Sacred knowledge. (17) Magga dayāṇaṃ मगगदयाणं To him who gives Samyag Jñāna सम्यग्ज्ञान Right Knowledge, Samyag darśan सम्यग्दर्शन Right Perception and Samyag Cāritra सम्यग्चरित्र Right Conduct leading to the path of Liberation; (18) Saraṇa dayāṇaṃ सरणदयाणं To him who gives shelter to people terrified by the miseries of the Samsāra. (19) Jiva dayāṇaṃ जीवदयाणं To him who gives a state in which there is no death but endless existence or Mokṣa with an absence of birth and death or who bears compassion towards living beings; (20) Bohi dayāṇaṃ बोहिदयाणं To him who gives Samyaktva; (21) Dhamma dayāṇaṃ धम्मदयाणं To him who has instituted two kinds of Dharma viz 1 Desha Virati Dharma देशवरतिधर्म Duties of partial vows for house-holders and 2 Sarva Virati सर्वविरति

Dharma-Total Vows for ascetics, (22) Dhamma-desayāṇaṃ धम्मदेसयणं To him who is the preceptor of Dharma (23) Dhamma nāyagāṇaṃ धम्मनायगणं To him who is the leader of Dharma. (24) Dhamma sārāhiṇaṃ धम्मसारहीणं To him who is like a charioteer to the chariot of Dharma. Just as, a charioteer brings a chariot running astray to the right path, in the same manner, the Bhagavān brings the people going astray to the path of duty. It is illustrated by the story of Megha Kumāra.

STORY OF MEGHA KUMĀRA.

One day, Śramaṇa Śree Mahāvira Swāmi going from village to village came to the pleasure-garden outside the town of Rājagriha राजगृह. Then, Śreṇika श्रेणिक was the king and Dhāriṇī धारिणी was his queen. They had a son named Megha Kumāra. King Śreṇika, Megha Kumāra and others went to give their respects to Him. On hearing the preaching of Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira, Megha Kumāra became indifferent to worldly pleasures. He abandoned his eight wives, and having received the permission of his parents with some hesitation, was initiated into an order of monks by Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira. Megha Kumāra was then entrusted to elderly Sādhus for the purpose of teaching him Sutras and their meanings and the duties of a Sādhu.

At night, while spreading their beddings in an order of seniority, the bedding of Megha Kumāra came at the end just near the door of the Upāśraya. The bedding of Megha Kumāra became completely filled with the dust of the feet of Sādhus going out and coming in for urination, and so, he could not get even a moment's sleep at night. So, he thought "Where is my royal bedding! and how to wallow thus on the ground! How long should I suffer this affliction? In the morning, I will take the permission of the Bhagavān and return home." With this idea in his mind, when during the morning, Megha Kumāra went to the Bhagavān Śramaṇa

Bhagavān Mahāvira addressing him with sweet words said: 'O child! You had an evil meditation at night but that is not considerate. You have suffered innumerable agonies of hellish regions for many sāgaropams in your previous lives. What is this trifling inconvenience in comparison to those agonies? Who but a fool would accept servitude leaving aside the prosperity of a chakravartin? Who will be foolish enough to take a piece of stone instead of a Cintāmaṇi Ratna चिन्तामणिरत्न a gem of magical power supposed to yield to its possessor every thing wanted? O Megh! if one can safely get through the agonies of hell, how can he not safely get through the minor troubles of human life? Is it advisable for a wise man to leave aside Cāritra Dharma चरित्रधर्म the vows of an ascetic for an insignificant comfort? It is better to die than to abandon the vows taken. Physical suffering in the observation of Cāritra dharma चरित्रधर्म the duties of an ascetic is rewarded with Right Knowledge, and therefore it is very beneficial. Besides, you had suffered much bodily suffering in your previous lives, while doing virtuous actions, and hence you are enjoying the wealth of a very wide kingdom. Now hear the account of your previous life.

During your third previous life, you were a large white elephant with six tusks, named Sumeruprabha सुमेरुप्रभ in the region of Mount Vaitādhyā वैताढ्य and the lord of one thousand female elephants. One day a severe fire occurred in the forest. Fearing danger you began to run away. While running away, you became very thirsty and happened to come to a small lake full of mud. Not knowing a better path to enter the lake, you became immersed in the mud. You were far from dry land and also could not reach water. In the mean time, an elephant who had previous animosity towards you, came there and wounded you with blows with his tusks. Having suffered unbearable pain for seven days you died, having completed an age-limit of one hundred and twenty years.

After your death, you were again born as a red elephant with four tusks in the region of Mount Vindhyācala विन्ध्याचल and were the lord of seven hundred female elephants. One day on seeing fire in the forest, you had a remembrance of your previous life. You therefore prepared a circular area, about four kosha in diameter, free from grass with an idea of escaping from the danger of the fire, and used to root out grass and creepers that would grow there in the commencement of the rainy season and also at the end.

A severe fire broke out, however, in that forest, and all the animals living in the forest came to the circular area and remained there. You also came running there. There was not an inch of room in the circular area. You raised up one of your feet for the purpose of allaying itching sensation. Meanwhile, a rabbit owing to over-crowding, came and occupied the space created by the raising of your foot; as you were setting your foot down after allaying the itching, you saw a rabbit there. Out of compassion for the rabbit, you held up your foot, bent upwards for two days and a half. When the fire subsided and all the animals went away to their respective places, the rabbit also went away, but as the veins of your foot became unusually swollen and stiff, while you were trying to lay down your foot on the ground, you fell down at once on the ground. Suffering the pangs of hunger and thirst for three days, but full of compassion, you died after completing an age-limit of one hundred years. You-the soul of the elephant-are born in this life as a son from the womb of queen Dhārini, wife of Śrenika Rājā. "O Megha Kumāra ! you suffered such unbearable pains out of compassion even during your life as a lower being, and so, you are born in this life in a royal family. Now, just think for a moment, how much you will gain by undergoing bodily suffering for observing the duties of an ascetic. O Megha ! you were without Right Knowledge during your life as a lower being, still, out of compassion for living beings, you did not mind unbearable pains, why do you now vex at being touched by the feet of worthy Sādhus even after acquiring Right Knowledge ? These Sādhus deserve to be worshipped by the whole world, and the dust of the feet of such pious Sādhus can only be touched by meritorious persons. You should not, therefore, be pained at being touched by the feet of these worthy Sādhus." On hearing these words of Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira, Megha Kumāra had a remembrance of his previous lives. After remembering the accounts of his previous two lives, Megha Kumāra, getting indifferent to worldly pleasures, bowed down before the Bhagavān and said "O lord! O master! may you live long. Just as a clever charioteer brings a chariot going astray to the right path, in the same manner, you have brought me back to the right path. My lord! you have delivered me."

Megha Kumāra being thus advised, became steady in observing his duties as an ascetic, and he took an oath that he should not take treatment-medicinal or physical-for any other portion of his body, except his two eyes, even under any calamitous circumstance. Having taken such a life-long oath, having carefully observed his duties as an ascetic without any defect, having practised severe austerities and at the end of his life remaining without food and water for one month, Megha Kumāra died and was born as a god in Vijaya Anuttara Vimāna. Descending from there, he will acquire Liberation in Mahā Videha Kṣetra. Thus, Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira is a charioteer of the chariot of Dharma.

Having adored and worshipped the Venerable One, he sat on his excellent lion-seated throne, with his face towards the East.

Then, a self-conceived, well-meditated, desirable, mental idea-not expressed in words-occurred in the mind of Śakrendra, the Indra of the gods, the king of the gods.

THE FIRST STRANGE EVENT.

1. Uvasagga (उवसग्ग) Suffering. Gośāla caused much suffering to Venerable Saint Mahāvira even during his Kevali state. It happened thus:—One day, the Venerable Saint Mahāvira, going about from village to village, went to the town of Śrāvastī श्रावस्ती. Gośāla came there at the same time and proclaimed himself as a Jina जिन. Rumour became afloat, then, that there were two Jinās at Śrāvastī. Hearing the rumour, Gautama Swāmi asked Bhagavāna Mahāvira 'O Lord! who is this another person calling himself a Jina?' Bhagavāna said, 'Gautama, he is not a Jina but he is a man named Gośāla गोशाल the son of a man named Mankhali मंखलि of Saravāṇa सरवण village by his wife Subhadra सुभद्रा. He is named Gośāla because he was born in a big cow-stall belonging to a Brahmin. During my young age i-e before the attainment of Kevala Jñāna केवलज्ञान he wandered about with me for six years calling himself my pupil and acquired some divine knowledge from me. Now he calls him-self a Jina. On hearing these words of Bhagavāna Mahāvīra, a rumour went round that Gośāla was not a Jina. Hearing such a talk in different parts of the town, Gośāla was greatly enraged.

One day, when Ānand ~~अनन्त~~ a disciple of Bhagavāna Śree Mahāvīra Swāmi was on a begging-tour for alms, Gośāla addressed him thus:—“O Ānand, just hear a story from me.

Some merchants went to a foreign country with carts full of various groceries for sale. On their way, they entered a big forest. There was no water anywhere. They became very thirsty, and hence, they went in search of water. They saw four hillocks with snake-burrows. There was green foliage around the hillocks, and so, they thought that there must be water in the hillocks. They dug out one hillock and obtained a large quantity of water. They quenched their thirst with the water and filled their vessels with it. An old man from them, said ‘Our object is served; please, therefore, do not dig the second hillock. Still, they dug the second hillock and they got gold from it. Still however, although imploringly forbidden by the old man, they dug out the third hillock and obtained jewels from it. The old man again advised them “Brother! You have got water, you obtained gold and jewels, please, therefore, do not dig the fourth hillock.” I do not see any good future in this, please, bear in mind this advice from an old man and let us go our own way.” Although the merchants were thus vehemently forbidden, they dug the fourth hillock out of avarice. A huge snake emitting poison from its eyes, rushed out from its burrow, and going up angrily to the top of the hillock, threw the poison all around killing all the merchants then and there. The old man, who used to forbid them by good advice was very honest and so, the deity of the forest, out of compassion for him, took him alive to his place of residence.

In the same manner, O Ānanda! not satisfied with so much prosperity of his own, your preceptor enrages me by reviling me as he thinks fit. I will therefore burn him alive through the prowess of my austerities. I am going to do it just now. You go now and relate to him immediately this fact. Give your preceptor the right advice and I will keep you alive being a good adviser like that old merchant." On hearing this threat, Muni Ānanda became greatly alarmed, and going in hot haste to Bhagavāna Śree Mahāvira Swāmi, narrated the whole account. Bhagavāna Mahāvira said, "Here comes Gośāla, so O Ānanda, you and all the Sādhus go away in different directions and inform Gautama and others that no Sādhu should talk with him." Gośāla went thereafter, to Bhagavāna Śree Mahāvira Swāmi and said "O Kāśyapa! Why dost thou say that this Gośāla is the son of Mankhali? That man—your pupil—is already dead. I am a different man altogether, but knowing that the body of Gośāla is powerful enough to suffer great hardships, I have taken possession of his body." Two disciples of Venerable Saint Mahāvira named Sūnakṣatra सुनक्षत्र and Sarvānubhūti सर्वानुभूति, unable to put up with the insult to the Lord, began to say something in the middle. This greatly enraged Gośāla and he burnt down to ashes both the Sādhus by his Tejoleśyā तेजोलेइया. Both of them went to heaven. Bhagavāna Śree Mahāvira asked Gośāla, "O Gośāla! If a thief committing a theft is encircled by a crowd of people and not having a fortress or a mountain or a cave to hide himself in, tries to hide himself by his own finger or by a piece of straw, do you think he can thus hide himself? In the same way, you are trying to hide yourself by saying anything you like, do you think you can hide yourself thus? You are the same Gośāla, no one else, why should you try to hide yourself in this way?" Although Śramana Bhagavān Mahāvira thus stated the bare fact as it was, the wicked Gośāla angrily discharged his Tejoleśyā तेजोलेइया on Bhagavāna Mahāvira but the Tejoleśya, going around him three times, entered the body of Gośāla. His whole body was there—by severely burnt, and suffering intense agony for seven days, Gośāla died during the seventh night. As a result of the heat of Tejoleśyā, Bhagavāna Mahāvira passed blood with stools for six months. Venerable Saint Mahāvira had this trouble even after attaining केवलज्ञान. Kevala Jnāna Tirthaṃkaras, as a rule, do not have any painful trouble after the acquisition of Kevala Jnāna, and the mere remembrance of that name is sufficient to heal all pains. However, the above-mentioned event did occur in the case of Venerable Saint Mahāvira Swāmi and hence it is an Accheruṃ अच्चेरु or a strange event.

2. SECOND STRANGE EVENT.

2. The second strange event relates to the removal of the foetus from one womb to the other. It has never happened in case of any previous Tirthaṃkaras, but it did occur in case of Venerable Saint Mahāvira; the foetus of Devānandā having been removed from her womb into the womb of queen Trisalā. It is thus a strange event.

3. THIRD STRANGE EVENT.

3. The third strange event is a female Tirthaṃkara, itthītittha इत्थीतिष्ठ. As a rule, Tirthaṃkaras are all male; never a female. But during the present Avasarpini age, Malli kumvari मल्लीकुंवरी the daughter of King Kumbharāja of Mithilā, became the nineteenth Tirthaṃkara. It is a strange event.

4. FOURTH STRANGE EVENT.

4. Abhāvīa Parisā अभविआ परिसा: The fruitlessness of the preaching of Tirthaṃkara. The preaching of a Tirthaṃkara is not fruitless; but during the present Avasarpini age, when Venerable Saint Mahāvira, soon after the acquisition of Kevala Jnāna, preached from a Samavasaraṇa समवसरण prepared by gods, no one had any desire to take a vow, and so, the preaching was fruitless. The assembly in the Samavasaraṇa consisted mainly of gods and tiryancas (lower animals) and so there was none to take any vow then. Śramaṇa Bhagavāna Mahāvīra knew by his Kevala Jñāna that there will be no one to take a vow, still, he gave the preaching for the purpose of preserving the customary usage. The fruitlessness of the first preaching of Śramaṇa Bhagavāna Mahāvīra is thus strange event.

5. FIFTH STRANGE EVENT.

5. Kaṇhassa Avarakankā कण्हस्स अवरकंका Kṛṣṇa Vāsudeva's going to Aparakankā is the fifth strange event. Śree Kṛṣṇa, the ninth Vāsudeva went to Aparakankā अपरकंका for the sake of Draupadi द्रौपदी. It happened thus:—One day, Sage Nārada नारद paid a visit to Draupadi, the wife of the Pāṇdavas. Draupadi did not respect him by getting up and going towards him to receive him, as he was unconsecrated. Nārada therefore became angry and thought to put Draupadi into trouble for thus insulting him. Nārada, with this object, went to the town of Aparakankā in the Bharata kṣetra of Dhātaki Khandā and gave an exaggerated account of the beauty of Draupadi before Padmottara पद्मोत्तर, the king of Aparakankā who was very passionately fond of women. King Padmottara became enamoured of Draupadi. She was forcibly brought away with the help of a god—a friend of his—and was kept in his harem. There, the most chaste and virtuous Draupadi, preserved her morality. Kuntī कुन्ती the mother of the Pāṇdavas, gave the information of Draupadi having been forcibly taken away by Padmottara, to Kṛṣṇa. Thereupon Kṛṣṇa made inquiries about her at a number of places but he could not trace her out. In the mean-time, Kṛṣṇa received the information about Draupadi from Nārada himself. Kṛṣṇa adored and worshipped Sūthita-deva सुस्थितदेव, The Lord of the Lavaṇa ocean लवण समुद्र. The appeased god gave him a way through the ocean and the chariots of Kṛṣṇa and the Pāṇdvas went across it. Kṛṣṇa, then, went to Aparakankā, assumed the form of Nṛsiṃha नृसिंह and defeated King Padmottara. Padmottara was kept alive by a word from Draupadi.

While returning with Draupadi, Kṛṣṇa Vāsudeva sounded his conch-shell. Kapila Vāsudeva, residing at Aparakankā was astonished to hear the sound of the conch-shell of a Vāsudeva. He therefore inquired of Jineśvara Bhagavāna Śree Muni Suvrata Swāmi, and was informed of the coming of Kṛṣṇa Vāsudeva there. Kapila Vāsudeva, desirous of seeing Kṛṣṇa Vāsudeva, went near the shore of the ocean and sounded his conch. Kṛṣṇa Vāsudeva who had gone a long way in the ocean sounded his conch in return. Both the Vāsudevas met each other by the exchange of the sound of their individual conch. Such a thing had never happened; two Vāsudevas never meet each other and therefore this meeting is a strange event.

6. SIXTH STRANGE EVENT.

6. Avayaraṇam Canda-Sūrāṇam अवयरणं चंद-सूराणं, the descent of the Moon and the Sun, is the sixth strange event. The Sun and the Moon descended to the town of Kauśāmbi कौशांबी in their original celestial chariots for the purpose of giving their respects to the Venerable Saint Mahāvīra. This event never occurred before, and so it is a strange one.

7. SEVENTH STRANGE EVENT.

7. Harivaṃsa kuluppatti हरिवंसकुलुप्पत्ती The origin of the Hari race. It occurred as follows:—King Sumukha सुमुख of Kaushāmbi had Vanamālā वनमाला a very handsome wife of a weaver named Viraka वीरक brought to his harem and kept there. The mind of the weaver became so much deranged by the separation from his beloved, that he addressed whom-so-ever he saw, as Vanamālā! Vanamālā. The demented Viraka followed by persons fond of curiosity, went to the palace of the king and began crying out Vanamālā! Vanamālā. The king and Vanamālā, amusing themselves in a balcony of the palace saw him. Both of them became sorry for his pitiable condition and said “We have done a very unbecoming act; we have spoiled the life of this innocent man for the purpose of satisfying our carnal desires. One does not know how many wicked actions are done by persons blinded by love.”

When they were thus expressing their sorrow at their own improper conduct, both of them, died accidentally by a stroke of lightning and were born as twins in the Harivarṣa Kṣetra हरिवर्ष क्षेत्र.

On coming to know that both the king and Vanamālā were dead, Viraka said "Well-done! the wicked are deservedly punished." Gradually coming to his proper senses and being actuated by a feeling of repugnance towards worldly objects, Viraka became a Tāpasa तापस, a mendicant, and practising severe austerities, became a Vyantara व्यंतर god after death. Through the medium of his in-born Vibhanga Jnāna विभंगज्ञान he saw both the yugalika-twins and thought "O! these yugalikas-my former enemies-are enjoying happiness here, and in the next life, they will become gods and will have immense happiness. How can I tolerate that my enemies should enjoy happiness? I will put both of them into trouble, so that, they may become unhappy." So thinking, the Vyantara by his prowess of contracting the bodies and life-period of both of them, brought them to Bharata-kṣetra and made them a king and a queen. They were named Hari हरि and Hariṇi हरिणी respectively; and making them extremely fond of meat and wine and of other vices, the Vyantara-god departed. Both of them making free use of meat, wine, and all the seven vices, went to hell. The descendents of Hari and Hariṇi are known as kings belonging to the Hari race. The coming of the yugalika युगलिक twins to Bharata Kṣetra, the contraction of their bodies and the duration of their life-limit and their going to hell, is a very strange event.

8. EIGHTH STRANGE EVENT.

8. Camarendra चमरेन्द्र the Indra of the Asura Kumāra असुर कुमार heaven-the first variety of Bhuvanapati Devas भुवनपति देव went high beyond his limit.

It happened thus:—A ṛṣi ऋषि, sage, named Purāṇa पुराण practising severe austerities was born Camarendra. The newly-born Camarendra, on seeing Saudharma Indra above himself was greatly enraged, and so, he took the shelter of Venerable Saint Mahāvira, and assuming an extremely hideous form, extended his body to two hundred thousand yojans, took an iron mace in his hand and wielding it in all directions and terrifying the body-guards of Śakrendra by thunderings, went high. Stamping his feet on the sacrificial alter of the Saudharmavatamsaka सौधर्मवर्तंसक Vimāna, he began reviling and abusing Śakrendra. The Śakrendra, being seriously enraged, threw the flashing thunder-bolt towards him. The Camarendra out of fear, sought the shelter of the feet of Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira who was standing in Kāyotsarga कायोत्सर्ग relinquishment of the body. Śakendra having come to know the whole account through the medium of his Avadhi Jñāna अवधिज्ञान Visual knowledge, and fearing disrespect towards the Venerable Saint, went hurriedly there, took away the thunder bolt which was only four fingers distant from the feet and spoke thus to Camarendra:—"I am keeping you alive only through the grace of the Venerable Saint." With these words the Camarendra was set free. The going high-up of Camarendra is an unusual occurrence and hence it is a strange event.

9. NINTH STRANGE EVENT.

9. One hundred and eight persons with the highest spiritual attainment cannot acquire Siddhi Pada, सिद्धिपद, the Stage of Final Liberation during one Samaya, at one and the same time. But they have done so during the present Avasarpini age. It was in this way:—

यतः—वृषभो (१) वृषभस्य सुता (९९) भरतेन विवर्जिताश्च नवनवतिः ।

अष्टौ भरतस्य सुताः (१०८) शिवं गता एक समयेन ॥ १ ॥

Yataḥ:—Vṛṣabho (1) Vṛṣabhasya sūtā (99) Bharatena vivarjitāśca navanavatiḥ;

Aṣṭau Bharatasya sūtāḥ (108) śivam gatā eka samayena

Because:—Riṣabha-deva, the ninety-nine sons of Riṣabha-deva excepting Bharata, and the eight sons of Bharata भरत, altogether one hundred and eight persons attained Final Liberation in one Samaya समय Instant. It is a strange event.

10. TENTH STRANGE EVENT.

The adoration and worship of unconsecrated individuals is a strange event. Unconsecrated Brāhmīns, who are avaracious of riches and property were worshipped during the interval between the time of the Ninth and the Tenth Tirthaṅkaras. As a rule, only those who have renounced the world, deserve to be worshipped. The adoration and worship of the unconsecrated Brāhmīns, during the present Avasarpīni age, is a strange event.

These ten strange events occurred during the present Avasarpīni age, after the lapse of innumerable years. In the same manner, other ten strange events occurred in other Bharata and Airavata continents on account of the sameness of the Avasarpīni age in those continents. The ascent of Camarendra happened only in the Bharata Kṣetra of Jambū dvīpa, but not in other continents; in those continents, other strange events occurred.

These ten strange events happened in the present Avasarpīni age, during the times of the Tirthaṅkaras as mentioned in the following two verses:—

उसहे अट्ठहिसयं सिद्धं (१) सिलजिणम्मिहरिवंसो (२) ।

नेमिजिणेऽवरकंकागमणं कण्हस्स संपत्तम् (३) ॥ १ ॥

इत्थीतित्थंमल्ली (४) पुआअसंजयाण नवमजिणे (५) ।

अवसेसा अच्छेरा वीरजिणिंदस्स तित्थम्मि ॥ २ ॥

1. Usahe atthahiasayam siddham (1) Siala jīṇammi, Hari-vamso (2);

Nemi jīṇe' Varakankāgamaṇam Kaṇhassa sampattam (3) 1.

2. Itthi tittham Malli (4) puā asanjayāṇa navama jīṇe (5);

Avasesā accherā Vira jīṇindassa titthammi. 2.

1-2. One hundred and eight persons attained Siddhi सिद्धि Final Liberation during the time of Śree Rishabha-deva. The origin of Hari Vamśa हरिवंश, the Hari race took place during the time of Śree Śitala Nāth. The going of Kṛṣṇa Vāsudeva to Aparā Kankā अपरकंका happened during the time of Śree Nemi Nāth. A female became a Tīrthankara during the time of Śree Malli Nāth. The worship of the unconsecrated came in vogue during the time of the ninth Tīrthamkara i-e of Śree Suvidhi Nāth श्री सुविधिनाथ. The remaining five strange events viz 1. The occurrence of Upasargāḥ उपसर्गः troubles even during the Kevali stage—Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra had numerous troubles from gods during pre-Kevali stage and he had troubles from Gośāla during the Kevali stage. Such a thing never happens to a Tīrthankara as he possesses a predominance of unusual merit. But it did occur in the case of Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra and hence it is reckoned as a strange event. 2. The Gabbhaharaṇa गढमहरण transference of the foetus from one womb to another. This never happened with any Tīrthankara except with Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra and hence it is a strange event. Such an event occurred only once during innumerable ages; 3. The Abhāvīa Parisā अभविआ परिसा The fruitlessness of the first preaching of a Tīrthankara as the assembly consisted only of gods and lower animals who are devoid of any inclination to taking vows. This occurrence never happened in the case of any Tīrthankara during innumerable Avasarpinī ages but it did happen in the case of Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra and hence it is a strange event 4. Camarotpātaḥ चमरोत्पातः The ascent of Camarendra This is an accidental thing and hence it is a strange event and 5. Avayaraṇam Canda-Sūrāṇam अवयरणं चंद्रसूराणं The descent of the Moon and the Sun in their original Vimāna विमान celestial chariot at Kauśāmbi कौशाम्बी for the purpose of giving their respects to the Venerable Saint—these five strange events happened during the time of Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra.

नामगुत्तस्स वा कम्मस्स अवखीणस्स अवेइअस्स अणिज्जिणस्स उदएणं

Nāma guttassa vā kammassa akkhinassa aveiassa anijjina-

It was through the influence of the Nica Gotra Nāma Karma नीचगोत्रनामकर्म, a karma which is the cause of birth in a low family, which was not destroyed, which was not experienced, and the particles of which were not worn out, [that Venerable Saint Mahāvira had to assume the form of a foetus in the embryo of a Brāhamani.]

This Nica Gotra Nāma Karma नीचगोत्रनामकर्म, (a variety of evil karma which produces birth in a low family) the Venerable Ascetic Bhagavān Mahāvira had acquired during his third previous Bhava भव Existence, as Marici मरीचि the son of Bharata Cakravartin भरत चक्रवर्ती when he even during his ascetic life, had boasted of his birth in a very high family, his father being a Cakravartin, his grandfather being a Tirthankara—(viz Bhagavān Śree Rīṣabha-deva, the first Tirthankara of the present series of twenty-four Tirthankaras) and he himself being destined to become a Vāsudeva, a Cakravartin, and the last Tirthankara (as Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira) during his subsequent existences.

It was on account of the Nica Gotra Nāma Karma thus acquired, and which had remained unconsumed that Śramaṇa Bhagavāna Mahāvira had to take the form of a foetus in womb of Brāhamani Devānandā देवानन्दा wife of Brāhamana Rīṣabha-datta रीषभदत्त at Brāhmaṇa Kunda-grāma ब्राह्मणकुण्ड-ग्राम Nagara during his twenty-seventh Bhava.

Śakrendra then, thought:—

१८. जन्तं अरिहंता वा चक्रवर्ती वा, वलदेवा वा, वासुदेवा वा,

That, in leed, under the influence of Nica Gotra Nāma Karma, Arhants or Cakravartins or Baladevas or Vāsudevas have come in the past, are coming during the present age, and will come in future or have taken, are taking during the present age, and will take in future, the form of a foetus in the womb, into low families, families with mean rules of conduct, families with very few family-members, in families of paupers, in families of misers, in families of beggars, or in the families of Brāhmins but they had never come out, they do not ever come out and they will never come out for birth in this world, thru the cavity of the vagina (of women of such families). "

The meaning is this:—Although the incarnation of an Arahanta or a Cakravartin or a Baladeva or of a Vāsudeva may happen in such low families, as a strange event, their birth in such families never occurred in the past, does not occur during the present age, and will never occur in future. 18

20. Hence, it is the established custom of all past present and future Śakras, Lords of the gods, and kings of the gods, to cause Arbanta Bhagavants to be removed from such-like families of अन्त्याः Antyāḥ, members of servile class from families with mean customs, from families with very few family-members from families of pauper's, from families of beggars, bards etc. from families of misers, from families of ब्राह्मणाः Brāhmaṇas (with begging proclivities) to such-like families of mighty persons appointed by Bhagavān Śree Rṣabha-deva Swāmi as guardians of people, families appointed as भोगकुल Bhoga-Kula, Families of elderly members such as गुरु Gurus, Preceptors, पुरोहित Purohita, Royal chaplains etc families of राजन्यकुल Rājanya-kula (Families of friends and relatives of kings, (with almost equal status in life) family of ज्ञातकुल Jnāta ku'a-(a family of Kṣatrias in which Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira was born), families of क्षत्रीयकुल Kṣatriya Kula-(families of protectors of the world), to हरिवंशकुल Harivaṃṣa Kula-(in which the twentieth Tirthaṅkara Bhagavān Śree Muni Suvrata Swāmi and the twenty-second Tirthaṅkara, Bhagavān Śree Ariṣṭa Nemi Prabhu, of the present series of twenty-four Tirthaṅkaras, were born) to other such-like families, (such as the family of भटाः Bhatāḥ, members of the सूर्यवंशीय Sūrya vaṃśiya, the Solar Race, of the मल्लकि Mallaki family of the लेच्छकि Lecchaki family, of कौरव्याः Kauravyāḥ, members of Kuru-vaṃṣa) with pure जाति Jāti descent from the mother's side and कुल Kula, descent from paternal side.

It is therefore better that I should cause Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira the last Tirthaṅkara (of the present era) whose advent was predicted by former Tirthaṅkaras to be removed from the womb of Brāhmaṇi Devānandā of Jālandhara gotra wife of Brāhmaṇa Rīṣabha-datta of Kodāla gotra from माहण कुंडगामाओ नयराओ Māhaṇa Kuṇḍaggāmāo nayarāo from the Brāhmanical part of the town of Kuṇḍa-grāma, to the खत्तिय कुंडगामे नयरे Khattiya Kuṇḍa ggāme nayare, to the Kṣatriya part of the town of Kuṇḍa-grāma, and to be placed as a foetus in the womb of Kṣatriyāṇi Triṣalā of Vāsiṣṭha gotra, wife of Kṣatriya Siddhārtha of Kāśyapa gotra belonging to the clan of जात्रि Jnātri kshatriyas; and to cause the foetus of Kshatriyāṇi Triṣalā of the Vāsishtha gotra to be placed in the womb of Brāhmaṇi Devānandā of Jālandhara gotra.

Thus he reflected and having reflected, he called god हरिणे गमेसि Hariṇegamesi, the commander of his foot-troops, and having called him to his presence he spoke thus:--

21. Thus, indeed O beloved of the gods! it never at all happened, nor does it happen, nor will it ever happen that Arahants, Cakravartins, Baladevas or Vāsudevas were born in the past, are born (in the present age) and will be born in future, in families of अन्त्याः Antyāḥ, Members of servile class, in families with mean customs, in families of misers, in families of paupers, in families with very few family-members, in families of beggars, bards etc, in families of ब्राह्मणाः Brāhmaṇāḥ (with begging proclivities). Indeed, really, the Arahants, Cakravartins, Baladevas or Vāsudevas were born in the past, are born in the present (age) and will be born in future, in families known as उग्रकुल Ugra-kula, families of mighty persons appointed by Bhagavān Śree Rīṣabha-deva Swāmi as guardians of people, in families known as भोगकुल Bhoga-kula, Families of elderly members such as गुरु Gurus, Preceptors, पुरोहित Purohita, Royal chaplain etc, in राजन्यकुल Rājanya-kula Families of friends and relatives of kings with almost equal status in life, in ज्ञातकुल Jnāta-kula, in families of क्षत्रीयाः Kṣatriyāḥ, members of the warrior race, who protect the world, इक्ष्वागकुलेषु in Ikshvāku race, हरिवंशकुलेषु in Harivamsa race, or in other such-like families with pure जाति Jāti, Descent from the mother's side and pure कुल Kula, Descent from paternal side.

22. However, there is some thing like inevitable destiny which creates wonder in this world. It happens after the lapse of endless Avasarpinis and Utsarpinis, that, under the influence of the rise of नामगुत्तस्सकम्मस्स Nāma guttassa kammassa, of the Karma named गोत्रकर्म Gotra karma which was not destroyed or experienced or worn out, Arihants, Cakravartins, Baladevās or Vāsudevās, in the past, present, and future, descend in i-e take the form of a foetus in the womb in low families in degraded families, in families with very few family-members, in families of paupers, in families of misers, in families of beggars, bards etc, but they were never brought forth in the past, they are never brought forth in the present, and they will never be brought forth in future, by birth through such a womb.

23. In the Brāhmanical part of the town of Kunda-grāma in Bhārata-varṣa, in the continent of Jambu-dvīpa, Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira has taken the form of a foetus in the womb of Brāhmaṇi Devānanda of Jālandhara gotra, wife of Brāhmaṇa Rīṣabha-datta of Kodāla gotra.

24. Since it is the established custom of past, present, and future Śakras, lords of the gods, kings of the gods, to cause Arihanta Bhagavāns to be removed from such-like families of अन्त्याs Antys, members of the servile classes, families with mean customs, families with few members, families of paupers, families of misers, families of beggars, bards etc, from families of Brāhmaṇas to such-like families of mighty persons appointed as guardians of people, families of elderly people (of kings), families of friends and relatives of kings, to Jnāta-kula, families of Kṣatriyas, to Ikṣvāku Race, Harivaṃśa Race or to other such-like families with pure descent from mother's side and from paternal side.

25. 'Go now, therefore, O beloved of the gods' remove Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira from the Brāhmanical part of the town of Kuṇḍa-grāma, from the womb of Brāhmaṇi Devānandā of Jālandhara gotra, wife of Brāhmaṇa Rīṣabha datta of Kodāla gotra and place him as a foetus in the womb of Kṣatriāṇi Trīśālā of Vāsīṣṭha gotra, wife of kṣatriya Śiddhārtha of Kāśyapa gotra of the Jnātri Race in the Kṣatriya part of the town of Kuṇḍa-grāma and place the foetus of Kṣatriyāṇi Trīśālā into the womb of Brāhmaṇi Devānandā of Jālandhara gotra. Having done so, quickly return and report to me that my order is duly executed.

26. When Hariṇegamesi, the divine chief of the foot-troops, was thus spoken to by Sakra, the Indra of the gods, the king of the gods, he became pleased etc with the heart expanding with joy and joining the palms of his hands so as to bring the ten nails together, and placing his folded hands in front of his forehead, modestly accepted the words of the command, saying "Just as your Majesty orders." Having accepted the words of command, he went out of the presence of Sakra, the Indra of the gods the king of the gods, and departed towards the north-east direction. Having departed, he transformed himself through his supernatural power of transformation and stretched himself out like a staff for numerous yojans; while doing so, he took hold of the undermentioned gems viz वयराणं Vayarānam वज्ररत्न Vajra-ratna Diamonds, वेरुलिआणं Veruliānam वैदूर्यरत्न Vaidūrya ratna -cat's eye gem, लोहिअक्खाणं Lohiakkhānam लोहिताक्षरत्न Lohitākṣa ratna, A kind of red gem, (not ruby, very rare) मसारगल्लणं Masāragallānam मसाररत्न Masāra ratna, Saphires हंसगब्भाणं Hansagabbhānam हंसगर्भरत्न Hansa garbha ratna, पुलयाणं Pulayānam पुलकरत्न Pulaka ratna, सोगन्धिआणं Sogandhiānam सौगन्धिकरत्न Saugandhika ratna जोइरसाणं Joi-rasānam ज्योतिरसरत्न Jyoti-rasa ratna अंजणाणं Anjanānam अंजनरत्न Anjana-ratna अंजनपुलयाणं Anjana pulayānam अंजनपुलकरत्न Anjana-pulaka ratna, जायरूवाणं Jāya-rūvānam जातिरूपरत्न Jāti-rūpa ratna सुभगाणं Subhagānam सुभागरत्न Subhaga ratna, अंकाणं Aṅkānam अंकरत्न Aṅka ratna, फलिहाणं Phalihānam स्फटिकरत्न Sphatika ratna, Crystal gem, रिट्ठाणं Ritthānam रिष्टरत्न Riṣṭa ratna. He rejected the gross particles (of these precious gems) and retained the finer ones

27. Having retained them, he transforms himself for a second time by वैक्रिय समुद्घात Vaikriya Samudghata, A forcible and simultaneous rod-like emanation of Karmic molecules from soul-particles at the time of changing his body and an उत्तर वैक्रिय रूप Uttara Vaikriya Rūpa, (a form other than his original divine form, created by the Vaikriya power of contracting or expanding his body at any time, to any size one wishes; having done it, he goes with that excellent, speedy, wavering, fierce, exerting, quick like the motion of dust-clouds in the sky, swift forcible (a gait capable of removing hindrances) divine motion of gods, passing down obliquely right through numberless continents and oceans and arrives in Jambu dvīpa in Bharatavarṣa in the Brāhmanical part of the town of Kunda grāma at the house of Brāmaṇa Rīṣabhadatta where Brāhmaṇi Devānanda lived. Having arrived, instantly on seeing Śramaṇa Bhagavan Mahāvira, he makes a bow to him, and having bowed down, he puts Brāhmaṇi Devānanda with her household members into profound deep sleep; having done so, he removes impure particles and places in, pure particles. Having placed them and saying "May the Venerable One permit me" he takes Śramaṇa Bhagavan Mahāvira into the cavity of the folded palms of his hands without hurting him, comfortably and by his divine supernatural power.

[He took Śramaṇa Bhagavan Mahāvira into the cavity of the palms of his hands in such a way, that it did not cause the slightest pain to the foetus. It is said in Bhagavati Sūtra:—

प्रभू णं भंते ! हरिणेगमेशी सक्कदूए इत्थीगब्भं नहसिरंसि वा रोम
कूवंसि वा साहरित्ते वा निहरित्ते वा ? हंता प्रभू, नो चेव णं तस्स गब्भस्स

“ O worshipful master! Is Hariṇegamesi, the messenger of Śakra, able to place the foetus of a female on the top of a nail or in the pores of a hair or to remove it from there? Yes, he is able. He does not invariably cause any pain or any particular pain to the foetus. An incision into the skin is only done.]

Having taken him in the cavity of the folded palms of his hands, he goes to the Kṣatriya part of the town of Kuṇḍa-grāma, to the house of kṣatriya Siddhārtha, where Kṣatriyāni Triśalā lived and having gone there, he puts Kṣatriyāni Triśalā with her household members into profound deep sleep. Having induced deep sleep, he removes unclean particles and having removed them, he places clean particles; having placed them, he places the foetus of Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira, in the uterus of Kṣatriyāṇi Triśalā, comfortably, without injury, by his divine supernatural powers.

[Here, there are four varieties of removal of foetus. 1. From one uterus to another. 2. From uterus to vagina. 3. From vagina to uterus and 4. Vagina to vagina. In this case, taking the foetus through the vagina and placing it into the uterus is the method followed]

Then he places the foetus of Kṣatriyāṇi Triśalā, as a foetus in the uterus of Brāhmaṇi Devānandā of Jālandhara gotra and having placed it, he went back in the same direction from which he had come. 27.

29. During that age, at that time, in the third month of the rainy season, the fifth fortnight, the dark fortnight of Āśvina, on the thirteenth day of the dark fortnight Āśvina, after the lapse of eighty-two nights and days, during the eighty-third night, the foetus of Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra was, on the command of Śakra, removed by the compassionate and devout god Hariṇegameṣi from the uterus of Brāhmaṇi Devānandā of Jalandhara gotra, wife of Brāhmaṇa Risaḥbha-datta of Kodāle gotra of the Brahmanical part of Kuṇḍagrāma and painlessly and comfortably lodged by divine supernatural power as a foetus in the uterus of Kṣatriyaṇi Trisālā of Vasiṣṭha gotra, wife of Kṣatriya Siddhārtha of Kaśyapa gotra of the clan of ज्ञात Jnata kṣatriyas, in the kṣatriya part of the town of Kuṇḍagrāma, in the middle of the night, when the moon was in conjunction with the constellation उत्तराफाल्गुनी Uttaraphālguni, whose next is हस्त Hasta.

30. During that age, at that time, the knowledge of Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra (with regard to this transaction) was three-fold:—he knew that he will be removed; he did not know that he is being removed and he knew that had been removed.

The poet says:—

सिद्धार्थपार्थिवकुलाप्तगृहप्रवेशे मौहूर्त्तमागयमानं यः ।

रात्रिदिवान्युषितवान् भगवान्द्रयशीतिं, विप्रालये स चरमो जिनराट् पुनातु ॥१॥ iva kṣaṇam yah ।

Ratrimdivānyuṣitavan bhagavān dvyasītim vipralaye sa caramo Jinarāt punātu. 1.

May the last Jina Tīrthankara Bhagavān, who lived for eighty-two days, at the house of a Brāhmaṇa, as if for the purpose of inquiring about an auspicious moment for entering the house of the renowned family of King Siddhartha, bless us!

[Besides, in this connection, the question is “ Why is it said that Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra did not know while he was being removed, although (1) he had three varieties of knowledge, (2) the act of removal lasted for numerous moments and (3) Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra possessed an immense amount of much superior knowledge than the god doing the act of removal ?

The answer to this query is that this sentence shows the dexterity of the act. Hārīnegameṣi, the messenger of Śakra, performed the act of removal of the foetus in such a masterly way that although Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra knew that he was being removed, he was, so to say, unmindful of it as there was a complete absence of any pain.

Some one may as well say “ You removed a thorn from my foot in such a way that I did not even know it.

Besides, when there is an overwhelming predominance of the enjoyment of pleasures, such an occurrence is met with in the sacred books also. For instance,

तर्हि देवा वंतरिआ वरतरुणीगीअवाइअरवेणं ।

निच्चं सुहिअपमुइआ गयं पि कालं न याणंति ॥

Tarhi devā Vantariā vara taruṇīgīā vāia ravenaṃ;

Niccaṃ suhiapamuiā gayam pi kālam no yāṇanti.

Therefore, Vyantara gods, rejoiced by the melodious sound of dancing and music of excellent young damsels, do not certainly know the time that has gone by.

Also, there is a reading in आचाराङ्गसूत्र Acārāṅga Sūtra.

साहरिजमाणे वि जाणइ [३९९ सू०]

Sāharijjamāṇe vi jāṇai.

He knew also that he was being removed.

This explanation has been given with an idea of avoiding any misunderstanding between the two readings.

and powerful forearms and a mouth adorned with round, shining through their proportions, appeared as if well-tanned and as soft as the best lotus; whose very tender palate was as soft as the petals of a red lotus and the tip of the tongue was coming out quickly; whose eyes, resembling pure lightning, revolved around like red-hot best gold heated in a crucible;

whose excellent thighs were extensive and strong; whose shoulders were full and faultless; who was adorned with an extensive long mane of soft, white, fine, hairs of best quality; whose tail was raised up, well-bent round, well-grown and swinging; the tips of whose nails were very sharp; whose lovely tongue was spread out as an offshoot of the beauty of his face.

36. Then, further, she (Kṣatriyaṇi Trisala) with a face like the full moon, sees श्रीदेवी Śrī-devī (the goddess of Beauty and Prosperity) of a handsome form, reposing on top of mount Himavanta, on a lotus in the पद्मद्रिह Padma-driha, a lake of lotuses on an excellent locality of the high mountain, annointed by water from the extensive and powerful trunks of lordly elephants of the (eight) directions; whose feet resembled well-arranged gold tortoises; whose nails were highly elevated, fat, dyed, fleshy, strong, fine, red and smooth. Her hands and feet were tender like the leaves of the lotus and her fingers and toes were soft and excellent. Her legs were round like the trunk of a plaintain-tree and progressively less round and her knees were invisible. Her fat thighs resembled the trunks of lordly elephants. The circle of her lovely broad hips was adorned by a gold girdle. Her lovely rows of hairs were as black as excellent collyrium, a mass of black wasps or black clouds, straight, even, well-arranged, fine, admirable, beautiful soft, and very delicate. Her large and admirable fleshy part bellow the waist, was handsome on account of her circular navel. The middle portion of her body-her waist-containing admirable three folds, could be grasped by the palms of one's hands. The members of her body and their subordinate parts were adorned with ornaments and decorations of various kinds of gems, gold, precious stones, and of pure, excellent, red gold. The faultless, globelike pair of her breasts, shone, encircled by a garland of कुन्द Kunda, Jasmine flowers, beautified by a necklace of pearls. She looked beautiful by a necklace of pearls beautified with well-arranged emeralds more white than admirable strings of pearls, and a necklace of jewels on her neck sparkled by a string of दीनारस Dināras, gold coins. Her face appeared more beautiful by the accompanying mass of brilliancy of a pair of waiving ear-rings touching her shoulders. Her eyes were large, attractive, and pure, like a lotus. She sprinkled sap from two lotus flowers held in her splendid hands and sportively used them as a fan. Her braid of hair was very distinct, black, thick, smooth, and hanging down.

The Moon, whose digits shine (on Pūrṇimā) between the two fortnights (i. e. शुक्लपक्ष Śukla pakṣa, the bright fortnight and कृष्णपक्ष Kṛṣṇa pakṣa, the dark fortnight) which were a measure of time i. e. year, month etc i. e. which was expanding the blossoms of forests of कुमुद Kumuda, Night lotus (expanding under the influence of the moon),

The moon, beautifying the night, resembling the surface of a well-cleansed mirror, as white as a swan, the ornament of the heavenly bodies, the enemy of darkness, a quiver of मदन Madana, (Cupid, god of love) the augmentor of the tide of the sea, wasting away by her rays the (bodies of) bewildered people absent from their sweethearts,

Such was the beautiful full moon shining brilliantly by her bright light. 38.

39. Then, she saw the large Sun, the dispeller of the veil of darkness, of a form shining brilliantly by his bright light, of a colour resembling the colour of red Aśoka tree, the expanded red flowers of Butea Frondosa, the beak of a parrot, or the red half of गुंजा Gunja, the retti seed, beautifying the forests of lotuses, an indicator of the heavenly bodies, the illuminator of the surface of the firmament, a seizer by the throat of the mass of cold, a great leader of the host of planetary bodies, the destroyer of night; who can be comfortably looked at, only for a मुहुर्त Muhurta, (a period of forty-eight minutes-one thirtieth of a day) at its rising and setting, whose form is hard to be looked at (at all other times), who crushes evil-doers who are diligent at night, who removes the current of cold, who always rotates circularly round Mount Meru, and whose thousand rays have dispersed the splendour of other luminaries.

The Sun is generally described as thousand-rayed, but the number of sun's rays increases at particular times.

It is said,

on increasing immensely in all the four directions, and whose water moved to and fro by exceedingly restless and high

Then, further, she sees a celestial abode, the most excellent among the best of its kind, like the white lotus (among flowers) with a brilliancy equalling the disc of the rising sun, and of a brightly shining beauty. The brilliancy of its one thousand and eight splendid columns inlaid with best gold and a mass of precious jewels diffused light like a bright heavenly lamp. It appeared delightful by long hanging rows of pearls fixed to gold sheets and by brilliant divine flower-garlands (hanging there). It was decorated with paintings of wolves, bulls, horses, human beings, crocodiles, birds, serpents, Kinnara gods, रुरु Ruru, A kind of deer, सरभ Sarabha, An octoped wild animal which can even carry an elephant on its back, चमर Camara, A kind of deer resembling a buffalo, the hair of whose tail is used for making chowries, hunting dogs, elephants, forest-creepers, and lotus plants. It was full of the sound of songs and divine musical instruments, and the constant din of the great roar of the divine drum imitating the sound of roaring of extensive dense rain-clouds, filled with water pervading the entire world of living beings. It was charming on account of the fragrant fumes spreading out from the burning of कालागुरु Kalāguru, A kind of black aloë used as an incense, excellent कुंदुरुक्क Kundurukka, Olibanum, a kind of fragrant yellow gummy exudate used as an incense, तुरुक्क Turukka, Gum Benzoin, and burning incense and scented powders. bristling with joy in their pores, like a flower of Kadamba tree (Anthocephalus Kadamba) sprinkled with showers of rain, began to recapitulate the dreams. Having done so, she rose up from her bed and having got up descended from her foot-stool. Having descended, neither hasty, nor unsteady, but free from any delusion, without delaying and with a gait resembling that of a royal swan, she went to the couch where kṣatriya Siddhārtha was. Having gone, she awakened kṣatriya Siddhārtha, addressing him with those agreeable, charming, amiable, entertaining, impressive, noble, auspicious, lucky, liberal, prosperous, ornamental, heart-reaching, heart-easing measured, sweet, and beautiful words.

of glittering jewels, gold and precious stones; becoming refreshed and free from exertion and sitting comfortably on the excellent chair, she, addressing ksatriya Siddhartha with those agreeable etc words, spoke thus:—

50. Indeed, O Lord ! I was just now on my couch (described before) and woke up after seeing the fourteen illustrious great dreams, viz An Elephant a bull. 51. Then, Siddhartha, after having heard this news from kṣatriyāṇi Trisalā and having reflected upon it, he-pleased, contented, with his hair bristling in their pores, with joy at heart, like the fragrant flower of नीप Nipa tree, Nuclea Cadamba, sprinkled with showers of rain, fixed those dreams in his mind, and having fixed the dreams, begins to think about their meanings. Having commenced thus, he meditates upon the meaning of those dreams through the medium of his natural innate intellect determined by his superior knowledge. Having done so, he spoke thus to kṣatriyaṇī Trīṣalā addressing her repeatedly with those pleasing, [lucky, measured, sweet] auspicious words.

52. Noble dreams, O beloved of the gods! you have seen; auspicious dreams, O beloved of the gods! you have seen. Thus O beloved of the gods! you have seen noble, prosperous, lucky, beautiful dreams, bestowing health, contentment long-life, luck, and prosperity, O beloved of the gods! you will acquire wealth. O beloved of the gods! you will get pleasures O beloved of the gods! You will have a son. O beloved of the gods! You will have happiness. O beloved of the gods! You will acquire a kingdom. Thus, O beloved of the gods! after the lapse of nine months and seven and a half nights and days, you will give birth to a lovely beautiful handsome child who will become an emblem of our family, a lantern of our family, a support of the family, a diadem of the family, a तिलक Tilaka, An ornament of the forehead for the family, a renower of the family, a maintener of the family, a sun in family, a prop of the family, a gladdener of the family, a maker of the fame of the family, a shelter of the family, an augmentor of the family, a child with tender hands and feet, whose body is furnished with unlackng complete five sense-organs, furnished with lucky marks and signs, and whose handsome body is furnished with all the members which are well-measured, well-proportioned, appropriate, perfect, and beautiful, and with a face as calm as the moon.

53. Besides, the child, when he has completed boy-hood and having acquired proficiency in arts and sciences, has reached youth, will become a benevolent powerful invincible king, an owner of an extensive large army and force.

54. He extoled twice or thrice saying you have seen noble etc dreams. Then having heard the meaning from king Siddhārtha and having reflected upon it, kṣatriyāṇi Triśalā, pleased, contented, full of joy at heart etc, brought the palms of her folded hands [in a way to bring the ten nails round the head] in the form of a folded cavity in front of the forehead and spoke thus:—

55. That is so, O master! It is so, O master! It is exactly so, O master! It is undoubtedly so, O master! It is so desired, O master! It is so accepted, O master! It is so desired and accepted, O master! and she, saying that the meaning is as true as you say, entirely accepted those dreams. Having accepted them, and being permitted by king Siddhārtha, she rises up from the state-chair inlaid with designs of various kinds of jewels and precious stones. Having risen up she goes to her couch with an unhasty, untremulous, unbewildered undelaying gait resembling that of a royal swan. Having gone she spoke thus:—

56. “Lest these excellent, supreme, auspicious, dreams seen by me, become fruitless by other wicked dreams.” So saying, she remained awake practising religious wakefulness and repeated wakefulness, for the preservation of her dreams by laudatory auspicious religious stories relating to deified gods and worshipful teachers.

Quickly certainly, O beloved of the gods ! to-day more particularly, have the outer council-hall sprinkled with perfumed water, washed, cleaned, besmeared (with cow-dung) furnished with complimentary garlands of excellent fragrant flowers of five colours, beautified with delightfully fragrant smell arising from the burning incense of कालागुरु Kālāguru, Black aloe, excellent Kunderukka (benzoin) and तुरुक्क Turuṣka, Olibanum; made fragrant with excellent scented powders and converted as it were into a pastile of perfumed objects and have it done by others. 60. Then, next day, at dawn, with the expansion of blue lotuses and the gentle opening of day-lotuses, with bright morning-light, and the rising of the extremely beautiful Sun, resembling the brilliancy of the red Aśoka tree, the scentless red blossoms of the किशुक Kimśuka tree, the beak of a parrot, the red half of the Gunjā berry (used as a measure of weight) the flowers of the Bandhu Jivaka tree (Pentapetes Phoenicca the feet and eyes of the pigeon, the extremely red eyes of the Indian cuckoo, a heap of flowers Jāsuṇa (popularly known as Jāsuda-China Rose) a dense mass of vermilion—the expander of the forests of lotus-beds, and when the thousand-rayed Sun was shining with bright light, and the darkness was removed by the strokes of its rays and when the world of the living was involved in the saffron-coloured light of the early sun-shine, ksatriya Siddhārtha rises up from his couch. 60.

61. Having risen up from the couch, he gets down from the foot-stool. Having got down, he goes to the gymnasium-hall. Having gone, he enters the gymnasium-hall. Having entered it, and becoming fatigued with several gymnastic exercises such as jumping, bending of stretched-out limbs, wrestling, fighting, and being annointed with highly scented oils refined one hundred times or one thousand times (each time with a different medicine) or (oils costing 100 or 1000 gold coins in their preparation) which nourished the system, promoted digestion, increased manly vigour, strengthened muscles, excited sexual passion and invigorated all the senses and limbs, he was shampooed by skilful persons with well-formed soft, tender palms of the hands and soles of feet, who were experienced in the best qualities of the art of rubbing the body with oil, massage, and bringing back the oil (to the surface); they knew what to do at a particular time and were intelligent, foremost, expert, wise, and untiring.

When the king was shampooed by the rubbing beneficial in four ways—agreeable to bones, flesh, skin and hair—and when his fatigue was removed, he left the gymnasium-hall.

62. Having left it, he went to the bathing house. Having gone, he enters the bathing house. Having entered it, in a delightful bathing pavilion charming with round perforated windows latticed with pearls and with the ground-floor decorated with designs of different kinds of jewels and precious stones, on a bathing-stool inlaid with designs of varieties of jewels and precious stones, he sat down comfortably, and bathed himself with water scented with flowers, with water perfumed with perfumes, with warm water, with sacred water and with pure water in accordance with an excellent health-giving method of bathing. When this healthy excellent bathing combined with many kinds of hundreds of auspicious marks (on the body for warding off evil) was over, he dried his body with a long-haired, very soft, scented coloured towel, put on new valuable excellent garments, rubbed his body with fresh fragrant गोशीर्ष Gosīrṣa, (a superior kind of sandal-paste), and anointed himself with sanctified garlands and decorating pigments. He put on ornaments of jewels and gold, fitly adorned himself with well-arranged necklaces (of eighteen strings) half-necklaces (of nine strings) and necklaces of three strings, a pendant hanging down (from the neck) and a loin-girdle. He put on ornaments for neck, for fingers and charming ornaments for hair. His arms were made rigid by excellent bracelets and armlets. He had splendour of excessive beauty. His face was lighted up by ear-rings and his head by a diadem. His chest covered with necklaces delighted well (the beholders). His fingers looked yellow by his finger-rings. He put on a well-arranged cloth upper-garment hanging like a pendant. He put on glittering, well-made, well-jointed, excellent, beautiful वीरवल्लय Vira Valayas, Armlets (indicative of pride of heroism) made of spotless and valuable jewels, gold and precious stones of various kinds by clever artisans. What more! The king was ornamented and decorated like the वरुणवृद्ध

Kalpa Vriksha, The Wishing Tree yielding desired objects. An umbrella embellished with wreaths and garlands of flowers of कोरिन्टा Korinta Tree, was held over him and he was fanned by white excellent chowries. His appearance was greeted by the auspicious shouting of victory. Surrounded by (a great family of) many chieftains, leaders of troops, kings, princes, knights, collectors, heads of families, ministers, chief ministers, astrologers, chamberlains, counsellors, servants, aids-de-camp, citizens, traders, merchants, generals, leaders of a caravan, messengers, and frontier-guards—he, the king and sovereign of men, a bull (on account of bearing the burden of governing the earth) and a lion (a great warrior) among men, shining with the wealth of additional royal splendour, whose sight is beautiful to behold like the moon coming out through a white great cloud in the midst of a group of constellations and glittering stars and asterisms, leaves the bathing-house. 62.

63. Having left the bathing-house, he enters the exterior hall of audience and having entered it, he sits on the lion-seated throne with the face turned towards the East.

them to be arranged, not too far from himself and not too near to himself, he orders to be drawn an inside-curtain decorated with jewels and precious stones of various kinds, extremely worth seeing, very costly and manufactured in a famous town. Its glossy soft cloth was adorned with hundreds of designs and pictures of wolves-bulls-horses-human beings-crocodiles-birds-snakes-किन्नर Kin-Nara- A kind of Vyantara gods known as kinnara रुह Ruru, A kind of deer, सरभ Sarabha, An octoped wild animal which can even carry an elephant on its back-चमर Camara, A kind of deer resembling a buffalo the hair of whose tail is used for making chowries-elephants-forest-creepers and lotus-creepers. Having ordered it to be drawn, he orders to be arranged for kṣatriyāṇi Triśalā an excellent state-chair embellished with designs of various kinds of jewels and precious stones, covered with a coverlet and a soft pillow, covered with a white cloth, very soft, and of a pleasant touch to the body. Having ordered it to be arranged, he calls the family-servants. Having called them, he spoke thus:— 64

65. Quickly, indeed, O beloved of the gods! call the instructors of the signs of dreams who know the great science of Omens (Augury) and their meanings in their eight branches, and who are versed in various sciences.

Then the family-servants, thus addressed by king Siddhārtha, glad, contented, etc with the palms of their hands folded etc accepted the words of command.

66. Having accepted the words of command, they go out of the presence of kṣatriya Siddhārtha. Having gone out, they go right through the town of Kuṇḍa-grāma to the houses of instructors of signs of dreams. Having gone, they called the instructors of the signs of dreams.

The following are the eight branches of the science of Omens:—

1. निमित्तं Nimittam, the science of Omens (Augury-Prognostics) is said to be of eight kinds, viz 1. अङ्गविद्या, Aṅga Vidyā—Relating to the quivering of the limbs of the body. 2. स्वप्न विद्या Svapna Vidyā—Relating to dreams. 3. स्वरविद्या Svara Vidyā—Relating to the knowledge of sounds produced by various animals at different times. 4 भौम विद्या Bhauma Vidyā—Relating to a knowledge of the shaking, trembling, quivering etc. of the Earth. 5. व्यञ्जन विद्या Vyanjana Vidyā—Relating to marks, moles, etc on the body. 6. लक्षण विद्या Lakṣaṇa Vidyā—Relating to a knowledge of various lines on the palms of hands and soles of feet and other portions of the body. 7. उत्पात विद्या Utpāta Vidyā—Relating to a knowledge about the occurrence of lightning, falling of stars, meteors, Comets, and other heavenly bodies etc from the heavens. and 8. अन्तरिक्ष विद्या Antarikṣa Vidyā—Relating to a knowledge about the appearance and disappearance of various planets and their movements.

Then, the instructors of the signs of dreams, being called by the family-servants of kṣatriya Siddhārtha (they) glad, contented, etc at heart, bathed, gave offerings (to house-deities), did auspicious marks and expiatory acts (for warding off evil) put on clean auspicious excellent dress fit for a royal assembly, adorned their bodies with small but very costly ornaments, placed on their heads white mustard seeds and हारितालिका Haritālikā, Dūrvā grass, and go out of their own houses. Having gone out, they go right through the kṣatriya part of the town Kunda-grāma, to the wicket-gate of king Siddhārtha's palace, an excellent diadem of its kind. Having gone, they assemble together at the wicket-gate of the excellent diadem-like palace (and appoint one man as their fore-man, from amongst themselves, the rest following him). Having united together, they go to the external hall of the assembly into the presence of kṣatriya Siddhārtha. Having gone, they, with the palms of the hands folded etc. and bringing round the folded hands in front of their foreheads, gave him the greetings of victory and triumph. 67.

The instructors of the signs of dreams assembled together near the wicket-gate of the palace of king Siddhārtha, (and unanimously appointed one man as their fore-man; the rest consented to follow him).

Because, it is said:—

सर्वेऽपि यत्र नेतारः, सर्वे पण्डितमानिनः ।

सर्वे महत्वमिच्छन्ति, तद् वृन्दमवसीदति ॥ १ ॥

1. Sarve'pi yatra netārah, sarve paṇḍitamāninah;
Sarve mahatvamicchanti, tad vrindamavasīdati. 1.

1. An assemblage, in which all are leaders, all consider themselves as wise, and in which all hanker after greatness, perishes.

The Story of five hundred warriors serves as a good example. It runs as follows:—

STORY OF FIVE HUNDRED WARRIORS.

Five hundred warriors with different shades of temperament and not agreeable to each other but puffed up with the pride of their own valour, and disrespectful, went to a king with the object of seeking employment under him. They were very arrogant considering themselves as "Indras", destitute of any polite behaviour between elders and youngsters, and were quarrelling with each other.

With the object of testing them, the king, under the advice of his minister, sent only one couch for them. Since they were arrogant, disrespectful and quarrelsome, they began to fight with one another for the use of the couch during the night. At last, under the false impression that the couch is being used equally by all, they kept the couch in the centre, kept all their weapons on it and slept with their feet directed towards the couch.

When informed of the incident of the night by king's servants secretly placed there, the king, thinking that those people were arrogant, disrespectful, and quarrelsome and that no useful service can be ever expected from such insolent persons during the time of wars, peremptorily dismissed them.

The instructors of the signs of dreams greeted king Siddhartha with the following benedictory words:—

दीर्घायु भव वृत्तवान् भव भव श्रीमान् यशस्वी भव
 प्रज्ञावान् भव भूरिसत्त्वकरुणादानैकशौण्डो भव ।
 भोगाढ्यो भव भाग्यवान् भव महासौभाग्यशाली भव

1. Be long-lived, be virtuous, be wealthy, be famous,

Be wise, be passionately fond of strong character, compassion and charity;

Be abounding in objects of enjoyment, be lucky, be immensely prosperous,

Be full of royal dignity, be illustrious, and be always capable of furnishing a maintenance to the entire world. 1.

२. कल्याणमस्तु शिवमस्तु धनागमोऽस्तु,

2. Let there be prosperity, let there be bliss, let there be acquisition of wealth,

• Let there be long life, let there be birth of a son and affluence.

Let there be destruction of enemies, O lord of men! let there be always victory and Let there be जिनभक्ति Jina-Bhakti devotion paid to a Tirthaṅkara, in your family, for ever.

69. 70. 71. Then, kṣatriya Siddhārtha, seats Kṣatriyāṇi Triśalā on a seat behind the curtain and with his hands full of flowers and fruits, very courteously addressed the interpreters of dreams thus:—

(King Siddhārtha takes flowers and fruits into his hands before narrating the nature of the dreams to the interpreters of dreams with the object of knowing their consequences.)

[It is said:—

1. One should not see a king, a god, and a preceptor and particularly an interpreter of dreams with empty hands because consequence is indicated by (the nature) of fruits.]

70. O beloved of the gods ! Indeed, to-day when kṣatriyāṇi Triśalā was half-asleep and half waking-taking a short nap-on her enchanting bed, suitable for lucky and meritorious individuals, she woke up having seen such praiseworthy fourteen great dreams.

71. Viz—The elephant, bull, etc. What, to be sure, O beloved of the gods! will be the blessed gain or professional acquisition portended by these fourteen praiseworthy great dreams?

72. Then, the interpreters of dreams having heard this fact from Siddhartha kṣatriya and having known the same in his mind, and being pleased, satisfied and with their hearts full of joy, ponder over the dreams, and having pondered over them, think about their meanings, and having thought well, discuss the same mutually amongst themselves. Having so discussed amongst themselves, the interpreters of the dreams, who have known the meanings of the dreams by their own intellect, who have accepted their meanings after receiving the opinion of others and who in case of doubts, solved them by questioning others and who have thus settled and fully comprehended their meanings, spoke thus to King Siddhartha repeating verses of the Science of Dreams (in support of their opinion) :—

Besides, that boy, when he has left boyhood (i-e when he becomes eight years old), will have his intellect quite ripe, and will acquire all sorts of knowledge and when he has attained youth, in due course of time, he will be an exceedingly liberal man and will possess ability to fulfil the work undertaken by him, he will be a brave warrior on the battle-field and will be powerful in conquering the regions of other kings; he will have an extensive army-force and numerous vehicles; he will become the lord of a kingdom extending till the ends of four directions (i. e. three seas and Mount Himavanta) or he will become a Jina—the lord of the four-fold excellent Dharma. Just as a cakravartin conquers the ends of the four directions and is hence, superior to all other kings, in the same manner, that boy, will become a Jina with superabundant powers, (among other propagators) of religion, or he will become a leader of the three worlds (who has put an end to wandering in the four Gatis or forms of existence including Naraka Gati) by the excellent weapon of Dharma. 79.

The consequences of each individual dream are explained thus:—

1. By seeing an elephant with four tusks he will promulgate four forms of Dharma viz Dana दान Śīla शील Tapa तप and Bhāva भाव.

2. By seeing a bull, he will sow the seed of perfect knowledge in Bharata Kṣetra.

3. By seeing a lion, he will protect the forest of religious persons from the ravages of wicked elephants in the form of love, hatred etc.

4. By seeing Śrī Devi श्रीदेवी the goddess of wealth, he will give Vārṣika Dāna, वार्षिक दान the giving of gifts for one year previous to Dikṣā, and enjoy the prosperity of a Tirthankara.

5. By seeing a wreath of flowers he will be fit to be held up at the top of the three worlds.

6. By seeing the Moon, he will gladden the universe.

7. By seeing the Sun, he will be ornamented by a bright disc behind his head.

8. By seeing a flag, he will be ornamented by the banner of Dharma.

9. By seeing a Kalāśa कलश, an auspicious jug, he will remain on the top of the palace of Dharma.

10. By seeing a lake of lotuses, he will truly walk on gold lotuses placed in front of his feet by attendant gods.

11. By seeing a sea, he will be the receptacle of the gemlike Kevala Jñāna.

12. By seeing a celestial car, he will be worshipped even by Vaimānika वैमानिक gods.

13. By seeing a heap of gems, he will have walls of precious stones.

14. By seeing a smokeless flame, he will purify the souls of religious persons.

The aggregate fruit of the fourteen dreams is that he will occupy of the top-most portion i-e the Siddha Silā-of the region of Loka.

the dreams, and having considered well the meaning of the dreams in her mind, pleased contented, full of joy in her heart, and having brought her folded hands in front of her forehead, in such a way that the ten nails of her hands meet and having moved the folded hands in a circular manner accepts the meaning of the dreams fully. 86.

87. Having accepted the meaning of the dreams, with the permission of king Siddhartha, she rises up from the throne, beset with different kinds of gems and precious stones and having risen up, she goes to the place where her palace is, with a gait devoid of quickness, with a gait devoid of bodily activity, with a gait devoid of anxiety and with a gait free from pauses in the middle and with a gait resembling that of a royal swan and having gone, enters her palace. 87.

 Śakrendra, bring to the palace of King Siddhārtha, the great treasures as were placed under-ground by their owners for a very long time, such as great treasures which have become bereft of their owners; great treasures which are not taken care of and to which no addition was made every year because their owners have left them and great treasures placed by persons whose family-members and houses have left them; great treasures whose owners have died, without a survivor; great treasures which were not taken care of and to which no addition was made every year because such persons have died and great treasures placed by persons whose family-members and houses have become quite extinct; great treasures hidden in Gāma गाम villages which are surrounded by hedges of thorns on four sides and where there is an annual tax; great treasures hidden in Āgara आगर Mines which are the sources of iron, copper and other metals; great treasures hidden in Nagar नगर towns which have a high-walled fortress and paved roads, and which are free from any tax; great treasures hidden in Kheda खेड or a place surrounded on all sides by a high wall of mud; great treasures hidden in Kabbada कब्बड bad towns; great treasures hidden in Madamba मडंब towns which have villages on the four sides at a distance of two Koshes; great treasures hidden in Droṇa Mukha द्रोण मुख towns accessible both by water and by land; great treasures hidden in Pattana पट्टन towns accessible either by water or by land; great treasures hidden in Āsama आसम Āsrama आश्रम Places of pilgrimage or of dwellings of hermits; great treasures hidden in Samvāha संवाह places suitable for removing chaf from corn-grains (ie. thrashing-place); great treasures hidden in Sannivesa सन्निवेश places suitable for camping caravans, multitudes of pilgrims and armies; great treasures hidden in places of a triangular shape; great treasures hidden in places where three roads meet; great treasures hidden in places where four roads meet; great treasures hidden in places where many roads meet; great treasures hidden in places with doors on four sides; great treasures hidden under public roads; great treasures hidden in places where there were villages before, but which have become de-populated; great treasures hidden in places where there were towns

89. From the night, during which Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra was brought to the Jnāta-kula ज्ञातकुल the family of Siddhārtha, there occurred in the family, an increase of silver or gold not made into ornaments; of gold ornaments; of wealth (which is of four kinds 1. Articles like fruits, flowers which can be counted 2. Articles like molasses, which can be weighed. 3. Articles like butter, oil, and salt which can be had by measure, and 4. Articles like cloth which can be had by measuring with feet and yards); of corn-(like wheat, rice, varieties of pulse); of kingdom; of countries; of army-forces (such as elephants, horses, chariots, and warriors); of vehicles

(such as carts, donkeys); of cash-treasures; of ware-houses of corn; of towns; of harims; of towns-people and of fame. Besides, there occurred in the family, a very great increase of Vipula Dhaṇa विपुल धन Expansive wealth such as cows, buffaloes, etc, of gold un-manufactured or made into ornaments; of gems; of precious beads; of pearls; of conches (with right-hand turnings); of titles from kings; of corals; of red gems-rubies and other valuable articles, and of the really existing (not imaginary) valuable articles and of gifts given by relatives out of love and respect. Then, a well-meditated desirable mental idea occurred in the mind of the mother and father of Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira, which was of the following nature—

90. From the time this boy of ours took the form of a foetus in the womb of his mother, we have seen an increase of our silver, and gold, of our wealth and corn; we have seen a very great increase of our really existing valuable articles and of the gifts given to us by relatives out of love and respect; therefore, when this our child will be born in consonance with this incidence, we shall call him by the excellent name of Vardhamāna, a name derived from and hence acquired on account of his qualities.

91. Tae ṇaṃ Saṃaṇe Bhagavam Mahāvire māuaṇukampa-ṇatthāe niccale nipfande nireyaṇe allīṇa pullīṇa gutte āvi hotthā. 91.

91. Then, Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira, out of devotional sympathy for his mother, “Lest my movements in the womb be hurtful to my mother” or as some say, with the object of teaching others their duty of devotion towards their parents, remained immovable, and being immovable, became entirely free from movements and as such became perfectly steady; became absorbed in meditation by contracting portions of his body; became greatly absorbed in meditation by contracting his limbs and thereby became perfectly hidden. 91.

A poet says:—

एकान्ते किमु मोहराजविजये मन्त्रं प्रकुर्वन्निव
ध्यानं किञ्चिदगोचरं विरचयत्येकः परब्रह्मणि ।

किं कल्याणरसं प्रसाधयति वा देवो विलुप्यात्मकं

1. Ekante kimu moharaja vijaye mantram prakurvanniva;

Kim kalyāṇarasam prasādhayati vā devo vilupyātmakam;
Rūpam kāmavinigrahāya jananīkuṣāvasau vaḥ shriye. 1.

1. Is Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira thinking of effecting a Mantra for the purpose of conquering the supreme lord of Fascination (by remaining) in a secret place. Or, is he alone by himself, engaged in an incomprehensible meditation about the Supreme Being? Or is he accomplishing the process of making gold for the purpose of thoroughly defeating Kāma deva कामदेव the god of Love-Cupid-by contracting portions of his body and his limbs in the womb of his mother? May such Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira be for your welfare. 1. 91.

९२. तए णं तीसे तिसलाए खत्तियाणीए अयमेयारूवे जाव संकप्पे

92. Thereupon, an idea of the under-mentioned nature arose in the mind of Trisālā kṣatriyāṇi—Is my foetus removed (by any wicked god?) or Is my foetus dead? or Has my foetus aborted? or Has my foetus dropped away in a liquid form? Because, this foetus of mine was making movements before, but now it does not at all tremble. With such ideas in her mind, Trisālā kṣatriyāṇi, with greatly distressed mind, drowned, as it were, in a sea of sorrow, with her face resting on the palms of her hands, engrossed in evil meditation, and with her eye-sight directed to the ground, began to think thus:—

सत्यमिदं यदिभविता, मदीयगर्भस्य कथमपीह तदा ।

यद्वा चिन्तारत्नं न हि नन्दति भाग्यहीनजनसदने ।

3. Kalpa taru r-Marubhūmau na prādu r-bhavati bhūm्या bhāgyavaśāt;
Na hi niṣpunyapipāsita nriṇāṃ pīyūṣa sāmagrī.

1. If the event of an unhappy accident happening to my foetus, turns out to be true, then, I will be described as the foremost among unfortunate persons.

2. Or, Cintāmaṇi Ratna चिन्तामणि रत्न a gem supposed to yield to its possessor every thing wanted, does not rejoice in the house of an unfortunate person and a treasure of gems does not associate with the house of a penniless man.

3. Besides, the Kalpa Vrikṣa कल्पवृक्ष the Wishing Tree capable of yielding whatever is desired, does not grow on the soil of Mārṇā on account of the ill-luck of the country. In the same manner, unfortunate thirsty people, do not acquire the means of obtaining Nectar.

6. Ah ! the cruel Fate, after raising me up to the top of Mount Meru, has thrown me down. Oh ! the shameless Fate after serving me a dish of food has taken it away. 6.

Without the excellent son who is worthy, pure and fit to be worshipped by the three worlds, and whose advent was foretold by the fourteen great dreams, such as an elephant a bull etc, who is unique among the living beings of the three worlds and who is pleasing to all living beings, what is the use of this kingdom to me, or of these artificial sensual pleasures or of this palace with the comfort of sleeping on a silk bedding.

11. Therefore, O Fate ! Why are you prepared to burn me terribly, by the fire of misery ? O Fate ! Why do you bear animosity towards me who is quite innocent to you.

12. Fie ! to the worthless Saṃsāra. Fie ! also to the lot of painful and transitory sensual pleasures which are like licking the edge of a sword besmeared with honey.

Because, it is said in the Śāstras—"Widowhood, child-widowhood, misfortune, barren-ness, the state of giving birth to dead infants, and the condition of a girl in which her betrothed husband dies before marriage, are results of debauchery practised in previous lives. Therefore, right conduct should be steadfastly observed. "

23. On seeing Trisālā kṣatriyaṇī thus deeply engrossed in anxiety and in a contemplating mood and with a faded face resembling a withered lotus, her clever female companions, asked her the cause of it.

24. Then, Trisālā mātā, full of tears in her eyes, said with deep sighs:—"What can an unfortunate person like myself say ? O friends ! my life has gone."

25. Her companions said, 'O friend ! May all your other calamities vanish ! O intelligent woman ! Say out immediately whether your foetus is healthy or not.

26. She said 'My friends! if my foetus is healthy what other unhappiness can I have? So saying, she fell down insensible in a swoon on the ground.

27. When she re-gained consciousness by cooling measures she seated herself and began to lament thus:—

गरुए अणोरपारे रयणनिहाणे अ सायरे पत्तो ।

32. Now, death is the only shelter for me. What is the use of living fruitlessly ? On hearing the lamentation of Trisālā mātā, her companions and the whole multitude of family-members began to cry aloud. 32.

33. Oh ! how has this unexpected calamity been created by the Fate who has needlessly become an enemy ? Ah ! where have the family-gods gone away ! Why have you remained indifferent ?

35. They asked astrologers, stopped dancings etc, and prevented the talks involving loud speaking. 36.

ksatriyāṇi pleased, contented till, with her heart expanded with joy, addressed her companions thus:—

94. Really, my foetus has not been taken away till it has not dropped away in a liquid form. This foetus of mine did not move before, but now it moves, so saying, she became pleased, contented, till with her heart expanded with joy.

The poet now describes the condition of Triśalā.

1-2. Having realised the healthy condition of her foetus, Trisālā with both her eyes delighted with joy, with her cheeks expanded, with her lotus-like face brightening up and with the garment of the upper portion of her body widening with joy, spoke with sweet words:—My foetus is healthy. Fie! on me that I thought on evil ideas out of great infatuation.

5. On seeing Trisālā-devi full of joy in her heart, blessings of 'Jaya Jaya Nandā' issued from the lotus-like mouths of old females of the family.

6. The young females of the family began to sing joyfully, delightful auspicious songs; posted flags (in all directions) and made Svastikas स्वस्तिक (auspicious signs 卐) with pearls.

94. Śramaṇa Bhaḡavān Mahāvīra, thereupon while remaining in the uterus, took the undermentioned vow:—"Indeed, it is not desirable for me to be a mendicant and take Dikṣā leaving my house so long as my mother and father are alive."

94. He thought, when my mother has such a strong affection for me although I am not yet born, what greater affection she will have for me after I am born. Besides, some say, the vow has been taken with the object of showing others their duty towards their parents.

95. Then, Trisālā kṣatriyāṇi bathed, worshipped her house-hold deity, did auspicious marks on her body and expiatory rites (for the purpose of warding off danger) and with her body decorated by various ornaments, she nourished her foetus with food and drink materials which were neither too cold nor too warm, neither too bitter nor too pungent, neither too astringent nor too sour, neither too sweet nor too oily, and which were not too dry, too damp, or too hard. Food and drink materials which are very cold or very warm are harmful to the foetus, because some of them produce excess of wind, some produce excess of bile and some of them produce an excess of phlegm.

It is said in a medical work named Vāgabhatta:—

वातलैश्च भवेद् गर्भः कृब्जाऽन्धजडवामनः ।

पित्तलैः खलतिः पिङ्गः, श्वित्रि पाण्डुः कफात्मभिः ॥ १ ॥

2. Ati lavaṇam netraharam atīṣitam mārutaṁ prakopayati;
Atyuṣṇam harati balaṁ atikāmaṁ jīvitam harati. 2.

1. By the partaking of food and drink materials capable of producing wind, the foetus (of a pregnant woman) becomes deformed, blind, stupid and dwarfish; by partaking of materials producing excess of bile, the foetus becomes bald-headed or yellow coloured; and by partaking of food and drink materials producing phlegm, the foetus becomes affected with white leprosy or with pernicious anaemia. 1.

2. The partaking of very salty food and drink materials becomes injurious to the eyes of the foetus; the partaking of very cold food and drink materials produces wind; the partaking of very warm food and drink materials produces debility; and excessive indulgence in sexual pleasures produces death.

Besides, indulgence in sexual pleasures, travelling in a boat or in a palanquin, riding a horse or a camel, taking long walks, faltering while walking, falling down, being pressed, masaging the abdomen, colicky pains, running fast, striking against any thing, lying down on uneven ground, sitting on uneven ground, sitting in a very narrow place or sitting long on legs, fastings, impediment to emotions, living on very dry food-materials, using very bitter substances, using very pungent substances, taking food in very large quantities, becoming very amorous, excessive lamentation, the use of very salty food materials, diarrhoea, vomiting, the use of brisk purgatives, the use of swinging boards, and indigestion—all these causes produce abortion. Trisālā kṣatriyaṇi while avoiding the above-named causes of abortion was carefully nourishing her foetus.

Savvattu bhayaṃaṇa suhehim bhoyaṇa'echāyaṇa-gandha-mallehim-

Trisālā kṣatriyaṇi was nourishing her foetus with the use of food and drink materials, clothes, perfumed articles and garlands of flowers, such as suited the different seasons of the year.

It is said:—

वर्षासु लवणममृतं शरदि जलं गोपयश्च हेमन्ते ।

माहा and Falguna फाल्गुन (the months of February and March) an acid beverage is as nutritious as nectar; during the Vasanta Ritu वसन्तऋतु the months of Caitra चैत्र and Vaiśākha वैशाख (the months of April and May) clarified butter is as nutritious as nectar; and during Grīṣma Ritu ग्रीष्मऋतु the months of Jaiṣṭha ज्येष्ठ and Āṣāda आषाढ (the months of June and July) Guda गुड molasses is as nutritious as nectar.

(Trisālā kṣatriyāṇi) who was free from disease-sorrow-fainting-fear and fatigue—

It is said in the standard medical work named Suśruta सुश्रुत—

“The foetus becomes lazy if a pregnant woman sleeps during day-time, it becomes blind if she freely uses collyrium for her eyes; it becomes short-sighted if she weeps much; it becomes ill behaved if she bathes often; and anoints her body it becomes leprous if she anoints her body with oils; it becomes affected with diseased nails if she cut her nails very often; it becomes very unsteady if she runs often. The teeth, lips, palate and tongue of the foetus become black if she laughs much; it becomes gerrulous by talking unnecessarily, it becomes deaf if she hears loud sounds; it becomes bald-headed if she writes much and the foetus becomes delirious if she uses the fan very often.”

Trisālā kṣatriyāṇi did not make use of any occupation involving danger to the life of the foetus.

Old females of the family, also advised her as follows —

मन्दं सञ्चर मन्दमेव निगद व्यामुञ्च कोपक्रमं
पथ्यं भुङ्क्त्व वधान नीविमनवां मा माऽदहासं कृथा ।

आकाशे भव मा सुशेष्व शयने नीचैर्बहिर्गच्छ मा
देवी गर्भभराऽलसा निजसखीवर्गेण सा शिक्ष्यते ॥ १ ॥

1. Mandam sancara mandameva nigada vyāmunca kopakramam pathyam bhunkṣva badhān nīvi managhām mā mā'drihasam krithā;

Ākāśe bhava mā suśeṣva śayane, nīcai bahir gaccha mā; devi garbhabharā'lasā nija sakhi vargeṇa sā śikṣyate. 1.

1. O friend! You walk slowly, talk slowly, do not be angry with any one, always eat wholesome diet, tie the string of your under-garment loose; do not laugh loud; do not remain in an open space; lie down in a bed; do not descend a low level ground; do not go out of your palace. Trisālā devi, slowed down in her gait by the burden of her foetus, was thus advised by her female companions. 1.

सा जं तस्म गब्भस्म हियं मियं पत्थं गब्भपोसणं तं देसे य काले

Trisālā kṣatriyāṇi was, then, taking a diet, that was beneficent, sufficient, healthy and nutritious to the foetus at a place and time suitable to the individual article of diet. She was also living in a place which was pleasant and congenial to her mind (as it was devoid of other persons except her private attendants) on very soft and defectless seats and beds.

Trisālā kṣatriyāṇi, then, had the following praiseworthy desires—

जानात्यमारिपटहं पटु घोषयामि, दानं ददामि सुगुरून् परिपूजयामि ।

Trisālā kṣatriyāni had the following desires:—

1. I may announce a proclamation with beating of drums, prohibiting the killing of animals; I may give gifts, I may fully respect my elderly persons. I may worship Tīrthaṅkaras and I may render brotherly service to my co-religionists with great festivities. 1.

2. Besides, having seated myself on a lion-seated throne with an excellent umbrella on my head, with my body fanned by a pair of Chowries of yak-tail, and with my foot-stool dazzling with the gems in the diadems of kings (saluting my feet) I being in a lofty position may really enjoy the state of power of issuing orders.

The duration of the period of pregnancy of the mothers of the twenty-four Tirthaṅkaras of the present series is given by Śrī Soma Tilaka-sūri in his work "Saptati Śata Sthānaka सप्ततिशतस्थानक":--

The planets are said to occupy a high position when they are in the undermentioned astral houses:—

The explanation is that the planets Sūrya (Sun) Soma (Moon) etc, occupying the astral houses मेघ Meṣa (Aries) वृषभ Vriṣabha (Taurus) etc, are praiseworthy. But when remaining in the astral house for the period of their transit indicated in the verse, they are most excellent.

Their effect is as follows:—

सुखी १ भोगी २ धनी ३ नेता ४, जायते मण्डलाधिपः ५ ।

नृपति ६ चक्रवर्ती च ७, क्रमादुच्चग्राहे फलम् ॥ १ ॥

Sukhī 1 Bhogī 2 Dhanī 3 Netā 4, jayate maṇḍalādhīpaḥ 5;
Nripati 6 ścakravartī ca 7, kramāducca grahe phalam. 1.

The planets occupying the high position have the under-mentioned effects in regular order. That is to say—A person with सूर्य Sūrya, Sun, remaining in the astral house मेष Meṣa (Aries) for the $\frac{1}{30}$ of the total period of its transit through the house becomes सुखी Sukhī, happy; with सोम Soma, Moon in the astral house वृषभ Vriṣabha, Taurus, for the $\frac{3}{30}$ of the total period of its transit through the house becomes भोगी Bhogī, opulent; with मंगल Maṅgala, Mars, in the astral house मृग Mriga, Capricorn for the $\frac{2}{30}$ of the total period becomes धनी Dhanī, wealthy; with बुध Budha, Mercury, in the astral house कन्या Kanyā, Virgo for $\frac{1}{30}$ of the total period becomes a नेता Netā, leader; with गुरु Guru, Jupiter, in the astral house कर्क Karka, Cancer, for $\frac{5}{30}$ of the total period, becomes a मण्डलाधिप Mandalādhīpa, chief of a province; with शुक्र Śukra, Venus, in मीन Mīna, Pisces, for $\frac{2}{30}$ of the total period, becomes a नृपति Nripati, king; and with शनि Śani, Saturn, remaining in the astral house तुला Tula, Librā, for the $\frac{2}{30}$ of the total period of its transit through the house, he becomes a चक्रवर्ती Cakravartin, sovereign of the world.

With three planets occupying an exalted position, the man becomes a नरेन्द्र Narendra, king; with five planets in the exalted position, he becomes an अर्धचकी Ardha cakrî, one whose power is half that of a Cakravartî. a Vāsudeva; with six planets in the exalted position, he becomes a चक्रवर्ती Cakravartî, sovereign of the world-paramount king; and with seven planets occupying an exalted position, the man becomes a तीर्थङ्कर Tirthaṅkara, the founder of the Tīrtha—an order of four, consisting of साधु Sādhu, Monks, साध्वी Sādhvis, Nuns श्रावक Śrāvakas, Laymen and श्राविका Śrāvikās, Lay-women.

CHAPTER V

The Horoscope Of Sramana Bhagavan Mahavira.

By

[Mr. Mansukhlal Jivanlal Doshi,

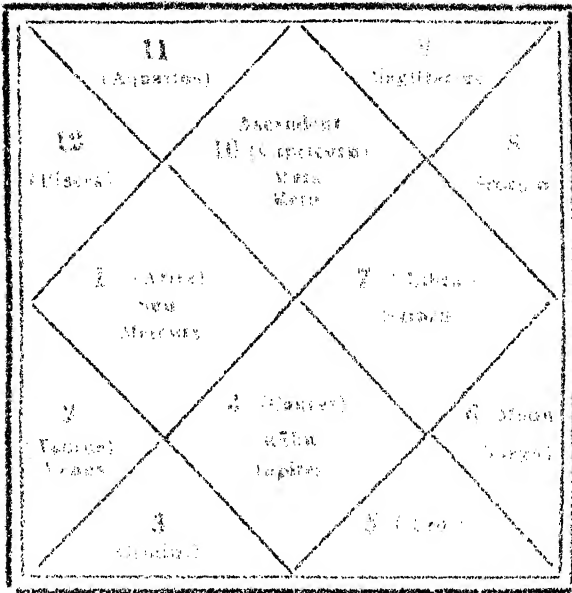

MAHUVVA—Kathiawar]

THE RISING PLANET.

Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra was born with Mars (Maṅgala मंगल) rising at the moment of birth. Mars was exalted, that is, Mars was in Capricorn (Makara Rāsi मकर राशी). He was, therefore, born in a royal family, endowed with a quiet yet ambitious, persevering, and persistent spirit, capable of enormous efforts towards the attainment of a desired object, always self-possessed, and of firm will.

His temper was strong, forceful, and enduring, and in spite of inordinate ambition and much courage, was always resulting in good achievements. His motto was " Forget and Forgive " and he was a good friend and an unrelenting enemy to His own Karmas. He had ambition, determination, and ability to make his way in the world and carve out His own career. He had a good deal of practical executive ability, was able to work hard and accomplish much. He had a sense of authority, was able to direct and control others, and was fitted for all posts of responsibility. He was able to lift up His soul in the world.

The rise of Mars takes place after the completion of the age of 28. Therefore, He became free from worldly pursuits during his twenty-eighth year and took Dikṣā दीक्षा Initiation during his thirtieth year, as he was persuaded by his brother King Nandivardhana नन्दीवर्धन to remain two years more as a house-holder.

The Ascendent or Rising Sign.

Capricorn (Makara Rāśi मकर राशी) was rising at the moment of birth of Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra. He had, therefore, a quiet, steady, and persevering patient, enduring and tactful disposition. He had much practical executive ability, was a steady, useful worker, and carried out faithfully all the works he undertook. He had much self-control and strength of will, and pursued His ends persistently in the face of many obstacles.

He believed in justice, caution, and prudence, and always thought well before he acted. He was self-possessed, and ordered, directed, and managed his disciples very efficiently and He was always loved and respected by them. He possessed reserve and restraint. He had a quiet persistence and a steadfast determination, that enabled him to do every thing that He set his mind on. Caution and prudence always marked His actions and policy but when a course was decided upon He was very persistent. He had a good sense of ways and means, and was apt in the use of them. His affections were sincere but frequently subject to change, due more to destiny than inclination.

Journeys were numerous and frequently for some sacred purposes.

The Ruling Planet.

The Ruling planet was Saturn (Śani शनि) at the moment of birth. Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra had, therefore, a disposition, that was sober, serious, and thoughtful. This planet naturally rules the latter portion of life, and, therefore, its best influence was not seen until youth was passed. He had the fullest self-control, reserve, and restraint, as well as natural inclination to prudence and cautiousness.

He had the highest strength of will, and a patient persevering disposition, with calmness, fortitude and serenity. He had a good deal of practical ability, prudence, patience, chastity, self-control and the highest type of meditative mood and he was able to distinguish between real Truth and superficial pretentiousness.

The Ruler's Position.

The Ruling planet Saturn (Śani शनि) was in the tenth house of the radical horoscope at the moment of birth. Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra was, therefore, aspiring, enterprising, and got the highest recognition. He rose in life every day, and achieved honour and worship from various kings and emperors and even from thousands of gods.

This position of Saturn indicates a close link with the father and mother, and so, Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra was not able to renounce the world and take Dīkṣā दीक्षा Initiation into an Order of Monks so long as both his parents were alive.

The Moon (Candra चंद्र) was in the ninth house at the moment of birth. Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra's mind was, therefore, very good and prone to investigate metaphysical subjects, taking a deep interest in all systems of Philosophy and Occultism. He believed every object in the Universe as possessing a soul or the higher mind. He was able to teach others, speaking inspirationally or through 'Intuition'. He always listened to the dictates of his Higher Self; His soul being always ready for the Inner Truth, that is within and not without.

The general financial fortunes are judged from the Ruler of the second house, and the house occupied by the ruler etc. Saturn, lord of the second house was dignified at the moment of birth and occupied the tenth house. Therefore, Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira was born with the greatest fortune in a royal family. But a fixed sign occupied the cusp of the second house, so, he was indifferent to the best of fortune inherited by him and so he renounced the world and took Dikṣā. Still, however, owing to the angular position of Jupiter, dignified at the moment of birth, in the latter portion of his life, extraordinary financial prosperity and celestial happiness accruing to him, came out in most peculiar ways, even from gods, and totally unexpected sources, so much so, that the prosperity of the gods in heaven, was insignificant, before the resources supplied to Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira, by Śakrendra शक्रेन्द्र the king of the gods, and other gods as his devotees.

Sun-Sūrya सूर्य was at the moment of birth, in Aries-Meṣa मेष Rāśi and exhalted, Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira was, therefore, a leader in ideals and a pioneer of advanced thought. He had great mental energy. He inclined towards prophecy, and predicted things that would happen, for, He was able to look a-head into the future, possessing remarkable foresight. He was clairvoyant, being especially gifted in this direction. He had extreme ideality, was always full of new schemes and plans, and was always exploring and originating.

He had all the senses fully alive; consciousness being readily expressed in the head. He had keen sight, sense of touch, taste, smell, and hearing, but even with the possession of acuteness of senses, he had such a strong indomitable willpower that he would not shrink a moment from most cruelly inflicted wounds to his body, as for instance, the impaction of iron nails into both his ears by the cow-herds at Shaṣmānī grāma षण्मानिग्राम a village near Madhyama Apāpā मध्यम अपापानagari in such a way that their sharp ends touched each other and their ends outside the ears were cut close to the meatuses to escape detection or he had the fortitude to endure the most terrible twenty Upasargas उपसर्ग, Molestations done to Him by the wicked demigod Saṅgama सङ्गम, during one night only, for six months, which no other mortal will ever think of undergoing.

He was very self-willed and often self-opinionated, so that, it was exceedingly difficult to restrain him as he was always inclined to act upon impulse without waiting to mature his plans. He was frank, and outspoken and was exceedingly generous; in addition to his daily charities, he gave daily during the quarter of the day, one crore and eight lac gold mohars as Samvatsari Dāna संवत्सरिदान, lasting for one year previous to his Dikṣā amounting to the huge sum of three hundred and eighty-eight crore and eighty lac gold coins to the poor and needy by way of charity.

Though he was fond of reason and argument, he was assertive and combative with Karmas of his previous life.

Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra loved to engage his mind in great enterprises. With Him, intellect was the main feature and He understood his own emotions and feelings. He was living up to the highest strength of his character. He had not the slightest tendency towards enmity or affection; for instance, He had not the slightest enmity towards Canda kauśīc चंडकौशिक, the serpent who stung him nor did he entertain any affection for Śakrendra शकेन्द्र the king of the gods who worshipped him.

He was a very grand character especially in all pioneer work; his enthusiasm being rarely daunted by obstacles. Once his mind was made up, he was able to overcome all opposition, more by his dominant will and masterful spirit than by simple perseverance.

He was interested in all matters that were occult and metaphysical, and loved to live in a world of ideals. Always intellectual, he made several learned disciples of whom eleven commencing with Indrabhūti Gautama and ending with Ārya Prabhas were called Gaṇadhars गणधर chief disciples and many were from royal families; they were affable, genial and witty. He was never at a loss for a word and was an excellent conversationalist. He made all those around him happy and free from the bondage of Saṃsāra संसार, worldly pursuits.

He loved harmonious surroundings. He sought to make his environments calm, peaceful and endearing. He sensed others in a surprising manner going straight to the core. His mental sympathies were always quick to respond to the least good which he found in others.

His true mission in life was to inspire and lead and to make people free from false worldly pursuits. He was a natural prophet and a divine preacher of religion.

In short, he was a very grand character with clear and decided ideas, and a spirit that was bold, dauntless, and inspiring. His greatest intellectual ability enabled him to rise above all in the three worlds and hence Śakrendra शकेन्द्र the king of the gods and other Indras and gods were praising Him and bowing down before Him.

His path way always led to clear thought and finally to the perfected intuition; because his inner quality was TRUTH.

Moon was at the moment of birth in Virgo-Kanyā Rāśi कन्यारशि. Therefore, Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra possessed great intellectual powers and had the capacity to follow intellectual pursuits. He had very good memory. He was trust worthy in all undertakings with others. His personality was humane. He was very discriminative as life advanced.

Polarity of the Sun and Moon.

The Sun-Sūrya सूर्य was at the moment of birth in Aries Meṣa Rāśi मेषराशि and the Moon-Candra चंद्र was in Virgo-Kanyā Rāśi कन्याराशि. Therefore, the practical nature of Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira was exalted and He had all scientific characteristics. His mind was logical, and he was quite accurate in his judgments. He had a considerable amount of ability in all literary pursuits. The above position of his radical Sun and Moon also awakened all his exalting tendencies and dispelled the melancholic attributes of Virgo, and intensified his love of study and gave him considerable amount of religious ability.

Jupiter-Guru गुरु was at the moment of birth in Cancer-Karka Rāśi. Therefore, he was good-humoured, charitable, benevolent, humane, religious, and to some extent yielding in disposition and open to conviction. He was sincere and devout.

The emotional side of his nature and imagination, was an intuition. But Jupiter was afflicted at birth, by Dragon's Head Rāhu राहु. Therefore, he had Upasargas उपसर्ग troubles or adversities, molestations, through enemies caused by the Karmas of his previous lives, between the age of 30 and 42.

Venus-Śukra शुक्र was in Taurus-Vriṣabha Rāśi वृषभ राशि at the moment of birth. Therefore, Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira had an affectionate nature, was faithful in love and generally fixed, determined, decided, positive, and tenacious in opinion.

Mercury-Budha बुध, was in Aries, Meṣa Rāśi मेष राशि at the moment of birth. Therefore, Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira was quick-witted, apt at writing and speaking, quick at retort, witty, observant, sharp and enthusiastic. He was quick and a prolific writer with a fertile mind, original, and inventive; cleverest of his family and most celebrated in matters connected with religion.

Mercury was in the fourth house at the moment of birth. Therefore, Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira frequently visited different countries, towns and villages for the purpose of preaching religion. His mental powers reached the highest limit by constancy and concentration.

Sun was in benefic aspect at the moment of birth with the planet Jupiter. Therefore, Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira was elevated to the highest position and he greatly improved his status as life advanced. He possessed the true religious spirit and a genuine good-feeling and he was benevolent and sympathetic towards all those with whom he came in contact. He met everywhere with success that he deserved. All his undertakings turned out very satisfactorily. He was of a hopeful and cheerful disposition under any amount of difficulties. He was able to see his way to adjust his circumstances quickly and with ease.

Moon was in benefic aspect with the planet Jupiter at the moment of birth. Therefore, Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira had sufficient dignity and power to occupy a very prominent position and eventually got the highest recognition. He had splendid vitality and He was mentally honest, and intuitive and progressive with a true religious spirit, and became more and more just and sympathetic as life advanced.

Moon was in benefic aspect with the planet Venus at the moment of birth. Therefore, Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira had a very good environment and He was fortunate and successful in all undertakings that engaged his attention. He had a loving disposition and a very handsome pleasing personality. The internal side of His life was the best, going inward to the mind or the purely intellectual side of development.

Mercury-Budha बुध had domination over the ninth house, at the moment of birth. Therefore, Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra's higher mind was always more active than the lower. He was very quick in his perceptions and very intuitive. He had a metaphysical turn of mind and loved mystical subjects.

The twelfth house of the horoscope is one of mystery, that is, owing to the cadent and mutable influence, it is more connected with the mind than with actual physical manifestation. Jupiter was lord of this house at the moment of birth. Therefore, Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra's mind was drawn towards occultism and He made great progress during his life in all matters connected with occult thought and study. He was therefore drifted away from the subjective life and the inner worlds had fascination for him. He endeavoured to understand much of his inner nature; for He had a faith in mystical affairs.

Mars exhalted in the first house, Jupiter exhalted in the seventh house, Sun exhalted in the fourth house, and Saturn exhalted in the tenth house, and all the planets angular, indicated that Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra must attain Salvation at the close of his life, after destroying all the Karmas of previous lives, signified by Dragon's Head-Rāhu राहु in the seventh house and by Ketu केतु in the first house. Dragon's Head's-Rāhu's राहु Daśa Kāla दशकाल the period of good or bad influence, according to Indian Astrology, lasts for twelve years. Therefore, Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra, while going from village to village, after his Dīkṣā was put to terrible molestations for twelve years, by enemies of his previous life. He endured all these adversities, with such fortitude and equanimity of mind, that he was able to destroy a large majority of the remaining Karmas of previous life, and thus to make himself fit for the acquisition of Kevala Jñāna केवलज्ञान, Perfect Knowledge, which enabled him to comprehend the true nature of all substances and their attributes.

25-26. There were 1008 (one thousand and eight) pots each of the under-mentioned 8 kinds viz 1. 1008 of gold 2. 1008 of silver 3. 1008 of precious stones 4. 1008 of gold and silver 5. 1008 of gold and precious stones 6. 1008 of silver and precious stones 7. 1008 of gold-silver and precious stones and 8. 1008 pots of clay, with their mouths of one yojana making a total of 8064 pots.

[Some equally eminent authorities say that the pots were 8000 (eight thousand) each of the above-mentioned eight varieties making a total of 64000 (sixty four thousand) pots.]

27. Each pot was twenty-five yojanas high and twelve yojanas wide, with a nozzle of one yojana.

The अभिषेक Abhiṣekas, Ablutions were 16000000 (one crore and sixty lacs (hundred thousand)

[The abhiṣeka (ablution) with the pots full of water, mentioned above is repeated two hundred and fifty times calculated as under by the number of abhiṣekas done by an individual god or by a god representing a group of gods taking part in the ceremony:—

Kinds of gods	Number of Abhiṣekas
62 Indras	62
66 Number of Suns	66
66 Number of Moons	66
33 Trāyastrikśāḥ	33
3 Pārṣadyāḥ	3
Ātmarakṣaka (Body-guards)	1
Sāmānika	1
Lokapāla	4
Generals of troops	7
Miscellaneous gods	1
Indrāṇis	5
Abhiyogika (servile)	1
	250

Another calculation is as follows:—

62 Indras	62
66 Number of Suns	66
66 Number of Moons	66
33 Trāyastrikśāḥ	1
Sāmānika	1

Indrāṇis of Saudharma and Isāna deva-loka	16
Indrāṇis of Asura Kumāra deva-loka	10
Indrāṇis of Nāga Kumāra deva-loka	12
Indrāṇis of Jyotiṣka devas	4
Indrāṇis of Vyantara devas	4
3 Pārṣadyāḥ (members of councils)	1
4 Lokapāla	4
7 Generals of troops	1
Ātmarakṣaka (Body-guards)	1

250

The calculation for the number of abhiṣekas (ablutions) is as follows:—

A. For 1000 pots, each of the eight varieties $1000 \times 8 = 8000$
 Each of these is repeated eight times $8000 \times 8 = 64000$
 Each of these is again repeated 250 times
 $64000 \times 250 = 16000000$

B. For 8000 pots each of the eight varieties $8000 \times 8 = 64000$
 Each of these is repeated 250 times, $64000 \times 250 = 16000000$

Besides this, Acyutendra ordered to be brought by servant -gods, gold pitchers, mirrors, baskets of gems, auspicious jugs, dishes, plates, metallic flat baskets for flowers, and other articles for worship one thousand and eight each of eight varieties like the pots, fragrant clay and water of Māgadha and other sacred places, lotuses from Ganges and other rivers, water from Padmahrada and other lakes, white mustard flowers perfumes and other medicinal plants from Kṣulla-himavat, Varṣadhara, Vaitādhyā, Vijaya Vaksaskara and other mountains.

29. Or, the gods appeared as if sprinkling their cherished tree with water or throwing away their own dirt or as if establishing a Kalaśa (an auspicious dome-shaped pinnacle) over their temple of religious merit.

31. By the shaking of the mountains there, the earth also trembled. Peaks of mountains fell down on all sides, and even the seas became agitated.

32. An unprecedented noise resembling the bursting of the Egg of Brahman extends far. Śakra became angry. But having known by Avadhī Jñāna, he asked pardon of the Lord of the (four-fold) Tīrtha.

33. Out of numerous previous Arhats, I am not touched by the foot by any one of them. Meru, under the disguise of shaking, danced as if by rejoicing.

34. By sprinkling with the water of bathing, my supreme eminence among mountains was acquired. These gods are hence my necklaces and the Jina is, thus, the gold chaplet.

36. May the water of the ocean of milk, flowing from the interior of the stream of pots held by numerous multitudes of Indras at the birth-ablution at Meru, coming in contact with the body of the last lord of the Jina, and appearing like a white umbrella on the head, filling up the beams of the moon-like face, appearing like a necklace on the neck and appearing like a jacket of chinese silk on the whole body, be for your prosperity.

98. During the night in which Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira was born, many तिर्यग्जृम्भकदेवाः Tiryag Jrimbhaka devāḥ; gods of the Lokāntika deva-loka, in वैश्रमण Vaiśramaṇa's (Kuber's) service, rained on the palace of king Siddhārtha, a shower of silver, gold, diamonds, garments, ornaments, leaves (of betel plants etc.), flowers, fruits, seeds, garlands, perfumes, scented powders, colour-powders (orpiment etc.), and a continuous shower of riches.

99. Then, after the Bhuvana-pati, Vāṇa-vyantara, Jyotiṣka, and Vaimānika gods had celebrated the festival of the birth-ablution of the Tirthaṅkara, the kṣatriya Siddhārtha, at day-break, called together the policemen of the town. Having called them, he addressed them thus:—

100. Quickly, indeed, O beloved of the gods! make the prison in the town of Kuṇḍapura clear (of prisoners by releasing them)

It is said,

युवराजाभिषेके च परराष्ट्रपमर्दने ।

पुत्रजन्मनि वा मोक्षो बद्धानां प्रविधीयते ॥ १ ॥

1. Yuvarājābhiṣeke ca pararaṣṭrapamardane;

Putra janmani vā mokṣo baddhānām pravidhiyate.

1. A release of prisoners is effected at (the time of) inauguration of a crown-prince, devastating an enemy's territory and the birth of a son.

Increase measures and weights. Having done it, order that the whole town of Kuṇḍapura, in the interior and exterior (suburbs) be sprinkled (with water) swept and smeared (with cow-dung etc.), that in triangular places, in places where three or four roads or more roads meet, in squares (with temples) and in principal streets, the middle of the road and the market streets to shops be sprinkled (with water) cleaned and swept, that platforms be erected one above the other, that the town be decorated with flags and banners beautified with different colours, that floors be adorned (by smearing them with cow-dung) and walls by white-washing them (with white chalk), that walls be given impressions of palms of outstretched five fingers (of the hand) with गोशीर्ष Gosīrsa, a superior kind of sandal paste, with सरसरक्तचंदन Sarasa rakta candana, juicy red sandal, and with दर्दर Dardara a kind of sandal produced in southern mountain named दर्दर Dardara, that auspicious vases smeared with sandal-paste be arranged on floors, that pitchers smeared with sandal-paste be well arranged on arched portals and above every door, that large round and long garlands and wreaths of flowers be hung low and high, that collections of juicy fragrant flowers of five colours be arranged on floors, that the town be made very lovely by the fragrant smell of the scented fumes of Black aloe, best Kundurukka (benzoin) Turuṣka (olibanum) and burning incense be exquisitely scented with excellent perfumes and made as it were as a pastile of perfumed substances; that actors, dancers, rope-dancers, wrestlers, boxers, jesters (buffoons), swimmers, story-tellers, ballad-singers, female dancers moving in a circle, watchmen, pole-dancers, beggars showing pantomime pictures, flute-players, Indian-lute players and numerous Tālācarā (who by clapping the hands beat the time during a performance of music) be present. Get it done by others; having done it and having ordered it to be done by others, get thousands of yokes (for vehicles, ploughs etc.) and wooden pestles (for thrashing out rice-grains) raised upwards (because yoking of bullocks or horses to carts, waggons, ploughs etc, cultivation, husking, and other manual occupations are prohibited during festival days). Having got them raised upwards, report on the execution of my order. 100 numerous dancers clapping their hands danced; the musicians did not leave off their musical instruments, and the whole population of the town and country, rejoiced and enjoyed themselves. He held the festival for ten days a practice handed down from one generation to another.

He received and ordered to be received, hundreds, thousands and hundred-thousands of presents. 103.

104. The parents of Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra celebrated the festival on the first-day a practice handed down from one generation to another. On the third day, they showed him the Moon and the Sun.

It is done as follows:—After the lapse of two days from the birth-day of the child, the family-priest places an idol of the Moon, made of silver, in front of the image of a Tirth-aṅkara and having worshipped it, establishes it with due ceremony. Then having led at moon-rise, the mother with the new-born child well bathed, well-dressed, and decorated with excellent ornaments, into the place where the rising Moon can be clearly seen, the family-priest repeats the undermentioned
incantation:—

ॐ अहं चन्द्रोऽसि निशाकरोऽसि नक्षत्रपतिरसि सुधाकरोऽसि
औषधीगर्भोऽसि अस्य कुलस्य वृद्धिं कुरु कुरु स्वाहा ।

Om ! Arham ! Candro'si niśākaro'si nakśatrapatirasi sudhā karo'si ausadhîgarbho'si asya kulasya vridhīm kuru kuru svahā.

Om ! Victory to the Arhats ! You are the Moon ! you are the night-maker ! You are the lord of constellations ! You are the mine of nectar ! You are the treasure of all medicinal herbs ! You increase the prosperity of this family. Hail !
Blessing.

And shows the Moon. The mother along with the child, bows down before the family-priest. The priest gives the under mentioned blessing:—

सर्वौषधीमिश्रमरीचिराजिः, सर्वापदांसंहरणप्रवीणः ।

करोतु वृद्धिं सकलेऽपि वंशे, युष्माकमिन्दुः सततं प्रसन्नः ॥ १ ॥

1. Sarvaauśadhi miśra marīcirājīḥ sarvāpadām saṁharaṇa-pravīṇaḥ;
Karotu vridhīm sakale'pi vaṁśe, yuṣmākamīnduḥ satatam prasannaḥ. 1.

May the Moon, the streak of the rays of light mixed with all medicinal herbs, clever in removing all miseries, always gracious towards you, increase prosperity even in the whole race.

In the same manner, the Sun is also shown. But the idol of the Sun is either of gold or of copper. The following is the incantation.

ॐ अहं सूर्योऽसि दिनकरोऽसि तमोऽपहोऽसि सहस्र-किरणोऽसि
जगच्चक्षुरसि प्रसीद ।

Om ! Arham ! Sūryo'si dinakaro'si tamo'paho'si sahasra kīraṇo'si jagaccakśurasi prasīda.

Om ! Victory to Arhats ! Thou art the Sun. Thou art the maker of the day ! Thou art the remover of darkness ! Thou art thousand-rayed ! Thou art the vision of the world ! Grant favour.

The benediction is as follows:—

सर्वसुरासुरवन्द्यः कारयिताऽपूर्वसर्वकार्याणाम् ।

भूयात्रिजगच्चक्षुर्मङ्गलदस्ते सपुत्रायाः ॥ १ ॥

1. Sarva surāsura vandyah kārayitā'purva sarva kāryānām;
Bhūyattrijagacckśu r-maṅgaladaste sa-putrāyah.

May the one who is respectfully adored by all gods and demi-gods, who is the door of all marvellous deeds and one who is the medium of vision of the three worlds, become the giver of auspicious objects to thee along with the child.

Now a days a mirror is shown instead of the Moon and the Sun,

On the sixth day, they kept awake during the whole night for religious meditation.

After the eleventh day on which the impure operations and ceremonies in connection with the birth of the child had been completed, had passed and when the twelfth day had come, they got prepared plenty of food, drink, spices and savouries. Having prepared them, they invited their friends, caste-people, their kinsmen, family-members, relations, agnates, cognates and domestics together with the Jnāta kṣatriyas. Having invited them, and having bathed, they gave offerings (to family-gods) and did auspicious rites and expiatory acts, put on clean auspicious excellent court-dress (fit for festival occasions) and adorned their bodies with light but very costly ornaments. At dinner-time, they sat on excellent comfortable state-chairs in the dining-hall, and together with their friends caste-people, kinsmen, family-members, relations, agnates, cognates, domestics, and together with Jnāta kṣatriyas, they tasted, (eating a small quantity from it and throwing away a large portion e. g. a sugar-cane), ate (eating a very large portion of it and throwing away a few seeds, e. g. dates, juicy fruits) ate up (consuming the entire potion without throwing away anything e-g. eatables), and interchanged dishes amongst themselves, out of an abundant quantity of food, drink, spices and savouries.

108. Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra was of the Kāśyapa gotra. His three names have thus been recorded. They are;—
1. He was named Vardhamān by his parents. 2. He was called Śramaṇa on account of his natural capacity of practising severe austerities, and 3. Because he stands immovable in the midst of dangers and terror, patiently suffers endurances and calamities, observes the particular vows (of an ascetic), is intelligent, and endures patiently pleasure and pain, is self-restrained and is gifted with excellent valour, he was named Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra by the gods.

...Then, Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra surrounded by five wet-nurses viz—1. One feeding milk 2. One washing and bathing 3. One decorating and putting on ornaments. 4. One making Him play about and 5. One taking Him in her lap, being taken from one lap to another on the ground—flooring beset with gems, gradually grew up like a चंपक Campaka Tree nurtured carefully in a cave on a high mountain. Then, Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra, with natural development of knowledge, at the completion of childhood thus moves about in all directions dispassionately enjoying excellent human pleasures of five senses relating to sound, touch, taste, sight and smell.

Thus, on the completion of the ceremony of naming the child, while becoming contented by the excellent juice (nectar) deposited in his finger by the gods, served by five highly respected wet-nuses, carefully fondled by lovely young females of the harem making him slowly advancing on footsteps by his parents in various ways, spoken to by domestic servants every now and then, carefully honoured by gods and goddesses, sung by numerous songs, taught by various lessons, and painted in pictures, Vardhamāna Kumāra gradually grew up like a Kalpa Vrikṣa (the wishing tree) in the cave of a high mountain.

The name Śramāṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra was given by the gods in this way.

The eminent sages say—Vardhamāna kumāra whose birth-festival was celebrated by the Indras of the gods and demi-gods, grew up in course of time like the crescent Moon of the second day of the fortnight or the blossom of the Paradise Tree.

He was—

द्विजराजमुखो गजगजगतिः, अरुणोष्ठपुटःमितदन्तततिः ।

शितिकेशभरोऽम्बुजमञ्जुकरः सुरभिश्चसितः प्रभयोल्लसितः ॥ १ ॥

1. Dvija-rāja mukho gajarāja gatiḥ, Aruṇoṣṭhaputaḥ sitadanta tatiḥ;

Mati kanti dhṛiti prabhṛiti sva guṇai r-jagato'pyadhiko jagati tilakaḥ. 2

1. He was moon-faced, with the gait of a lordly elephant, with the slits of his lips resembling a rising Sun, with the rows of white teeth, with black hair, with beautiful lotus-like hands, with fragrant breath, and was shining with radiant beauty.

2. He was intelligent, learned, gifted with extensive Avadhi Jnāna, had a remembrance of many previous lives, and free from pain. He was the ornament of the world—surpassing the world by his innate qualities of intelligence, beauty, fortitude etc.

When Vardhamān Kumāra was nearly eight years old, although he was devoid of sportive curiosity one day at the instigation of some of his companions of equal age he went out of the town along with them and began to play near some trees there. By mutual agreement it was settled, that he who climbed up the tree and came down from it in the shortest period of time, will ride on the back of other boys and will make them move on.

At that time the Indra of the Saudharma deva-loka, while conversing on various interesting topics with gods in the Saudharma Sabhā (council-hall) and touching on the subject of fortitude, said “O gods! although Bhagavān Vardhamān is quite a boy but his valour and fortitude are unparalled and no god, demi-god or Indra, however strong he may be, is able to frighten him away or defeat him by his strength.” On hearing these words of Saudharmendra, one of the gods who was very wicked and insolent on account of his having highly heretical beliefs, thought “Only fortunate people can have a lord whose speech should be considered lovely although he may talk without rhyme or rhythm and whose speech was not open to refutation although it was full of arrogance and unbridled, is it possible that gods and demi-gods possessing immeasurable strength cannot defeat one who is only a child? Is a mirror necessary for viewing an armlet on one’s hands? I will immediately go there and test his fortitude” With this idea in his mind, he went to the place where Vardhamān Kumāra was playing under the tree and with the object of terrifying him he assumed the form of a magnificent huge venomous snake, with a large body resembling a mass of collyrium and darkening the thicket of the forest by his intense blackness resembling the horns of wild buffaloes, with eyes more red than that of the colour of a cock's crest, with a pair of tongues as fickle as lightning, clever in inflating its curved round very strong and well-developed hood, producing terrible noise like the formidable wind at the end of an age of the world and advancing rapidly with a very wrathful gait towards Vardhamān Kumāra.

Vardhamān Kumāra knowing the real state of affairs, threw him far off like a withered piece of string holding him by his left hand. The god, becoming impudent and careless about future issue, assumed the form of a boy and began to play with Vardhamān Kumāra. By his natural circumspection Vardhamān Kumāra became successful in game with all the boys and riding on the back of all of them, he made them walk about. After the rest of the boys had walked around, it was now the turn of the god who had assumed the form of a boy. He bent down his back and as soon as Vardhamān Kumāra was seated on it, the god with the object of terrifying Vardhamān Kumāra, assumed the form of a demon and began to grow tall and taller. This time he assumed a very hideous form. His hair were more harsh than those of a hog or a boar. His head was as big as a potter's pot and his forehead resembled the inner hollowed out portion of the part of a pot. His eyebrows were reddish and contained entangled hair. His pair of eyes were as deep as wells of Marwar and were deep yellow coloured. His nostrils were flat like the flanks of a big hearth. His cheeks were hollowed out like the cave a big mountain. His molar teeth resembled the tail of a horse. His lips were hanging like the lips of a camel. His teeth were protruding and curved like those of an elephant and formidable. His tongue was trembling like a flag moving to and fro with wind and sharp like a sharp-edged sword. His neck resembled a dried trunk (of a tree) and his arms were like large earthen jars. His hemispherical hollows of the hands were flat like winnowing fans and his fingers resembled dolls of stone. His finger-nails were rough like the cavity of an old worn-out spoon. His chest was filled with visible blood-vessels and in the interior, full of dust, a venomous snake, making a loud hissing noise was resting himself; in it there was a mass of bones only. His belly was pot-shaped and his waist was broken at some places and could be grasped in a fist. His testicles were hanging like the fruits of the Vālunkî plant and his male generative organ was as big as that of a big elephant. His legs were full of disgusting and uncovered rows of hair and long like palmyras. His feet resembled an expanse of sharp-pointed stone and his toe-nails were frightful like a large spade. Besides, he was spreading fire-flames from the cavity of his horrible mouth. He was shaking the front portions of palatial buildings by striking the surface of the ground with the blows of the soles of his feet. He was hindering the progress of the chariot of the Sun by the bolt in the form of his long arms extended high up. He was making his firm teeth visible while giving out a loud roaring laughter. A terrible collected series of skulls was hanging from his neck to his feet. He had adjusted mungoose on his ears in place of earrings. He had placed a huge venomous snake in place of the sacred thread of a Brahmana. He was dressed in the skin of a hunting leopard. His body was stained with blood and flesh. He had tied his shoulder with a very formidable and debilitated boa-serpent. He was jumping, dancing, laughing, and growing tall and taller and was uttering terrifying sounds. This terrible form of the demon was increasing every moment and it was as dark as great thick clouds. Having completely known the malicious fraud of the god, Vardhamān Kumāra, fearlessly dealt him as in a sport a powerful blow with the fist on his back.

Then hit as if by a blow from a thunder-bolt and giving out unpleasant sounds by a blow with the fist, the god became as submissive as a small child and as his body had become greatly debilitated, he began to utter hundreds of piteous cries

Having ascertained the truthfulness of the words of the Devendra, and having repented for his sinful actions, and becoming physically disabled by his evil deeds, the god bowed down before the feet of Vardhamān Kumāra and said "O Lord of the three worlds! I have done this wicked act. I did not believe in the words of the Indra, but they are quite true. I am now suffering the terrible consequences. Or, what is this merely for one who pays no attention to the words of his superiors? O Lord! you are able to overcome great dangers of this world with the greatest ease, then, of what account is it to you when a wretch like myself is prepared to terrify you? Besides, O Supreme Being! you are able to shake Mount Meru and with it the entire earth with the touch of the toe of your foot. Whose mind will not be fascinated by this juvenile sporting of yours? O master of the three worlds! Although you possess such evident strength, I was not able to know it. I am, therefore, a god only in name but not in action. You please forgive me for my imprudent behaviour. For, good persons are naturally fond of obeisance. Having thus requested pardon of the Omnipresent the only friend of the world and having done obeisance, the god, illuminating the directions by his jewelled ear-rings, flew up into the sky. Vardhamān Kumāra continued the game for a short while and returned to his palace accompanied by his servants, warriors, and body-guards.

It is said,

1. Vardhamān Kumāra had naturally great strength even during child-hood. He was named Vīra by Śakra with a contented mind.

Going to School.

When Vardhamān Kumāra was a little more than eight years old, king Siddhārtha rejoicingly told Trisālā-devi "O queen! our son has now become fit for learning various arts and sciences, let us therefore place him under the care of a learned teacher.

4. Clothes of various kinds, ornaments, cocoanuts, suitable for the teacher and several objects to be given to students.

5-6. Such as, betel-nuts, Śringātaka nuts (Vern शीघोडा Singhodā, an aquatic plant and its fruit), date-fruit, sugar-candy and powdered sugar, caroli (chirongia sopida) citron (citrus medica) grapes etc. and a collection of pleasant food (sweet-meats) etc. And furniture for books made of a combination of gold, silver, and gems, lovely inkstands, writing reeds writing boards etc.

7. Beautiful gold ornaments in-laid with many new gems for the decoration of the idol of the Goddess of Learning and a variety of clothes for pupils.

With all these various above-named articles for the teacher, the pupils, and for the Goddess of Learning, Vardhamān Kumāra made preparations for going to the dwelling of the teacher. The lord of the three worlds was then bathed with an abundance of silver pitchers filled with excellent sacred waters of various places of pilgrimage and he wore a pair of beautiful divine clothes, (which was in every way pleasing to the eye) and was shining brilliantly like the Moon, Vardhamān Kumāra was, then, decorated with jewels, crown, armlets, ear-rings, bracelets, and other ornaments given by the Indra. A spacious umbrella was held over his head, four chowries were being moved about his body, surrounded by an army consisting of four parts and with many musical instruments giving out sweet melodious tunes, Vardhamān Kumāra reached the house of the teacher. As soon as the Paṇḍit (teacher) put on washed garments as white as the of क्षीरोदक Kṣīrodaka, water of milk-ocean, suitable for an auspicious day and suitable to be put on while teaching the son of a great king, put on a gold sacred thread, made marks of saffron on his forehead and as soon as he made other preparations, the throne of Śakra shook like the leaves of Peepal tree, the ear of an elephant, the meditation of a fraudulent yogi and like an insult to a king. The Śakra having come to know the real state of affairs through the medium of अवधिज्ञान Avadhi Jñāna Visual Knowledge, told the gods thus:—‘O! It is a great wonder that Bhagavān is sent to a writing school.

Uttering these words, the Śakrendra who had assumed the form of a Brāhmaṇa came hastily to the house of the teacher where Vardhamān Kumāra was waiting. Having come there and having made Vardhamān Kumāra sit on the seat fit for the teacher, asked the doubts remaining in the mind of the teacher, and Vardhamān Kumāra although he was yet a child, solved all his doubts in the presence of all the people who were anxious to know what this child will say.

Bhagavān then composed जैनेन्द्र व्याकरण Jainendra Vyākaraṇa.

1. The Śakra also having made Vardhamān Kumāra sit on the seat in his presence, asked him questions about characteristics of words and grammar.

All the people became astonished "O ! where did Vardhamān Kumāra acquire so much knowledge even in his childhood?" The teacher also thought within himself:—

Addressing the teacher who was thinking thus, the Indra said,

3. You should not, O Brahmaṇa ! think in your mind that he is only a human child. He is a Jineśvara named Vīra who is the leader of the three worlds and who has seen the further end of all knowledge.

Having thus adored Vardhamān Kumāra with due ceremony, Śakra went away. Bhagavān also surrounded by numerous Jnāta kṣātrīyas returned home.

In due course of time, Bhagavān attained youth without any mishap. With the advance of youth, the dark, soft and glossy hair of Vardhamān Kumāra looked elegant. His head appeared like a beautiful canopy. His face with two spacious eyes reaching the root of the ear resembled a full-blown lotus. His chest appeared ornamented with श्रीवत्स Śrī Vatsa, a tuft of hair of this shape on the breast of Viṣṇu or Kṛṣṇa and of other deities, like a very brilliant gem and spacious like a marble slab of Kanakācala. His abdomen was thin and decorated with an umbilicus as deep as the inclination of the mind of a virtuous man and furnished with circular markings going round, from right to left. His thighs looked elegant with fine soft hair and they resembled the trunk of an elephant. His lotus-like feet ornamented in the front by rows of nails on tips of toes as if they were rows of Cintāmaṇi gem were marked with the auspicious signs of flags of victory, crocodiles, fishes etc. Besides, it seemed that the crookedness of the heart of Vardhamān Kumāra, apprehending danger, left the heart and entered his hair. Although he was naturally endowed with very little affection for worldly objects, Love dreading future danger could not find an abode in the palms of hands, soles of feet, and the lower lip of Vardhamān Kumāra. On seeing the youthful beauty of Vardhamān Kumāra, which surpassed the beauty even of the Indras of gods and demi-gods, some of the neighbouring kings sent their representatives to king Siddhārtha, for the purpose of giving their daughters in marriage with Vardhamāna Kumāra. The representatives of the kings went to king Siddhārtha and said "O Lord! delighted by the excellence of beauty of Vardhamān Kumāra, our kings have sent us with a request to accept their daughters in marriage with him. We are waiting for your reply." The king said "We shall deliberately think over the subject; for the present you go to your respective homes." The representatives of the kings, then, went away. The king narrated the matter before the queen. The queen, becoming immensely delighted, said "O Lord! with your grace, I have been able to accomplish every thing I possibly could. I have enjoyed happiness previously undreamt of. Now, if I am able to see the marriage-festival of Vardhamān Kumāra, I shall feel myself as having perfectly fulfilled a sacred duty of my life." The king said "O queen! then if possible you go to the Prince and inform him about his marriage-proposal." The queen replied "O great king! it is not proper that I should go and inform him. Princes are bashful and therefore his friends should be instructed to inform him. "With the advice of the queen, some of the friends of Vardhamān Kumāra were instructed to inform him about the marriage-proposal. They went to Vardhamān Kumāra and respectfully narrated the whole affair to him. Vardhamān Kumāra listening patiently to them said "O worthy people! do you not know the inclinations of my mind? Do you not know about my abhorrence to sensual pleasures? Or, do you not know about my intention of renouncing my life as a householder in this world that you are thus talking about my marriage-proposal." They replied:- O Prince! we know it all. But the parent's words should always be respected and the desires of kinsmen should be disregarded. Besides, the renouncement of the life of a householder in the latter portion of your life is not difficult and when the wished-for desires of your parents have been perfectly satisfied, they will not be adverse to your cherished desires. Vardhamān Kumāra said, "Except marriage, I have taken a vow to the effect that I should not accept the vows of an ascetic so long as my parents are alive. Therefore, what harm is there if my parents are satisfied by my leading an unmarried bachelor life? What more is there in marriage? Because, you clearly see that the placing of pots one above the other in a row in a marriage-pavilion indicates a continuous series of ever-increasing sinful actions, the blazing fire there is suggestive of wantonness of Infatuation, the rising of the clouds of smoke to the sky is indicative of one's light-heartedness, the auspicious going four times circularly around the sacred nuptial-fire points to the roaming in the four Gatis (transmigrations) of this Samsāra, the oblation of ghee (butter), honey etc. burns up the mass of virtuous qualities, the singing of auspicious songs by young females spreads his disgrace in all the directions, the flower-garland hanging from the bride-groom's neck indicates the nearness of the mass of miseries, the besmearing of the body with sandal-paste seems as if the Soul were covered with a thick veil of the dirt of Karmas, and while taking the hand of the bride into the hand of the bride-groom it seems as if there was a bargaining with the hand for the purchase of a very valuable object in the form of all the eight varieties of Karmas. What more can I say? On minutely examining and thinking over the ceremony at the marriage-altar, I shudder with horripilation. Leaving aside, therefore, the question of infatuation, you give me your permission that, for the satisfaction of my parents, I may lead an unmarried bachelor life.

On hearing these words of Vardhamān Kumāra, his friends respectfully bowing down said, O Prince! It is not proper for you to act thus. Wise persons are always afraid of rejecting the beneficent requests of their kinsmen, and they are naturally indifferent to achieving their own objects. Have not Bhagavān Rīṣabha Swāmi and other Tīrthaṅkaras previously led a married life? Or, have not Bhagavān Śrī Śānti Nāth and other Jineśvaras, enjoyed the paramount sovereignty of a Cakravartin?". When his friends were thus talking to him, Trīśālā-devī, accompanied by a retinue of female-servants, came to Vardhamān Kumāra. Approaching seven or eight steps towards her and offering her a seat, Vardhamān Kumāra respectfully honoured her. Then, with the closed cavity of both his hands held in front of his forehead, Vardhamān Kumāra told Trīśālā-devī, "Mother! please tell me the object of your coming here." Trīśālā-devī said "Darling! what other special cause can there be except your darśana (sight)? My whole human world is centered in you; all my directions are encompassed in you. With your presence, the happy royal wealth gives us entire satisfaction, the palace affords rest, the friends are favourable, and the three worlds are devoid of darkness. What other excellent occasion can I mention? On hearing these words of Trīśālā-devī, the obedient Vardhamān Kumāra thought:—The affection of my mother towards myself is inconceivable, her tenderness is unique, and her feeling on viewing me is so uncommon that although I am always so near her, if she does not see me even for a short time, she becomes greatly distressed". With this idea in his mind, Vardhamān Kumāra said, "O mother! still let me know your ideas." Trīśālā-devī then said, "If it be so, then you accept my proposal for your marriage-celebration. Your friends have been purposely sent by us. The king and the citizens are anxious for your marriage. Besides, I am also desirous of having the happy state not acquired before by me. By the prowess of meritorious actions all my other desires have been satisfactorily fulfilled". On hearing these words of Trīśālā-devī, the dutiful Vardhamān Kumāra thought, "When I was in my mother's womb, I have taken a solemn oath that I should not renounce the world and accept Dīksā so long as my parents are alive, as it may prove unpleasant to them." With this idea in his mind, and knowing also that he had some more evil karmas to be experienced, Vardhamān Kumāra accepted, against his own wish, the offer of marriage-celebration suggested by Triśalā-devī. Triśalā-devī and the whole retinue of family-members and domestic servants becoming greatly pleased, the news of consent to marriage-proposal was communicated to King Siddhārtha.

At that time, a gate-keeper came to king Siddhārtha and respectfully said "O lord! a messenger from king Samaravīra desirous of seeing you, has been waiting at the door for your orders." The King said, "Let him come here immediately." The messenger being admitted, respectfully saluted the King and took his seat at the place offered to him. The king, then asked him "O good man! What is your object in coming here? The messenger replied, "O king! In a town named वसंतपुर Vasantapura excelling the beauty of the city of Kubera by its splendour, there is a king with an appropriate name of समरवीर Samaravīra, who is capable of conquering the most powerful warriors on the battle-field. He has a daughter named यशोदा Yaśodā who is as dear to himself as his own life, born of his queen पद्मावती Padmāvatī. Now, please listen carefully why she was named Yaśodā.

One day near Yaśodā's birth-period, king Samaravīra while taking sound sleep at night, had a dream during early morning that he himself went to an extensive park riding an intoxicated elephant, accompanied by soldiers equipped with armours and with weapons of various kinds, swift horses well-fitted up, elephants with armours loaded with numerous arms and missiles, and surrounded by chariots containing numerous valient warriors. There was a sudden noise and some warriors were running away, some were dropping behind and some of the warriors covered with dust were wallowing on the ground. Banners of victory fell down and music of victory was entirely stoppel. On seeing this disorderly state, he held up with his own hands the royal canopy which was dropping down here and there, and he carefully guarded the great victory-banner which he had obtained. On seeing the dream, in the morning he immediately called interpreters of dreams into his presence and narrated the account of his dream to them. They said "O king! There are five sources of dreams viz 1. About a thing experienced. 2 About an object seen or 3 Thought of 4 By a disorder in temperament and 5 By the supernatural influence of a divine being. We do not really understand the cause of your dream." The king said "It seems you do not accurately determine its cause." They said "Then, you verify the things you saw in your dream. You go to the park with all the materials seen by you during your dream. We do not accurately realize whether there is any fault in it or whether there is some hidden secret meaning in it. But in due course of time there is possibility of much gain. There is some motive in your holding up the falling canopy and the acquisition of the victory-banner."

The King accepted their word and ordered a beating of the drum for preparation for a march. On hearing the drum the feudatory chiefs with armours on their bodies came to the king. The soldiers leaving aside all other work became ready. Elephants and horses were equipped. The king riding a majestic elephant went to the park named Naudana with his complete army. Then, thinking about the seriousness of the dream seen during the early hours of the morning, getting a hint of some evil occurrence by the sudden quivering of his left eye, guessing some calamity and outwardly observing the park, the king met with an incident suggested by a messenger sent on the previous day that a feudatory chief named Duryodhan of the neighbouring boundary, becoming vehemently enraged by long-continued animosity and becoming speedily ready for a fight although he was perfectly ignorant of the king's action of that day, came at once to the park. He laid a seige and a great tumult arose. On being informed of Duryodhana's arrival near the perk, king Samaravira went out of the park and there he saw his fendatory chief ready for a fight. Becoming greatly agitated as to how he knew of my arrival here! Duryodhana commenced a fight with the king's army in which there was extreme violence caused by sharp swords, heads of the killed were scattered about, warriors were crushing to pieces big chariots with the help of strong heavy hammers raised up high with their lips squeezed tightly, pearls dropping from the temples of stately elephants pierced by the sharp points of lances were lying about here and there, a clamorous churping of ghosts assembled there was frightful, the ground was covered with a mass of fallen canopies, banners and flags, intoxicated elephants were destroying the enemy's elephants, the ground had become wet with the blood flowing from wounds inflicted by elephants and horses, and in which the trunks of warriors dancing with the tune of martial music appeared terrifying. After a frightful fight for a short time, king Samaravira himself bound him hand and foot in a very tight snare and said "O vile man! Now remember your favourite god. Practising wicked deeds, you deserve now, to be a guest of the god of Death. Duryodhana said "O king! why do you say so? I have already remembered Him at the commencement of our fight. Now, you do without any objection whatever is appropriate to your family usage. Let this body suffer for whatever sins it has committed." King Samaravira, then having compassion on him took him to his palace. There, all his fetters were removed, he was given a healthy bath and plenty of delicious food and he was presented with the elephants, horses etc, taken away from him during the fight. He accepted service under the king. The king was greatly delighted and his fame was spreading in all the directions. The king thereupon said "Now, that this daughter of mine is instrumental in getting so much fame for me, it is quite appropriate that she should be named Yaśodā. She was accordingly named Yaśodā with great pomp. Growing up like the disc of the Moon, the girl attained youth in due course of time. One day, the king inquired of fortunetellers "Who will be the husband of this girl? They said "O king! An excellent man provided with a mark of śrīvatsa on his chest, worshipped by gods and demigods and possessing one thousand and eight auspicious marks on his body, will certainly become her husband." Since hearing these words of fortune-tellers, your son Vardhamān Kumāra has been selected as the most worthy husband for his daughter." King Samaravīra then called his general Meghanāda and giving him elephants, horses, gold etc, suitable for the marriage celebration of his daughter Yaśodā, he said "You go immediately and arrange for marriage-celebration. On receiving this order from our king, he went on an unfaltering march. I have been sent to you to inform you about this mission. O King! this is the object of my arrival here."

King Siddhārtha then replied "Will done! It is quite agreeable. Let the preparations suitable for the marriage-celebration be earnestly commenced. The messenger said "O lord! Why should not the preparations commence when the auspicious day of the marriage-ceremony is so near? King Siddhārtha, then sent away the messengers from other kings to their own destinations.

The next day when the king was informed of the arrival of the royal bride a lofty seven-storeyed palace was provided for her accomodation, excellent delicious food was prepared and cordial reception was given to the party.

At a favourable moment, general Meghanāda wore costly garments and went to king Siddhārtha, along with numerous warriors and feudatory chiefs, and having respectfully saluted him, made inquiries about his well-being. King Siddhārtha offered him a seat and betel leaves, betel nuts, etc, and inquired about the well-being of king Samaravīra. Immediately a detailed account of his well-being was respectfully supplied. Then, talking about various subjects. Meghanāda, with the permission of the king, went to his residence. As the day of marriage celebration was drawing near, all the preparations were quickly proceeding for the magnificent celebration of marriage festivities raised plat-forms were constructed everywhere, and seats were arranged at appropriate places over them. Various functions were assigned to different individuals and a spacious pavilion was prepared for marriage-altar. The altar-pavilion was appearing charming with marakata jewels, lovely by the arrangement of gold auspicious pots beautiful with victory-flags hanging on very white trunks of plantain trees, and noisy with the buzzing sound of black wasps roaming over heaps of flowers arranged in all directions, in which walls were decorated with emeralds beset with pure pearls, in which the lotus-like faces of young handsome females were reflected in mirrors placed in all directions, where darkness was removed by precious jewels arranged at appropriate places, where the flooring appeared variegated by the radiant brilliance of emeralds and the pavilion in which a portion was smeared with fresh cow-dung.

Having done the functions appropriate to each occasion, Meghanāda sent word to King Siddhārtha, "Now, the auspicious moment of पाणिग्रहण Paṇigrahaṇa, Receiving the hand of the bride into that of the bride-groom, is quite near, please let Vardhamāna Kumāra be brought here." King Siddhārtha there-upon told Triśalā-devī "O queen! Do immediately whatever is to be done such as welcoming the prince with an auspicious ceremony etc. The auspicious moment of Paṇigrahaṇa is very near." The queen very respectfully uttering various auspicious words, well-coming Vardhamāna Kumāra with an auspicious ceremony and gave him a bath with fragrant water mixed with numerous odoriferous drugs. Vardhamāna Kumāra wore very costly white garments and attended other auspicious ceremonies. The body of Vardhamāna Kumāra rendered white by the application of the fragrant Gośirṣa sandal-paste looked beautiful like the Kanaka-giri whitened by the moon-light of the winter Moon. The hair of the head of the Jinendra decorated with wreaths of flowers, appeared like the vault of the sky beautified with twinkling stars. The Prince appearing more lovely by new ornaments of various precious stones arranged at appropriate places looked like the moving Rohaṇācala (The Rising-sun Mountain). The natural beauty of Vardhamāna Kumāra was unparalleled but when he is decked with beautiful garments and brilliant ornaments, it is practically impossible to describe it. When the work of dressing, ornamentation etc. was finished, king Siddhārtha was accordingly informed and he ordered his servants "Let there be celebration in the town, let the Jnāta Kṣatriyas assemble together and let a magnificently-captured lordly elephant be brought here, so that, riding on him, Vardhamāna Kumāra may go to the place of his marriage-ceremony." The servants saying "Just as your Majesty orders," began to do their respective work and promptly execute the orders of the king.

Then, riding on the excellent elephant and accompanied by members of the royal family sitting in excellent chariots decorated with flags of various colours moving to and fro by winds, and cheerfully surrounded by multitudes of courtesans of the harem dancing and cleverly acting various plays, making the royal roads impassable and when the directions were resounding with the melodious sound of auspicious musical instruments, Vardhamāna Kumāra, followed by king Siddhārtha and Yuvarāj Nandivardhana, respectfully shown by thousand of fingers of citizens from upper storeys of buildings, greeted with hundreds of benedictions, and welcomed with showers of rice mixed with flowers and other materials of worship, eventually arrived at the marriage-pavilion. At the main door of the pavilion, ordinary people were prevented by the gate-keeper and Vardhamāna Kumāra along with his party of royal associates entered it. The females of both the sides cordially met with each other and the royal bride Yaśodā was then ceremoniously decorated in various ways. Her buttocks were covered by a bodice beset with gems and precious stones which appeared elegant like an extensive line of rain-bow on the sky. With her wide affectionate eyes, reaching the root of the ear and smeared with a streak of medicated lamp-black, Yaśodā looked charming like the Goddess of Spring with blue lotus flowers. The necklace of nine strings hanging from her neck, was sportively dancing like stars out of bewilderment for her moon-like face. Her tender feet coloured with a scarlet red dye appeared beautiful like the foliage of the lovely Aśoka tree. She appeared very charming by the auspicious mark with excellent Gośirsha sandal-paste on her forehead and by the jewelled rings on her ten fingers. The royal bride thus beautifully decked with costly garments and precious ornaments, charming by the extending splendour of his bodily grace, and capable of overcoming the graceful gait of the royal swan attracted there by the sound of her lovely jewelled anklets, and whose lovely lotus-like face was reflected on the walls inlaid with precious jewels, walked there gracefully with the magnificent gait of a lordly elephant, accompanied by her female servants and entered the hall of marriage-altar which was decorated with fresh rows of auspicious festoons of green leaves and in which sacrificial offerings were commenced immediately by the sacrificial priest.

The ceremony of taking the bride's hand into that of the bride-groom, which was accompanied by auspicious songs and which was gladdening the hearts of the three worlds by its magnificence, then commenced. At that lucky moment, there were mutual greetings and exchange of musk, and other fragrant anointing oils, of flower-garlands full of buzzing bees attracted by the perfume of perfumed caskets, and of rolls of betel-leaves prepared with cracked betel-nuts, cardamoms, cloves and other perfumed savouries on both the sides, and presents of excellent silk-garments, scarfs, of bracelets, ear rings, coronets, armlets, bracelets for females, and of other ornaments, of horses born in Sindha, Turkey, Camboge and other celebrated localities, and of lordly elephants to numerous individuals according to their capacity. With the oblation of clarified butter, honey, and other materials to the nuptial fire, in vigorous working, the auspicious walking around the nuptial fire by the bride-groom and the bride for the fourth time was thus completed, General Meghanāda becoming greatly delighted with joy, then, gave Vardhamāna Kumāra, gold worth thirty-two crore gold mohoras, ear-rings, loin-girdles, diadems beset with precious stones and gems, bowls, saucers, dishes, and other articles of silver, a large variety of costly clothes and garments prepared in distant countries as a present to him at the time of the release of the hand of the bride from that of the bride-groom, and king Siddhartha rejoicingly gave numerous gold ornaments and very valuable clothes and garments obtainable in the world with great difficulty, to the newly-married bride as her dowry.

Becoming thus free from the marriage-celebration which was gladdening the hearts of gods, demigods, and human beings, and after dinner-parties were given to all the people, and the guests had gone away to their respective destinations, General Meghanāda went to his own town.

Then, living in the central portion of a splendid palace as white as the beams of the full-moon, enjoying excellent pleasures of the senses at their appropriate moments, receiving wished-for objects immediately by the excellence of his meritorious deeds, making use of excellent garments, perfumes, flowers, ointments, ornaments etc, given by gods, becoming perfectly free from disease and anxiety, some times listening to the melodious पञ्चम Pancama (Fifth-later seventh) note of Indian music commenced by Tumburu celestial beings who had specially gone to him for rendering service to him, some times in respectfully observing the dramatic performances of celestial damsels dancing before him, sometimes deciding seriously subjects under discussion, and sometimes giving occasional and frequent visits to his parents, Vardhamāna Kumāra thus began to pass his days in perfect happiness.

110. Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra was clever (in all arts and sciences) competent in keeping his promises, extremely beautiful, adorned with all virtuous qualities, sincere, modest, famous, son of Jnātri Kshatriyas, the Moon of the clan of the Jnātris, possessing excellent body-constitution, son of Videhadattā, born of Videhadattā, (Trisālā), very delicate as a householder (but very firm in enduring hardships during ascetic life) and he led the life of a house-holder for thirty years.
 When his parents went to the world of the gods (i. e. died) and when with the permission of Nandivardhana and other elderly members (of the family), he had fulfilled the promise (the firm determination of not renouncing the world during the life-time of his parents that he had made in his mother's womb.)

[After the lapse of a few years, Yaśodā became pregnant and in course of time she gave birth to a girl whose soles of feet and palms of hands were tender, whose limbs were lovely with exquisite beauty, and who was actually the Goddess of Wealth and Prosperity. At an appropriate time, she was named Priyadarśanā. The girl grew up with careful fondling and she was married with Jamālī by king Nandivardhana after the Dīkṣā of Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra.

When Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra was twenty-eight years old his parents following the religious doctrine of the Tirthankara Bhagavān Śrī Pārśva Nāth, took their seat on a bedding of Kuśa grass, wasted their bodies by abstaining from every kind of food and drink material, and on death were born as celestial beings in Acyuta devaloka and they will certainly attain मोक्ष Mokṣa Final Emancipation in Aparā Mahāvideha during their future third Bhava. Yuvarāja Nandivardhana and other members of the royal family filled with extreme sorrow, then cremated the dead body of his parents and having performed the ceremonies suitable for the occasion, all of them went away to their respective places. The Sun as if unable to see the sorrowful event reached the Sun-set Mountain, the evening twilight seemed as if weeping by the yelling of birds, the beds of lotuses seemed as if to be shedding tears on account of the bees going away from them, and the Moon rose as if with the object of chastising young females afflicted with bereavement of their beloved ones, and as if for the purpose of pacifying the minds of the royal family burning with the pangs of separation caused by the death of the parents of Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira.

At day-break with the rise of the Sun, on seeing Yuvarāja Nandivardhana suffering from the outburst of most unbearable sorrow, and surrounded by females of the harem and all the kinsmen agonized with the pain of separation, Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira said:—

पिअमाइभाइभइणी-भज्जापुत्तत्तणेण सव्वेऽपि ।

जीवा जाया बहुसो, जीवस्स उ एगमेगस्स ॥ १ ॥

1. Pia māi bhāi bhainī-bhajjā puttattanēṇa savve'pi;
Jīva jāyā bahuso jīvassa u egamegassa.

[पितृमातृभ्रातृभगिनीभार्यापुत्रत्वेन सर्वेऽपि ।

जीवा जाता बहुशः जीवस्य तु एकैकस्य ॥ १ ॥

- Pitr matr bhrātr bhaginī bharyā putratvena sarve'pi;
Jīvā jāta bahusaḥ jīvasya tu ekaikasya.

1. All living beings have repeatedly been born as each other's father, mother, brother, sister, wife and son.

"O brother! Now leave aside your sorrow. Think about the highest and most excellent object of this life. Sorrow is useless. Because, the God of Death whose uncontrolled behaviour is irresistible is un-mannerly like a terrible lion; union and diversion are sure to be visible and invisible in a moment like a dream; a momentary lovely affection is fickle like the colors of a rain-bow; even the virtuous fulfilment of a promise is often deceitful (curved) like a bow; wealth is momentary like the colours of the evening twilight; various diseases and anxieties are difficult to be set aside like huge snakes; there is absolutely no significant cause of remorse or hindrance in this world. Follow your Correct Judgment. Abandon the devil of enjoyment. Perform your duties. Because this event is an absolutely common occurrence." On hearing these words of deep consolation, their attachment of love became less and the vehemance of their grief slackened.

The next day, at an auspicious moment, shown by fortune-tellers, clever in the real truth of the Science of Astrology, Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira was repeatedly and in various ways requested to accept the throne, but as he did not like to burden himself with the vagaries of the management of a kingdom and as he did not accept it, his brother Nandivardhana was installed as the ruling king in place of his father, king Siddhārtha.

The entire clan of Jnāta Kṣatriyas paid homage to Nandivardhana, the grandees of the town welcomed him cordially, the feudal chiefs acknowledged service under him, the servants bowed down before him and the chiefs of boundaries adored him. In this way, Nandivardhana was proclaimed as a sovereign ruler.

One day, Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira addressing King Nandivardhana and his own kinsmen sitting with their domestics said "O magnanimous people, The determination previously made by me has now been fulfilled. I have done my duty. Now slacken the ties of मोह Moha, Infatuation. Help me in accomplishing my religious duties, and give me your permission to accept the vows of an ascetic." On hearing these words—unbearable like the blow of a thunder-bolt,—they said "O prince! the grief of the deceased parents has till now been rankling our hearts as it was like a broken thorn lodged there-in, and now this unexpected separation from you will become unendurable like the sprinkling of salt on a wound. Ah! we are so unfortunate that such calamities befall us in succession!" With these words, they began to lament bitterly. Śramana Bhagavān Mahāvīra tried to pacify their minds with sweet words. Then, stopping the flow of tears with utmost difficulty and preventing the force of the grief which had suddenly become fourfold, they said "O Supreme Lord! Have compassion for our life, and abandon for the present, your longing for accepting the vows of ascetic life. Even after accepting an ascetic's vows, you are to take care for the protection of the lives of animals, then, is it inappropriate to afford protection to the hearts pierced by the saw of unendurable separation? On becoming separated from you, but ignorant of the passable or impassable way, like a blind man, and helpless like a foreigner, we are unable to maintain our lives even for a moment." Śramana Bhagavān Mahāvīra then said "If it be so, now say out after an accurate lengthy consultation, when you will give me permission to take Dikṣā. They said "After the lapse of two years, you can renounce the world." Śramana Bhagavān Mahāvīra said Well, let it be so, but you should not be particularly anxious about my food etc. They said "Very well, we shall do as you like." Commencing from that very day Śramana Bhagavān Mahāvīra abandoned all sinful enterprises, left off the drinking of cold (unboiled) water, took food free from living creatures, observed extraordinary celibacy, gave up bathing, anointing, taking care of the body etc, and washed his hands feet and other parts of his body only with boiled water (free from living organisms)

In this way, Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira passed one year. Although Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira left off bathing, anointing, and putting on of ornaments, the lustre of his body resembled the brilliance of twelve Suns combined together. Although Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira was wearing the dress of a house-holder, he appeared like a mass of self-control. Besides, although he was a house-holder, his indifference (to worldly objects) was so wonderful that it would astonish the minds even of great sages who had subdued their passions.]

[Eventually after the lapse of one year, when Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira,—the crest-jewel of the worlds—was thinking about वार्षिक महादान Vārṣika Mahādāna, (the giving of valuable gifts lasting for one year,) the lion-seated throne-glittering with a mass of jewels-of Śakra who was sitting happily in Saudharma deva loka, began to quiver readily. On knowing the resolute determination of the mind of Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira through the medium of Avadhi Jñāna, Sakrendra becoming greatly delighted with horripilation, got down from his lion-seated throne, advanced seven or eight steps towards the Lord, and having extolled him began to think thus:—"The last Tirthaṅkara Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira is desirous of giving वार्षिक महादान Vārṣika Mahādāna, and it is my important duty to supply him with the necessary wealth." With this idea in his mind, Sakrendra ordered the demi-god Vaiśramaṇa thus:—"You deposit the articles of wealth suitable for gifts in the palace of Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira." Accepting the order of Sakrendra by lowering his own head to the surface of the ground and feeling himself highly contented, Vaiśramaṇa demi-god, ordered Tiryak Jrambhaka gods and respectfully honouring his order, they commenced to shower heaps of gold shining like the brightness of the rising Sun. Then, every-day with a proclamation at triangular places and squares, at places where four roads meet, at places with doors on four sides, on high roads and on such other places to protected and unprotected individuals, to travellers, beggars, invalids and foreigners, to people encumbered with debt, to poorly-clad pilgrims, paupers, and to others desirous of acquiring wealth, to ask for gifts without reserve, Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira used to have gifts of gold given away continuously. Gifts worth one crore and eight-lac gold coins were continuously given away during one day. By giving uninterrupted gifts of gold, the fame of Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira, spread over Magadha, Bengal, Mysore, Kalinga, Saurāṣṭra and other countries. The people of those countries, used to talk among themselves:—

“Let us go and see the mighty Lord. Besides, by getting gifts of gold, we shall be able to remove our miserable state in this world and on account of meritorious Karmas accruing from beholding him, we shall be able to secure provisions for our journey to the next world. There is no other remedy for escaping from terrible miseries during the next life. Let, therefore, Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira be our chief shelter.”

With such ideas in mind, numerous beggars from distant countries used to come to Kundagrāma and many returned home with their wished-for desires fulfilled. In this way, although the streets of Kundagrāma Nagara were wide, they became narrowed down by being crowded by passengers walking with difficulty through them. The treasure seen by the auspicious eyes of Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira appeared like gold under the benign influence of his compassion. Whenever Bhagavān went into the courtyard of his palace, the ground appeared beautified as if with a big कल्पवृक्ष Kalpa Vrakṣa, Wishing Tree. As giving became identical with solicitation, the kinsmen of the giver extended everywhere the words “देहि देहि Dehi dehi,” “Give, give.” The people appointed for giving gifts used to tell the servants every day, “Place jewels in this spread-out cloth and fill this vessel with gold for suppliant persons.” In this way, the giving of gifts continued repeatedly for one year. The Jineśvara Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira gave uninterrupted gifts to individuals in bad condition. In the same manner, others desirous of Final Emancipation should invariably follow the practice. How can any one who, becoming infatuated with wealth which is the source of all evils, longs for it, keep his soul steady in the ritual observance of difficult austerities? Following, therefore, the praise-worthy example of Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra, devout individuals possessing wealth but desirous of ascetic life, should also act accordingly. When the gifts were thus being given every day, king Nandivardhana ordered his attendants thus—“O good people! Let many dining-halls be prepared in the principal localities of the town, and let them be furnished with completeness of ample materials for food, drink, chewing, and savoury articles, and let heretics, house-holders, or such other persons suffering from hunger or overcome with thirst who happen to come there on foot or in a palanquin or who come there with their eyes widening with joy, be respectfully given articles of food etc of the four kinds. Besides, let elephants of Manda and Bhadra varieties be stationed all round at various localities, excellent horses as swift as the horses of the chariot of the Sun, be kept everywhere, let chariots be kept at several places, let excellent clothes be placed in many quarters, and let villages, mines, dwelling-places etc. be shown and give every body whatever article he asks for.” The servants saying “Just as your Majesty orders” went and did all the work ordered by the king. Thus, during one year, Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra gave gifts alike to a king or to a pauper without any hindrance to any body,—gifts worth three hundred eighty-eight crore and eighty lac gold coins,—which was a source of extreme joy to all living beings and satisfied the desires of beggars with gifts of gold.

When the beggars, whose violent miseries of poverty were removed by the showering of the वार्षिकदान Vārṣika Dana (the giving of gifts lasting for one year), returned home immediately with a splendour difficult to behold on account of (their possessing) well-equipped horses, heaps of clothes ornaments etc, and when their wives were assured by themselves (of their identity) on oath, they were addressed (with amazement). Husband ! Who are you ? by libertine people whose laughter was obstructed.

2. These varieties of gods requested Jinendra Bhagavān Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra, "Lord! Establish the religion of the law which is of supreme benefit to all living beings of the world.

knowing it to be their duty through the medium of Avadhi Jnana, they immediately went to Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra accompanied by their respective retinue. Respectfully bending their heads low and as if worshipping the Lord with the fragrant Mandāra flowers falling down from their heads, they began to request him thus with sweet words:-Victory to you ! O worshipful master ! vanquisher like a terrible lion equipped with powerful claws, of the elephant-like god of Love. Obeisance to you ! O highly compassionate Soul ! you are always ready to protect the whole Universe disregarding your own work and you are like the Sun in expanding the lotus-like forest of the family of the Jnāta Kṣatriyas. Can a dull-witted man like me ever know the real meaning of the objects of the Universe and also of objects outside it in the perfect way perceived by you ? Of what value is the brightness of the fire-fly when compared with the brilliance of Sun capable of removing darkness in a moment by a stream of its rays. However, O Lord of the Universe ! Knowing it to be our duty we entreat you with the object only of reminding you a little, O Supreme Lord ! Now, you commence an ascetic life and speedily establish the religion of the Tirthaṅkaras with the object of removing the misfortunes of persons burning with the maladies of a this world. Now show the Path of Emancipation obscured by the darkness of false beliefs of very illiterate sectarians by the light of your excellent Knowledge. Let people take a beverage of the nectar of your speech as if from an ocean filled with gems possessing various strange miraculous powers and with water of Compassion. Let all the people becoming greatly delighted, by hearing your extraordinary ascetic life, say out your stories till the end of this world." Becoming doubly resolute in his efforts by these words of the courteous gods, Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra became the more desirous of the happiness of Final Emancipation.

Lord of the world ! Establish the religion of the Tīrtha-ñkaras which benefits living beings of the whole world. It will bring the blissful happiness of Final Emancipation to all living beings in all the world. Saying so they raised a shout of victory.

 turned towards the East and the (first) Pauruṣī (period of three hours after Sun-rise when the shadow attains the length of a man) was full and over, on the day called Suvrata in the muhurta called Vijaya, in the palanquin Candraprabhā, Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra was followed on his way by a train of gods, human beings and demi-gods, and surrounded by a multitude of conch-blowers, discus-welders, soldiers bearing plough-shaped gold ensigns on their necks, men carrying others on their backs, professional bards, and bell-bearers and was addressed by them praising him and welcoming him with these pleasing etc. words:—

114. Victory, Victory to thee, gladdener (of the worlds) Victory, victory to thee, fortunate one ! Luck to thee ! conquer the unconquered senses with undisturbed knowledge, intuition and good conduct. Defend the conquered Law of the Śramanas. O Lord ! conquering all obstacles, live in Perfection. Vanquish the wrestlers—Love and Hate, Girding your loins vigorously by penance, overcome the eight Karmas—our foes—with excellent pure meditation. O Vira ! being careful, raise up the Banner of Success in the arena (of wrestling) in the three worlds. Gain the most excellent, supreme Knowledge called Kevala which is free from obscurity. Dispelling the army of obstacles, acquire the pre-eminent highest rank Mokṣa (Final Emancipation) on the straight road taught by the best Jinas. Victory, victory to thee, the best bull (the chief lord) of the kṣatriyas ! many days, many fortnights, many months, many seasons, many half-years and many years, do not be afraid of hardships and calamities; bear patiently dangers and terrible events and may you be free from obstacles in your religious practices. Thus they raised a shout of victory. (114)

On hearing the sound of musical instruments and the clamour of gods and human beings, the females of the town leaving off their work, went out and they astonished others by their various actions.

These were some of their actions:—

1. Some young female made marks with lamp-black on her cheeks and applied a collyrium to her eyes with musk, some put on an anklet on her neck and a neck-lace on her feet.

2. Some tied a neck-lace round her loins and some put on a ringing foot-ornament (furnished with small bells) on her neck; some dyed her feet with a paste of Gośīrsa sandal and anointed her body with an ointment of red lac.

3. Some young female half-bathed, with water dropping down, and her braid of hair loose, caused terror when first encountered, but when recognized, to whom will she not create laughter ?

4. It is strange that some silly young female even with her under-garment dropping loose, but kept there only by the string held in her hand, having gone there, was not ashamed, (because) all the people were eagerly intent on seeing the Jineśvara.

5. To whom will not a young female, abandoning her crying child, and taking hold of a young one of a cat in (her) hand and going away speedily having placed it on her loins—create an occasion for laughter ?

6. Some used to say:—O ! Excellent Beauty ! O ! Great Splendour ! This much luck in a slender body ! I invoke benediction on the hands of Fate who created such an architecture.

7. Some woman with her cheeks expanding and very eagerly desirous of seeing the face of Śrī Vira (Śramana Bhagavan Mahāvira) was not aware of her gold ornaments slipping down and falling at a distance.

8. Some fickle-eyed females welcomed Vardhamāna Swāmi with quantities of pure pearls from their lotus-like hands; some sang auspicious sweet songs; and some of them very rejoicingly danced.

115. Then, Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra, gazed on by thousands of rows of eyes, praised by thousands of rows of mouths, greeted by thousands of rows of hearts, well-remembered by thousands of series of wishes (that we may become his votaries), entreated because of his beauty, comeliness, and virtues, pointed out by thousands of rows of forefingers, accepting by (a waving of) the right hand the salutations of thousands of rows of joined hands of many thousands of men and women, passing along a row of thousands of palaces, greeted by the melodious and delightful sound of music such as performance on Viṇā, beating of time by clapping of hands, musical instruments, singing and beating of drums, mixed with the sound of shouts of victory, and gentle pleasing sound of the people, accompanied by all his royal insignia, all his splendour, all his army, all conveyances, all his retinue, all his followers, by all manifestation of might, by all his beauty, by all the tumult, by all kinsmen and acquaintances, by all the throng of townsmen, by all actors, by all time-beaters, by all his harem, adorned with all the splendour of flowers, scented robes, garlands, and ornaments; accompanied at the same time by the sound and echo of all musical instruments; and followed by King Nandivardhana, accompanied also by great beauty of royal insignia, by great splendour (of ornaments etc.), by great army, by a great throng, by the great sound and echo of musical instruments (and tumult of people), namely of conch, drum with a clay body—drum with a woden body,—large drum—cymbals—Kahala (a kind of wind instrument), hudukka (beating ram) dundubhi (celestial kettle-drum)—went right through the town of Kuṇḍapura. Having gone, he went to a park called Jnāta-khaṇḍa Vana, and proceeded to the excellent Aśoka tree.

116. Having proceeded, he caused his palanquin to be placed under the excellent Aśoka tree, descended from the palanquin, and having descended, he took off his ornaments, wreaths of flowers, and finery with his own hands.

It is said,

अंगुलीभ्यश्च मुद्रावलिं पाणितो वीरवलयं भुजाभ्यां झटित्यङ्गदे ।

1. Śrī Jineśvara speedily removed a series of rings from his fingers, vīra-valaya (armlets indicative of might) from his forearm, bracelets from his upper arm, neck-lace from his neck, ear-rings from his ears, and the diadem from his head.

Having removed (them), he plucked out his hair in five handfuls with his own hands. When the Moon was in conjunction with Hatthutarā i. e. Uttarāphālgunī constellation, he after fasting for two days and a half without drinking water, put on a divine robe, and quite alone, un-accompanied by any other person, he plucked out all his hair, and leaving the house he entered the state of houselessness. 116.

When the Lokāntika gods after requesting Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra had gone away to their respective celestial abodes, Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra got up from his lion-seated throne, and went to King Nandivardhana and his Kṣatriya kinsmen, followed by some domestics. On seeing Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra coming to them, they advanced seven or eight steps forward towards him, gave him their due respects and offered him an elegant lion-seated throne for his seat. As soon as Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra took his seat on the throne, King Nandivardhana and other members of the family took their appropriate seats.

Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra, then addressing them with a speech, pleasant like nectar, naturally sweet, devoid of repetition, and full of dignity, said, O beloved of the gods ! The limit of your appointed time has now been reached. The time for renouncing the world has arrived. You, therefore, willingly give me your permission, remove the ties of affection, and strengthen your mind which is timid of separation."

On hearing these words, their throats became choked up, and stopping the current of sorrow with extreme difficulty and as if they were making visible their long-lasting mass of affection by the continuous flow of tears from their eyes, they said "O worshipful Lord ! when you are talking thus, our ears are really adamant that they do not become deaf. Our hearts are made of a material as hard as a diamond that they are not split up into hundred pieces with a crackling noise. Our bodies are the abodes of such ungrateful materials that they do not, till now, undermine themselves into the lowest regions. Under the circumstances, how can our humble speech be utilized in giving permission for the subject under discussion ? Who will be our means of safety for saving us from falling into the ocean of difficult undertakings ? Or, who will grace the famous Jnāta-kula which is illustrious in the three worlds without you who are respected by the gods, demi-gods and kings of kings ? Ah ! We are unfortunate that this precious gem is missing from our hands". Uttering these sorrowful words, and becoming disappointed, they bowed down low before the Lord and requested him thus:—"O venerable Lord! Now that you are ready to renounce the world, please allow us to celebrate your Dikṣā Mahotsava, at least for our happiness". In this way, by the entreaties of his kinsmen, Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra accepted their request for celebrating his Dikṣā Mahotsava, as great men are always afraid of refusal of a request.

King Nandivardhana then ordered his servants, "You now make speedy preparations for a very costly anointing suitable for Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra. The servants, saying "Just as your Majesty orders", went for their respective work. They kept in readiness one thousand and eight pots of gold and other materials, brought holy waters and excellent medicaments of all the sacred places, and prepared a paste of gośirṣa sandal-wood and other scented substances.

Becoming astonished by the quivering of their celestial thrones, and knowing the real state of affairs through the medium of their Avadhi Jnāna, the thirty-two Indras, with their extensive eyes resembling a blooming hundred-petalled lotus-flower, appearing beautiful by their glossy and shining tufts of hair resembling a heap of collyrium, being in the blessed bloom of their youth, with their bodies anointed with a liquid paste of sandal-wood, shining with flowers suitably hovered round by humming bees and with soft celestial garments, with their mouths adorned with rows of teeth as white as Jasmine-flowers or the pith of a concha, with their heads glittering with diadems shining by a multitude of rays, with their bodies decorated with numerous ornaments, who were pleasant to look at and were extremely beautiful, who had canopies, flags and various other ensigns on them, who were surrounded by innumerable multitudes of attendant gods and who filled up the sky with the noise of kettle-drums, mridaṅga drums, wind instruments, tilima, ram-drum and other musical instruments approached the Jineśvara Bhagavān and having saluted him by going around him three times from right to left in the form of a pradakṣinā and feeling themselves perfectly satisfied with excellent devotion, they sat in the courtyard of the palace beautified with the impression of the feet of the Jineśvara.

Delighted with joy, Acyutendra ordered his gods "O gods ! You make preparations for a grand celebration of Dīkṣā Mahotsava of Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira. The gods bowed down respectfully before Acyutendra and filling up numerous pots of gold and other materials with waters of the Milk Ocean, and made ready for him innumerable flowers and other excellent material of anointment. Acyutendra then joyfully performed the inauguration ceremony of Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira with one thousand and eight excellent pots of gold and other materials filled with water mixed with celestial medicaments and perfumes in his palace, along with all his retinue. In the same manner, consecutively the Moon, the Sun and other Indras performed the inauguration ceremony. Having done the anointing, all of them took their appropriate seats.

King Nandivardhana, with a heart full of devotion and careful attention, gave Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira, a bath with pots of gold and other materials filled with waters of sacred places and perfumes. While the bathing-ceremony was going on, some Indras began to move golden whisks of yāk tail very slowly before him, some held umbrellas more white than hundred-petalled white lotus-flowers, some held most excellent glass mirrors in front of him, some held pots filled with fragrant waters of milk-ocean and covered with sweet-smelling lotus flowers in their hands, some stood up holding vessels for burning incense made of precious stones of five varieties with dark cloudy smoke issuing from the burning of scented aloe-wood, camphor and other materials for preparing incense, some Indras stood holding flower-garlands of five colours rendered dark-coloured by the wasps attracted there by their perfume and other gods and goddesses began to adore him. When the ablution-ceremony was over, King Nandivardh- and had another lion-seated throne erected in the North and he had a washing-bath given to Śramana Bhagavān Mahāvira with gold pots full of clean water. The body of Śramana Bhagavān Mahāvira who was sitting on the throne with his face directed towards the East, decked with ornaments, was wiped dry with a scented and soft cloth, liquid sandal paste was applied to his body. He put on celestial garments as white as crystal, wore a loin-girdle set with precious stones of five varieties, put on a necklace of pure pearls on his extensive chest resembling a marble slab of Kanakacala (the Rising Sun Mountain), and he had put on ear-rings in-laid with valuable gems brightly illuminating his cheeks. A diadem of precious gems was placed on his head and the Indras of the gods and demi-gods decorating him with flower-garlands of five colours and scented powders, paying homage to him with their heads bent low to the surface of the ground, and uttering hundreds of benedictions, began to praise him thus:—O the only brother of the world! May you, with the greatest ease, conquer in a moment, the extremely powerful wrestler (i. e. Moha) who is invincible to the living beings of the three worlds including the gods and demi-gods. May you show the Path of Final Beatitude to devout individuals following the wrong path by dispelling the darkness of False Belief by the rays of the Sun of Knowledge. May you carefully preserve your duties of ascetic life! May you conquer राग Rāga, Affection, द्वेष Dveṣṭ, Hatred and other unconquerable passions till the time you are able to attain Kevala Jñāna, and O worshipful Lord! May you have a resting place in our hearts! May the gods make the directions reverberate everywhere by constantly singing your virtuous qualities! May your white fame spreading like the stamens of lotus flowers, throughout the three worlds, attain everywhere the beauty of the disc of the rising Full Moon! May the deer-like bad religious pioneers, becoming agitated with fear on seeing your immense lion-like strength, run away to distant places!" Having thus extolled the virtuous qualities of Śramana Bhagavān Mahāvira with these true benedictions the kings of the gods had dramatic actings performed there. With stoppage of celestial amusements, king Nandivardhana burning with the fire of separation from the would-be Arhat, called his servants into his presence and said "O beloved of the gods! Let a palanquin named Candraprabhā, fifty dhanus long twenty-five dhanus wide and thirty-six dhanus high, containing an elegant altar decorated with a variety of Svastikas (auspicious signs 卐) made with liquid saffron mixed with sandal-paste, a palanquin equipped with a lion-seated throne inlaid with various jewels and with a steady foot-stool, a palanquin furnished with jingling bells causing the directions to resound with the sweet noise of their charming tinkling sound and furnished with hundreds of banners and flags of various colours, be prepared for the use of the Lord of the world" The servants rejoicing on hearing the words of their master, did everything as was ordered to them.

Acyutendra, then, greatly delighted with joy, ordered his gods to prepare a palanquin,—similar to Candraprabhā—equipped with big columns in-laid with jewels and decorated with strings of pearls hanging there, in which figures of rainbow were created in all the directions by the rays of precious stones of the five varieties, and which was extremely wonderful to look at, and had it placed within the Candraprabhā palanquin.

Vardhamāna Swāmi, adorned with ornaments for hair and clothes, ornaments of various kinds for the body, and flower-wreaths of various kinds, and observing a three-days fasting without food and water, then got up from his seat, and going three times round the Candraprabhā palanquin from right to left, took his seat on the lion-seated throne in it with his face towards the East. Then an elderly woman of the family, becoming pure by a bath, and putting on an excellent state-costume took her seat on a state-chair on the right side of the Bhagavān, holding a cloth interwoven with figures of swans. His wet-nurse took her seat on the left side. A beautiful young female attired with costly garments and various ornaments took her seat on the back holding an umbrella furnished with a border of strings of pure pearls hanging from it and a gold staff supporting it. On each side of her, two young females were sitting, waving two chowries as white as well-washed silver. In the north-east corner, a very charming young damsel was sitting with a jewelled vase filled with pure water and with a sprout resembling the trunk of the Indra's elephant. In the south-east corner, a beautiful girl was seated holding a fan with a gold handle, spreading the rays of various kinds of precious stones in her hand. In the rear portion of the palanquin, the Indras of the gods began to hold up umbrellas of gems as bright as snow, silver, Jasmine flowers or the beams of the Moon, with a handle of diamond, with one thousand and eight ribs (of an umbrella) rendered more elegant with garlands of flowers. Saudharmendra and Isānendra began to wave chowries as white as nectar, snow or a heap of foam on each side of Vardhamāna Swāmī.

Now, by the order of King Nandivardhana, one thousand handsome, healthy, and strong persons of equal age, anointing their bodies with a paste of sandal wood after bath; and appearing beautiful with excellent garments and various kinds of costly ornaments, came forward rejoicing with horripilation and thinking themselves extremely fortunate on having accomplished all their cherished objects, and instantly raised up the Candraprabhā palanquin on their shoulders. As the palanquin moved onward, Saudharmendra supported the upper extremity of the southern portion of the palanquin on his shoulder, Isānendra supported the northern portion and Camarendra and Balindra supported the lower extremity of the southern portion and the northern portion respectively of the palanquin on their shoulders. The remaining Bhuvanapati, Vāṇa-vyantara, Jyotiṣka and Vaimānika Indras supported the appropriate extremities of the palanquin on their shoulders. What more? the human beings rejoicing extremely with joy, first took up the palanquin on their shoulders, and then the Indras of the demons, Indras of gods and Indras of the serpent-gods supported it on their shoulders. When Vardhamāna Swāmī left his palace, the sky began to blaze up wonderfully by the brilliance of the gods of the four varieties coming and going through it. The vault of the sky appeared beautiful by the gods like a group of blossoming trees in autumnal season or like a lotus-lake by a mass of flowers just as a forest of white mustard-plants or hemp-plants or Aśoka trees or sesamum plants or of mango trees appears beautiful in flowering time, and a forest of linseed plants, or ailanthus plants or of campaka trees (Michelia Champaca) appears beautiful by their flowers, in the same manner, the vault of the sky appeared beautiful with gods. Besides, the sound of the kettle-drum, tabor, cymbals, drums, conches and other musical instruments played by human beings on this earth and by celestial beings in the vault of the sky was constantly diffusing everywhere.

After the Candraprabhā śibikā (palanquin) in front, eight auspicious signs—Svastika and others—prepared with jewels of various kinds, moved on in regular order one after the other. Then, pots filled with water, magnificent mirrors, banners, and tall flags flowing high with wind, moved on. Then, a tall magnificent umbrella resembling the orb of the moon, with a spotless staff made of diamond, and ornamented with hanging wreaths of Koranta flowers, moved forward. Then, a lion seated throne with a foot-stool of jewels, and precious stones and with jewelled foot-prints carried by numerous servants, moved on. Then, one hundred and eight swift horses possessing graceful gait and charming neigh decorated with costly cloths and beautiful ornaments, whose flanks ornamented with reins of gold were decorated with bright mirrors and who were ridden by young persons, moved on one by one in regular order. Then followed one hundred and eight excellent elephants of Bhadra variety, well-constituted physically with regard to the seven parts of their bodies with a number of auspicious signs on them ornamented with stars of gold and emeralds, whose white teeth were fixed in a tube of silver overlaid with a border of gold, and who were ridden one by one by clever mahouts. Then came one after another, one hundred and eight chariots, equipped with canopies, flags, bells, ensigns, excellent portal arches, and musical instruments of twelve kinds, prepared from the wood of Tiniśa tree growing on the Himālayas, furnished with strong wheels and yoke-poles to which spirited horses were yoked, and in which small bells were creating a loud jingling noise and thirty-two quivers were kept. Then walked one hundred and eight fully equipped warriors carrying various weapons in their hands and desirous of laughing out other soldiers by their valour. Then walked an army of cavalry, elephants, chariots, and infantry. Then moved on a huge Indra's banner, one thousand yojana high, hoisted on a strong adamantine staff, furnished with thousands of small flags of various colours and a variety of umbrellas, ornamented with flower-garlands in which bees were producing a pleasant humming noise, filling up the vault of the sky with the charming tinkling of small bells swinging to and fro with wind, as if it were a mass of fame or a visible path of Mukti (Final Emancipation), or trying to measure the vault of the sky by its height and carried respectfully by gods. Then followed many Brāhmaṇa mendicants, bald-headed hermits, ascetics wearing braided hair, clowns, actors, jesters, songsters, players on musical instruments, and dancers, playing and laughing, uttering shouts of victory, invoking benedictions and extolling the virtuous qualities of the Lord. Then walked mighty Kṣatriyas, royal princes, distinguished persons, heads of corporations, with their retinue, some on foot, some in chariots, some on horse-back, some on elephants, and some riding in palanquins went in front of the Lord. And after them followed numerous gods and goddesses accompanied by a retinue of hundred celestial cars, hundred banners, and hundred domestic gods surrounding them.

On this auspicious occasion, King Nandivardhana, putting on costly garments and valuable ornaments, mounted a lordly

rutting elephant, and appearing beautiful with umbrellas held over him and white chowries waved near him, and followed Vardhamāna Swāmi, accompanied by elephants, horses, chariots, and an army of soldiers.

Being thus followed by a multitude of gods, demons, and human beings remaining in their right places, Vardhamāna Swāmi, with a body measuring seven hands, with a form of body equal in four directions, with adamantine constitution, with breath as fragrant as that of a lotus, devoid of dirty perspiration, filthy secretions, stain, dust, filth, and other blemishes, illuminating the directions by the radiant beauty of his body, with the mass of his charming glossy hair, as black as a wasp, indigo or lamp, tied firmly, with his forehead appearing beautiful like the half-moon, with elegant ears of right measurements, with the eyebrows curved like the staff of a bow, with eyes resembling a full-blown lotus with white leaves, with the nose prominent and long like that of an eagle, with the lips resembling a ripe Bimba-phala (the fruit of Momordica Monodelpha) and the rows of teeth firmly adherent, well-connected, even, and white like a conch, cow's milk or pearls, with his cheeks fat and muscular, with a voice as deep as the sound of a kettle-drum or of clouds full of water, with his neck well-measured and ornamented with rows of lines turning south-wards, with his shoulders well-developed like that of a wild buffalo, a lion or a tiger, with his arms muscular and ornamented with fine hair, whose broad chest was lucky with the abode of the wealth of self-control, whose middle part of the body was embellished with excellent rows of fine hair and deep navel, whose beautiful thighs were getting plump in regular order higher up, whose ankle was hidden and well-adherent, and whose soles of feet were marked with signs of a mountain, town, alligator, sea, wheel, goad, fish-being greeted with perfumed powders by citizens from the tops of their buildings leaving aside food and drink, being welcomed by showering of flowers by gods from the skies, being invoked by celestial damsels with benedictory recitations, giving wished-for gifts, and being praised by celestial bards—eventually entered the grove, named Jñātakhaṇḍa where big trees were appearing beautiful with fresh sprouts, where gentle wind mixed with the fragrance of flowers of all seasons was spreading in various directions, where the rays of the Sun were obstructed by the branches of tender trees full of leaves, where celestial fairies were amusing themselves, enraptured as it were, by the extreme loveliness of the natural scenery, where bees attracted by the fragrance of flowers spreading in all directions were roaming about without caring to go to another forest, which on seeing Vardhamāna Swāmī coming to it was as if inviting him readily by extending sprout-like hands set in swinging motion by winds like a beloved person seen after a long time, which was welcoming him as it were, by the soft note of peacocks overpowered by an excess of intoxication, and which was as if worshipping him with flowers falling down by a gust of wind—What more can any one write about the grove which was defeating the beauty of Nandana Vana by the splendour of its charms and which was sanctified by the lotus-like feet of the Tirthaṅkara ? Having entered the grove, Vardhamāna Swāmī got down from the Candraprabhā śibika (palanquin), and, as soon as he removed his valuable garments, ornaments, flower-garlands etc. from his body with his own hands under the Aśoka Tree and placed them there, the elderly woman of the family, having picked them up like pearls dropping down from a string of precious pearls, and having placed them in the silk cloth interwoven with figures of swan, began to weep mournfully, and addressing Vardhamāna Swāmī with a speech faltering with sorrow, said, O darling ! You are born in the Kāśyapa gotra. You are the son of King Siddhārtha. You are, like the autumnal moon in the sky, a gladdener to the race of Jñāta kṣatriyas. You are born from the womb of Trīśalā-devī of Vāśiṣṭha gotra. You are a highly distinguished personage among the kṣatriyas. You possess a celestial body endowed with full bloom. You are extremely tender and handsome. You are wonderful with unparalleled beauty, charm, and brilliance.

You are renowned in the three worlds and you are clever in all arts and sciences and in moral codes. Now, how will you endure the pains of severe austerities? O child! You carefully observe the great vows whose practice is like guarding against a sharpe-edged sword. Do not be afraid in the least of the sufferings of very terrible endurances. During your ascetic life, you are always to maintain your body on pure meagre food obtained by going from door to door, and you are to abstain yourselves from living in towns and villages. How can I say anything to you who have Perfect Knowledge? But endeavour to attain speedily the happiness of Mokṣa (Final Emancipation)"

King Nandivardhana with his kinsmen and retinue, burning with unbearable pangs of separation, and with eyes filled up with an unceasing flow of tears, knelt down reverently at the feet of Vardhamāna Swāmī and they took their seats nearby.

Then, accepting the words of the elderly woman of the family, Vardhamāna Swāmī plucked out the entire hair of his head and beard by five handfuls with his own hands, and the mass of hair was taken away from the hands of Vardhamāna Swāmī into a divine cloth by the Indra with his head bowed down low before him. After the ceremony of plucking out the hair was over, the mass of hair which was as black as a mass of thick clouds, and which was curved (crooked) like the heart of a wicked man, was thrown by the Indra, with the permission of the Lord into the Milk Ocean.

After Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra had plucked out his hair in five handfuls (as described above) he paid obeisance to all Liberated Souls, saying नमो सिद्धायं Namō Siddhānam, Obeisance to all Siddhas (Liberated Souls), and taking the five Mahā Vratas (Great Vows) of Sarva Virati Samāyika Vrata (vowing to do no sinful act) of ascetic life, with the utterance of the under-mentioned Sūtra of the vow of abstaining from all sinful acts, he put on a divine garment given by the Indra and adopted the holy conduct.

The following is the Sūtra of Sāmāyika Vrata:—

करेमि (भंते !) सामाद्वं सव्वं सावज्जं जोगं पच्चक्खामी जाव-जीवाए तिविहं तिविहेणं' इत्यादि

“ Karemi (bhante !) sāmāiam savvam sāvajjam jogam paccakkhāmī jāvajjivāe tiviham tivihenam ” ityādi.

I take (O Supreme Lord !) a Vow of Renunciation and (promise to) abstain from all sinful acts, so long as I am alive, in three ways (by mind, speech, and body) three times (I will not do a sinful act. myself; I will not have it done by some one; and I will not approve of others doing it) etc.

At that moment the whole assembly of men and gods stood motionless like the figures on a picture. At the command of Śakra, the clamour of men and gods and the sound of musical instruments suddenly ceased when Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira chose the holy conduct.

Day and night following that conduct which is a blessing to all animated and living beings, the zealous gods listen to him with joyful horripilation.

The five Mahāvratas (great vows) of Sarva Virati Sāmāyika Vrata of ascetic life with their clauses are the following:—

“ The first great vow runs thus:—

I renounce all killing of living beings whether subtle or gross, whether movable or intmovable. Nor shall I myself kill living beings (nor cause others to do it nor consent to it). As long as I live, I confess and blame, repent and exempt myself of these sins, in the thrice three fold way.* in mind speech and body.

There are five clauses,

* I. e. acting, commanding, consenting, either in the past or the present or the future.

The first clause runs thus:—

A Nirgrantha is careful in his walk, not careless.

The Kevalin assigns as the reason, that a Nirgrantha, careless in his walk, might (with his feet) hurt or displace or injure or kill living beings. Hence a Nirgrantha is careful in his walk, not careless in his walk.

This is the first clause (1)

Now follows the second clause:—

A Nirgrantha searches into his mind (i. e. thoughts and intentions). If his mind is sinful, blamable, intent on works, acting on impulses, produces cutting and splitting (or division and dissension), quarrels, faults, and pains, injures living beings or kills creatures, he should not employ such a mind in action; but if, on the contrary, it is not sinful etc, then he may put it in action.

This is the second clause. (2)

Now follows the third clause:—

A Nirgrantha searches into his speech; if his speech is sinful, blamable etc. (all down to) kills creatures, he should not utter that speech. But if, on the contrary, it is not sinful etc. then he may utter it.

This is the third clause. (3)

Now follows the fourth clause:—

A Nirgrantha is careful in laying down his utensils of begging; he is not careless in it. The Kevalin says:—A Nirgrantha who is careless in laying down his utensils of begging, might hurt or displace or injure or kill all sorts of living beings. Hence a Nirgrantha is careful in laying down his utensils of begging, he is not careless in it.

This is the fourth clause (4)

Now follows the fifth clause:—

A Nirgrantha eats and drinks after inspecting his food and drink; he does not eat and drink without inspecting his food and drink. The Kevalin says:—If a Nirgrantha would eat and drink without inspecting his food and drink, he might hurt and displace or injure or kill all sorts of living beings. Hence a Nirgrantha eats and drinks after inspecting his food and drink, not without doing so,

This is the fifth clause (5)

In this way, the great vow is correctly practised, followed executed, explained, established, effected according to the precept.

This is Sir, the first great vow: Abstinence from killing any living beings I.

ii The second great vow runs thus:—

I renounce all vices of lying speech (arising) from anger or greed or fear or mirth. I shall neither myself speak lies nor cause others to speak lies, nor consent to the speaking of lies by others. I confess and blame, repent and exempt myself of these sins in the thrice threefold way, in mind speech and body.

There are five clauses.

The first clause runs thus:—

A Nirgrantha speaks after deliberation, not without deliberation. The Kevalin says: Without deliberation, a Nirgrantha might utter a falsehood in his speech. A Nirgrantha speaks after deliberation, not without deliberation.

This is the first clause (1)

Now follows the second clause:—

A Nirgrantha comprehends (and renounces) anger, he is not angry. The Kevalin says: A Nirgrantha who is moved by anger, and is angry, might utter a falsehood in his speech. A Nirgrantha etc.

This is the second clause (2)

Now follows the third clause:—

A Nirgrantha comprehends (and renounces) greed, he is not greedy. The Kevalin says: A Nirgrantha who is moved by greed, and is greedy, might utter a falsehood in his speech. A Nirgrantha etc.

This is the third clause (3)

Now follows the fourth clause:—

A Nirgrantha comprehends (and renounces) fear, he is not afraid. The Kevalin says: A Nirgrantha who is moved by fear, and is afraid, might utter a falsehood in his speech. A Nirgrantha etc.

This is the fourth clause (4)

Now follows the fifth clause:—

A Nirgrantha comprehends (and renounces) mirth, he is not mirthful. The Kevalin says: A Nirgrantha who is moved by mirth, and is mirthful, might utter a falsehood in his speech. A Nirgrantha etc.

This is the fifth clause (5)

In this way, the great vow is correctly practised, followed, etc.

This is Sir, the second great vow. ii

iii The third great vow runs thus:—

I renounce all taking of anything not given, either in a village, or a town, or a wood, either of little or much, of small or great, of living or lifeless things. I shall neither take myself what is not given, nor cause others to take it, nor consent to their taking it. As long as I live, I confess, blame etc. (all down to) body.

There are five clauses.

The first clause runs thus:—

A Nirgrantha begs after deliberation, for a limited ground, not without deliberation. The Kevalin says: If a Nirgrantha begs without deliberation for a limited ground, he might take what is not given. A Nirgrantha etc.

This is the first clause (1)

Now follows the second clause:—

A Nirgrantha consumes his food and drink with permission (of his superior) not without his permission. The Kevalin says: If a Nirgrantha consumes his food and drink without his superior's permission, he might eat what is not given. A Nirgrantha etc.

This is the second clause.

Now follows the third clause:—

A Nirgrantha who has taken possession of some ground, should always take possession of a limited part of it, and for a fixed time. The Kevalin says: If a Nirgrantha who has taken possession of some ground, should take possession of an unlimited part of it and for an unfixed time, he might take what is not given. A Nirgrantha etc.

This is the third clause (3)

Now follows the fourth clause:—

A Nirgrantha who has taken possession of some ground, should constantly have his grant renewed. The Kevalin says:

If a Nirgrantha has not constantly his grant renewed, he might take possession of what is not given. A Nirgrantha etc.

This is the fourth clause (4)

Now follows the fifth clause:—

A Nirgrantha begs for a limited ground for his co-religionists after deliberation, not without deliberation. The Kevalin says:—If a Nirgrantha should beg without deliberation, he might take possession of what is not given. A Nirgrantha etc.

This is the fifth clause (5)

In this way the great vow, etc.

This is, Sir, the third great vow.

IV The fourth great vow runs thus:—

I renounce all sexual pleasures either with gods or men or animals. I shall not give way to sensuality etc. (all as in the foregoing paragraph down to) exempt myself.

There are five clauses.

The first clause runs thus:—

A Nirgrantha does not continually discuss topics relating to women. The Kevalin says:—If a Nirgrantha discusses such topics he might fall from the law declared by the Kevalin, because of the destruction or disturbance of his peace. A Nirgrantha etc.

This is the first clause (1)

Now follows the second clause:—

A Nirgrantha does not regard and contemplate the lovely forms of women. The Kevalin says:—If a Nirgrantha regards and contemplates the lovely forms of women, he might etc. A Nirgrantha etc.

This is the second clause (2)

Now follows the third clause:—

A Nirgrantha does not recall to his mind, the pleasures and amusements he formerly had with women. The Kevalin says:—If a Nirgrantha recalls to his mind the pleasures and amusements he formerly had with women, he might etc. A Nirgrantha etc.

This is the third clause (3)

Now follows the fourth clause:—

A Nirgrantha does not eat and drink too much, nor does he drink liquors or eat highly-seasoned dishes. The Kevalin says:—If a Nirgrantha did eat and drink too much, or did drink liquors and eat highly-seasoned dishes, he might etc. A Nirgrantha etc.

This is the fourth clause (4)

Now follows the fifth clause:—

A Nirgrantha does not occupy a bed or couch affected (belonging to or close by) by women, animals or eunuchs. The Kevalin says:—If a Nirgrantha did occupy a bed or couch affected by (belonging to or close by) women, animals or eunuchs, he might etc. A Nirgrantha etc.

This is the fifth clause (5)

In this way, the great vow etc.

This is, Sir, the fourth great vow.

V. The fifth great vow runs thus:—

I renounce all attachments (pleasure in external objects) whether little or much, small or great, living or lifeless; neither shall I myself form such attachments, nor cause others to do so, nor consent to their doing so, etc. (all down to) exempt myself.

There are five clauses.

The first clause runs thus:—

If a creature with ears, hears agreeable and disagreeable sounds, it should not be attached to nor delighted with, nor desiring of, nor infatuated by, nor covetous of, nor disturbed by the agreeable or disagreeable sounds. The Kevalin says:— If a Nirgrantha is thus affected by the pleasant or unpleasant sounds, he might fall etc. (see above IV. I.).

If it is impossible not to hear sounds, which reach the ear, the mendicant should avoid love or hate, originated by them.

A creature with ears hears agreeable and disagreeable sounds.

This is the first clause (1)

He who is well-provided with these great vows and their twenty-five clauses, is really Houseless, if he, according to the sacred lore, the precepts, and the way, correctly practises, follows, executes, explains, establishes, and, according to the precept, effects them. ”

Ācārāṅga Sūtra (H. J.)

At that moment, the gods, goddesses and aeriāls on the earth and from the sky and human beings threw all around Vardhamāna Swāmī, an excellent highly perfumed fragrant yellow powder accompanied by buzzing bees, which made the whole living world fragrant with its perfume and which intensely beautified the vault of the sky by its reddish-brown colour. Incense-pans containing burning sandal-wood, musk, ambergris, camphor, and other fragrant substances and covering the directions by columns of dense smoke coming out from them, were placed in every nook and corner, and the vacant part of the world was filled with the deafening sound of victory.

The Śākrendra, then, placed a spotless divine cloth on the left shoulder of Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira, who had removed garments, ornaments, and wreaths of flowers from his body.

At this moment, Manah-paryāya Jñāna (knowledge suitable for Thought-Reading) became manifest as if with the object of helping the Jineśvara in bearing the immense burden of an extraordinary ascetic life.

Then, Vardhamāna Swāmī, extremely powerful in conquering the magnitude of Moha (Infatuation) by the strength of his mighty arms, and firm like Mount Meru, remained in deep meditation with perfect relinquishment of body, and the gods of the four kinds, citizens, king Nandivardhana, and others, having bowed down low with devotion at the feet of the Lord, went away to their respective destinations.

During that age, at that time, there lived (was) Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvira, the following five events of whose life happened when the Moon was in conjunction with the asterism Uttarāphālgunī (whose next is Hasta) viz 1. In Uttaraphāl-gunī, he descended from Prānat (tenth) deva-loka (heaven) and assumed the form of a foetus in the womb of Devānandā.
2. In Uttarāphālgunī he was transferred from the womb of Devānandā to the womb of Trisālā kṣatriyāṇī. 3. In Uttarāphālgunī he was born. 4 In Uttarāphālgunī he left his house, renouncing the world and having accepted ascetic life entered a state of houselessness and 5 In Uttarāphālgunī he obtained Kevala Jñāna (Perfect Knowledge)...In Svāti, the Venerable Saint acquired Mokṣa (Final Emancipation)

The under-mentioned five events of the lives of all the Tirthaṅkaras are considered as पञ्चकल्याणकानि Panca kalyāṇakāni, the five most auspicious moments of their lives viz. 1 च्यवन Cyavana, Descent from a deva-loka and taking the form of a foetus 2 जन्म Janma, Birth. 3 दीक्षा Dikṣā, Renouncing the world and entering a state of ascetism (houselessness) 4 केवलोत्पत्ति Kevalotpatti, Acquisition of Kevala Jñāna (Perfect Knowledge, and 5 मोक्ष Mokṣa (Final Emancipation).

Out of the five events of the life of Śramaṇa Bhagavan Mahāvira, which happened during the asterism Uttarāphālgunī, the four viz—His 1 च्यवन Cyavana, Descent from Prāṇat deva loka and taking the form of a foetus in the womb of Devana-ndā 2 जन्म Janma, Birth 3 दीक्षा Dikṣā, Renouncing the pleasures of the world and entering a state of ascetism and 4 केवलोत्पत्ति Kevalotpatti, Acquisition of Kevala Jñāna (Perfect Knowledge, are really the auspicious moments of his life. These four, together with the attainment of मोक्ष Mokṣa (Final Emancipation) constitute his पञ्चकल्याणकानि Panca kalyāṇakāni, the five most auspicious moments of his life.

गर्भापहार Garbhāpahāra, Removal of foetus from one womb to another which is included in पञ्चदशसूक्ते as one of the events that happened in Uttarāphālgunī cannot be considered as an auspicious event.

Because,

1 It is a very strange event.

2 It is a very dirty contemptible and inauspicious occurrence.

3 It had been adopted as a very rare contingency only once during thousands of Avasarpinīs and Utsarpinīs.

4 Tirthaṅkaras are invariably born in noble families. Previous to the time of Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra, no Tirthaṅkara was ever born in a low family. All of them were from noble royal families.

On account of his acquisition of an evil Karma of being born in a Nīca gotra (low family) by his proudly boasting of his birth in a very noble family during his third previous Bhava, as Marici Muni (he being the son of Bharata Cakravartin, a grand-son of Bhagavān Śrī Rīṣabha Swāmi (first Tirthaṅkara and a would-be Tirthaṅkara himself) Vide Chap VI. Vol I. Part I) and in accordance with the inexorable Law of Karmic Theory, Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra suffered numerous hardships by his birth in low families during many future lives, and as a result of a part of that evil Karma remaining to be experienced, Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra had to take the form of a foetus in a low family and remain for 82 days in the womb of Devānandā. During the night of the eighty-third day, the foetus was removed from the womb of Devānandā to the womb of Trīśalā kṣatriyāni by god Hariṇegamaīṣi under orders of Śakrendra.

5 It was done by Śakrendra solely with the object of averting the birth of Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra in a low family out of his devotion towards the Lord and it was also his established custom to do so.

6. Had it not been done and recorded, an anomaly—amounting to mentioning an absurd statement i. e. Conception took place in the womb of Devānandā and Trīśalā kṣatriyāni gave birth to the child—would arise.

7. It has been included in Panca Hatthuttare simply as one the events taking place in Uttarāphalguṇi owing to the sameness of the asterism as it also had happened in Uttarā-phālguni.

8. Such an occurrence cannot be considered as one of the most auspicious events of a Tīrthaṅkaras life.

9. The most important auspicious events of the lives of all the Tīrthaṅkaras are five, not six. The dates, times, nakṣatras etc. of the five auspicious events are reverently remembered by devout Jains, and fasting, austerities etc, are done with the object of attaining the exalted position acquired by them.

In the commentary by Abhaya Deva Sūri to Yātra Pañcāśaka Grantha by Śrīmān Haribhadra Sūri, in Trīśaṣṭhi Śalākā Puruṣa Catrītram by Śrīmān Hemachandrācārya Sūri, in Śrī Mahāvīra Cariyam by Śrī Guṇacandra Sūri and in many other works the following five most auspicious moments of the life of Śramaṇa Bhagavān Mahāvīra, are mentioned viz 1 च्यवन and गर्भसंक्रम Cyavana and Garbha samkrama, Descent from deva-loka and taking the form of a foetus on Aśādhā Sud 6, 2. जन्म Janma, Birth on Caitra Sud 13. 3 दीक्षा Diksā, on Mārgaśīrṣa Sud 10. 4 केवलं Kevalam, the acquisition of Kevala Jñāna (Perfect Knowledge) on Vaiśākha Sud 10, and 5 मोक्ष Mokṣa, Final Emancipation on Amāvāsyā of Kārtika (Āśvina according to Gujarāṭi Calculation).

If there were any sixth auspicious event, its dates etc. should also have been mentioned. But there being none it is not so recorded in the Siddhāntas.

Page 4 Line चइस्सामि Caissami, I will descend etc. Six months previous to the expiry of their term of living as a celestial being, the gods experience several untoward signs viz:-

Six months previous to the expiry of their term of living as a celestial being, the gods experience the undermentioned signs viz:—Withering of (their) wreaths of flowers, shaking of the Kalpa Vrakṣa, loss of prosperity and beauty, discoloration of garments, dejection, lassitude, enjoyment of sensual pleasures, collapse of the body, delusion of eyesight, trembling and discomfort.

But gods who are to be future Tirthaṅkaras possess their full splendour and prosperity even during that period.
